

Forgive My Ex-husband Chapter 286

After receiving the phone call from Emily, Melinda was in a bad mood. When she went back home at night, she even didn't want to talk to Jonas.

It could be said that Jonas returned to the start line, and the change in the morning made him feel that he could get her to open up.

But the ending was always not as people thought.

Both Jonas and Nelson felt it strange. It could be a moment before the two had an argument. But in a day, the situation would be like that of enemies loving each other?

Jonas wanted to ask what had happened to Melinda, but he knew well that he couldn't get anything out of her character, so he stopped asking and asked Ted to investigate it.

Today, Melinda went to a lot of places and saw a lot of people. Finally, he found that she received a strange phone number which was checked in arbitrarily. It was impossible to find out who was calling.

At the same time, Jonas received a call from Carlos, saying that he had been out on a task and came back today. A colleague in the police station said that Emily was bailed out. This person had a strong background.

"My colleague won't say who it is. You can ask your men to investigate. The crooked ways of yours are better to beat us," Carlos said unconcernedly. He always admired Jonas for his crooked ways of doing things.

He liked to engage in the police profession, but there was no education about whether it was right or wrong. In his opinion, as long as one thing could not do harm to the interests of good people, the fastest way was the best. He didn't care if it was in the dark.

"Well, I see. Did they put you in a difficult position?" Jonas still remembered to take care of his bro. After all, Jonas was the one who want to put Emily in jail, and what the person did was obviously against him.

"No. Who am I? They dare not trouble me,"

Carlos said calmly. The people who could make friends with Jonas were either a little bit rich or a little bit powerful. As long as he didn't accidentally offend an important person, it was not a big deal.

It didn't matter if he offended someone. Most of the time, he could deal with it properly and then he could escape.

Hearing that there was nothing wrong, Jonas didn't talk anymore and directly arranged Ted to investigate Emily's bail.

Compared with Carlos's method, Ted's was much more simple and crude. First, he asked their men to go to the police station. If they couldn't get the result, they would hack into their network.

When Ted saw the person who released Emily on bail, he was eager to know how his boss would deal with this matter.

Besides, he was the general manager hooked up with this man. Now the matter Zhang has a bad temper. It's not easy to get along with him." Ted came in with a pile of paper in William to make an appointment with him. It's a must," said Jonas. He handed the materials of contact to know him like the palm of his hand these documents were superficial, but clever people in the company. But it was easy for her who could turn pressure it at the meeting yesterday. Melinda didn't think she would get involved in it, but in fact, it was Victor who gave her such an felt great pressure in her heart. She wanted to refuse him, but Victor were going to project for the next season. They needed to design an aesthetic background story for the much about U company, but it was reported that this company had a lot of cooperation with Jonas's Soaring Group. It would definitely be information of the company and the products this time. Generally speaking, this story should be told by the designer, but this was only a casual design by the designer, and the company thought it there was no story in it, so they came up with an idea. When he read an article, he suddenly had some inspiration.

all, inspiration was a difficult thing to get. As long as the product was good and there was a purpose of this story was to make the products look was worried that she could not handle this case well. After thinking it over, she still was upset by Colin's affair, so he smiled when he that Melinda seldom called Jonas recently. He was overjoyed, but he also quickly asked what you familiar with a moment and didn't understand why Melinda began to care about his work. After that, she told him honestly about the cooperation between a company for no reason. After thinking for a while, Jonas told her all don't think I can do it well," Melinda said sadly. She felt that she was put in a passive had no other choice at this moment.

about the details through video in wechat." Hearing this, Jonas soon understood that it was because of business. Melinda came to him thought of him made him happy.

it made sense. So she found the earphones and made a video call with Jonas. In order not to let others see Jonas in at Melinda's movement on the other side of the computer, Jonas was speechless, but he soon made use of the situation and analyzed with her.