

Forgive My Ex-husband Chapter 332

When they arrived at the police station, they were taken directly to the interrogation room. They were separated into three cars just now. At this time, when the five brothers met, it was most likely to be the brother who was in the separate car alone.

Without the accompany of his brothers, and the man sitting next to him was the captain with the most powerful aura, he felt a little fear.

And those who could be in pairs were also educated. At this time, all of them squatted in the interrogation room, holding their heads and looking at the floor. But their eyes quietly contacted for several times.

These policemen had seen a lot of such small gangs committing crimes, and they saw that they were actually making secret signals. One of policeman pounded the table and said to them, "don't look at with each other. You will be interrogated separately later."

The captain had arranged two policemen to interrogate one of them, while the others were just outside. This was actually a psychological tactic.

Although the interrogation was separated, the results were unprecedented consistent. When the two interrogation policemen handed the sorted data to the captain, he frowned deeply.

"It seems that their answers were arranged. There must be something hidden in that."

The captain said after reading it, and the others nodded in agreement.

"Let's interrogate them together." At last, the captain made the decision. Everyone else was shocked. The young policeman even began to murmur, "together?"

He always thought that the captain's idea was right, but he still felt strange at this time.

"Let's interrogate them together. Someone will make mistakes."

Another man who had been followed the captain for many years said. The interrogation room became lively again. The five people squatted together, but the big and big posture was looked like old ladies, which made people laugh.

"Tell me, what did you do by the sea just now? Did you throw someone into sea?" The person in charge of interrogation was an experienced person, and his tone and expression were good.

Hearing this, the five shook their head and said, "we did nothing.", "Nothing? What about attacking the police just now?" The interrogators asked and thought that this group of people were stubborn, and they did feel that this matter might not be that simple.

These people thought it was okay, but they didn't know that the more they acted, the more suspicious they were.

"We didn't attack the police. We defended ourselves." The man in black who said he was going to fight one on one just now began to mumble again. The others didn't know how to answer, but felt that they only needed to nod.

"Do you really think there is no surveillance camera at the seaside? Your behaviors have been photographed by the car camera." One of the policemen said. It was an unexpected finding. Who would have thought that they would be photographed for these crimes by themselves?

then realized that they had set themselves up. Now they could not deny that us a sum of money and asked us to do so. We just do things for the money." One of them complained in you think you can do such a cruel thing for money? Can you disregard your life?" One of the policeman said angrily. The by Jonas. They had known a lot about him and knew what kind of person he captain, he had a good relationship with Jonas and knew what kind of person he was. He just looked cruel, but he

The team leader was a middle-aged man with sharp eyes and brows. His eyes seemed to be able to see all the dirty things in the world.

didn't believe it." The man in Black said. He was always the man he was a little flustered in his

him, a trace of determination flashed through his eyes.

Gu is, but you didn't tell the truth from beginning to end." The interrogation police said. Thinking that they were

The man said again, determined to put the blame the truth, just let yourselves suffer." The captain said. Apparently, he didn't want lying, but the men in black insisted that it was Jonas who asked not as gentle as last time. He just created psychological pressure, but anyway, the results were the same.

policemen said. They naturally needed to learn a little bit of psychology for interrogation. From the performance of several people just now, their firm eyes did idea into their mind and convinced themselves of the lie. In this way, it the same?" Asked the captain. The interrogation man nodded, "although it's a little different, it's generally the same. After all, the case, you can contact Mr. Gu and ask him to cooperate

it had anything to do with Jonas

they stood still at this time. In the end, the captain, Jason Zhang, called him were sleeping. When the phone rang, both of them were awakened.

on her shoulder to let her sleep. Then he got out of bed and went to the balcony to answer the the screen, a touch of suspicion flashed through his mind. It was a call a

his voice was cold. He didn't say anything, but Gu, this is Jason." He said with a smile. Although he was used to the voice, he was still a little scared when often went on missions with his friends, and Jonas would remember it after a long time. Moreover, he had a Gu, there was a murder tonight. It has something to do with you. We need you to cooperate

No wonder he had a bad feeling. It turned