

Forgive My Ex-husband Chapter 280

Since the call had been hung up, Jonas was sure that it was Emily who had done this. Jonas was holding the phone more and more tightly, as if at this time he was holding Emily's neck.

He thought it might be a clue and was ready to tell his friend.

"I was about to call you. Your wife was really kidnapped." As soon as the person at the other end of the line picked up the phone, a dandiacal voice sounded, but a hint of seriousness was revealed in the voice.

According to the data, the person was a recidivist. He knew well to hide his whereabouts and even used the anti-tracking method.

Indeed, there was a difference, but it was funny in the police's eyes. It was not difficult to find out the specific direction, but it was a little troublesome.

"Have you found out anything?"

Jonas asked in a deep voice. He then drove to the police station. He felt so desperate being alone without a head.

His friend, Carlos Chen, could not help but frown at the monitoring video on his computer screen.

"We've found his car, but he was very crafty. He avoided the route of surveillance several times and we are not sure whether he would change the car or not," Carlos said. They specifically used some small streets to hide their tracks and make hallucinations so that it would be more difficult to search.

Although A City was very busy, there was no way that there was surveillance cameras in any place. It would be a waste of time to contact the nearby stores for the surveillance video.

"Your wife often had accidents. Why don't you put a locator on her?" Carlos said. 'The rate of Melinda's missing is really high,' he thought.

Generally speaking, people relied on mobile phone to locate their position. At this time, Melinda's mobile phone was located in the flowering shrubs outside the company.

"It must be Emily who did this to her. You can ask people to locate her," said Jonas, who was suddenly enlightened. Carlos then quickly arranged his men to investigate the situation.

Without stopping the search on both sides, Melinda went far and finally the car stopped.

The night breeze was a little cold. The moment the door was opened, Melinda shivered all over.

Emily looked at Melinda with a smile and pinched her hard on the waist. She covered her waist in pain and reached out her hand to grasp Emily.

She even did not catch the corner of Emily's coat, then she was pushed aside by a man aside. Emily sneered and got out of the car first.

with some moisture. She wore a white dress, against the back of the seat, hoping to move away the thing that covered her eyes. Her behavior was extraordinarily ridiculous in other the man said, but Melinda turned a deaf ear to him. Soon after, she was arrested as if just now.

lowered her head and bit in a certain direction. An instant pain was heard, and

"Damn it!"

his arm and wanted to give Melinda a good

Melinda was still struggling.

She yelled as she grabbed she knew was that she should wrong and save her. Melinda

You haven't taken her out yet." After waiting for a long time, Emily couldn't help but look back and her voice came, Melinda's body stiffened. The men directly carried her off the car, not caring about she was a was not safe. At

at the void. She was sure that Emily in the front stopped and looked at Melinda, with an almost cruel smile on the corner of her dress, and she dressed like an angel, but she was to do?" said Emily, rubbing her own fingers. Thinking that they would not be noticed here, she stretched out her a very dark place. Looking in the distance, she saw something similar at

at Melinda with a sinister smile, the smile was full of tricks, which made Melinda maniac!" Melinda screamed. The men around her all ignored her. Melinda was almost overwhelmed by despair.

Didn't you and slapped violently on Melinda's face. Melinda, who was dizzy before, fell off the beach grabbed a handful of sand and threw it at Emily. However, her hands were tied and she was unable and then she asked two men to grab

While speaking, Emily mercilessly shook all the her just now was mostly because of Melinda, Emily couldn't help been no one by the sea and she said she would make her be was becoming more and more vicious. She didn't even care about human life.

not willing to come. There was a very broken house not far away the bright moonlight illuminated the sea surface, making people look delicate. Listening to time, and by the sea, the moist