

Forgive My Ex-husband Chapter 325

Emily had put on so many dramas that she could really make up the story. She made up all this today. But fortunately, she was still a thorn in the side of Melinda. She believed it.

As she waved her hand to the two men, they left silently. The closed room now was left with only Melinda and Emily.

One was desperate, but the other was more and more happy.

Leaning against the wall in the corner, she looked very sad, but there was no tears on her face. She was heartbroken at this moment.

She didn't know what to do now, but there was a shout in her heart that she would be safe without that man, Jonas.

From now on, it also can be good even she was alone.

'No, I have a baby. '

She seemed to be lit up with hope.

"Will you really leave him?" Emily asked incredulously, but the excitement in her words. She seemed that she would definitely leave.

Melinda nodded without saying anything. Emily took out Melinda's phone from nowhere and handed it to her.

"Now that you have made up your mind to leave, you can call him right now and tell him that you want to break up with him since you have an abortion."

Emily said. She had been looking forward to it for a long time. Melinda took the phone silently, but she hadn't dialed Jonas' number.

"You can be heartless, but it doesn't matter. As long as he believes that you lose your child, he will not want to be with you anymore." Emily continued arrogantly.

The more Melinda heard, the more heartbroken she became. Finally, she dialed the number of Jonas.

Jonas was in a meeting, but he answered the phone immediately. When he left, Ted was stabilized automatically.

"Linda."

When he called her name, he was very gentle, as if he was treating the most precious treasure in the world to him.

Hearing this gentle voice, she recalled what Emily had just said, and a disgusting feeling surged up in her throat.

"Jonas..."

When she called out this name, she seemed to have used up all her strength. Her hand holding the phone became tighter and tighter, and it seemed to turn red.

She said in an unusual tone, Jonas and immediately felt it. Just as he was about to ask what was wrong, he heard those words, and Melinda said them ruthlessly.

"I have had an abortion. Let's break up."

lost all color in an instant, and it began to collapse again.

was Emily's greatest happiness. They would you know what you are

Jonas thought she was joking.

in her hand till it became feeble, she finally sneered love him anymore. Her heart the most suitable for her, and the phone and you let me go now?" Her eyes were full of sadness, and her previously bright eyes, which were like stars, now became a the wall. Her every movement was so painful that it made other hand was still holding her belly. She had

"Let her go."

they stood aside very door step by step. Now she just wanted to leave who had been hung up by Melinda, was a little confused. He felt strange that Melinda was he was frightened by the desperate tone of Melinda, a feeling of heartache from even felt like his heart hard

of the room to see what was going on, but when he noticed Joyce's face, he knew that the meeting wouldn't go on.

man who was promoted by Jonas personally, he knew more questions. Instead, he went back to the meeting and announced that it more and more obvious. Jonas was even a little panic, wondering whether something had happened if something had received the phone call from him. Jonas was really someone who seldom came to the an exception, of

"Mommy, where is Linda?"

was used

yet." Queena said. At that time, Melinda said she had something to deal with and would be ready didn't think too

him and it seemed that it be that something bad happened to expression changed. "Isn't at home. But today, she was not at home. Since she had nothing to do, the empty painting room, and her voice had echo.

She called me just now." Said Jonas. He tried his best to stay calm and analyzed the meaning of what Melinda just she didn't know where Melinda was asked what she wanted to do and told her son. It had been a long time since she