

Forgive My Ex-husband Chapter 37

"Mr. Gu, the patient's cooperation could aid in the treatment for depression." The family doctor was around 50 years old. The Gu family hired him since he was a student. For many years, he had been in charge of Nelson's health condition.

An apprentice, in his early twenties, with a youthful face and brilliant mind followed him around. Word had it that he was a gifted physician and was now mainly responsible for Jonas's well-being.

This time, both of them were present.

"I didn't expect her to be like this. Sorry for the trouble," said Nelson.

The doctor arrived to examine Nelson's status every month. After so many years, their personal relationship matured into genuine friendship. Nelson sighed at the thought of Yulia.

"Let's look at your body."

The doctor had learned from Gavin regarding Nelson's situation and recommended a physical examination. The most important thing for the old man was his mood. Some time ago, the affair of Jonas and Melinda annoyed Nelson, and now he became more agitated with Yulia's issue, which was in significant contrast to Nelson's present condition.

But deep in her heart, Yulia knew better than everyone else concerning her own condition. Knowing that the specialist was coming to the mansion, she acted restless and refused to cooperate. She shoved the servant that her grandfather sent out of her room.

The doctor proposed that she should see a psychiatrist and work together with the drug treatment, which may focus on medication.

Yulia isolated herself in her room and she stayed there secluded for another day. The psychiatrist tried to interact with her, but got kicked out.

"She's in morbid self-protection. It'll just make matters worse."

"I'll give it a shot."

Melinda got up and went upstairs. The servant who took care of Yulia was holding a silver tray and stood at the door looking helpless. She looked at Melinda as if she saw a rescuer.

"Give me her lunch, and you wait out here."

The servant immediately handed Melinda the tray. Yulia had locked the bedroom door, and even if they had the key, it couldn't open. She had installed another padlock from the inside.

This meant that Yulia was still sober. Melinda raised her eyebrows and knocked on the door three times in a row, making sure the person inside could hear.

"Yulia, you are such a wimp."

A mocking smile twisted on the corner of Melinda's mouth, and her tone was sarcastic. The servant next to her widened her eyes in surprise. She sensed that Mrs. Gu did not come to save a life, but to destroy one.

had a strange expression on her calm me for five years, and I've become better than I was before. But you've grown into how to get on Yulia's nerves. Maybe a depressed person couldn't Because I wanted my the servant. She had bullied her before, and now Mrs. Gu was in a different position in she would get that revenge her ears with her hands so she could block out those hurtful words. However, the echo of hair was in a terrible mess. She looked awful, not as graceful as with Melinda, she the food. Behind her, Yulia followed. Her mouth moved slowly, as if cursing on something, but no words you hate

She was the victim of oppression for the last five years. But in comparison, Yulia in Yulia's ordinary girl from a typical family. I am a member of the Gu family. Why should you glared at Melinda violently, and she thought it was her that changed everything. She became more inferior to everyone. Although she was an illegitimate daughter, no one me just because of my little regarding Yulia's background. That was the taboo of rich families. But she did not expect it to be all you. You took everything away from me. I hate you, I hate you so much, and Yulia stayed in the main villa, she had a very keen understanding of inferiority. She feared others would look down on her, so the moment Melinda showed up, she felt that Melinda was a righteous person, so she for Melinda.

down in all aspects because Nelson had viewed her her eyes. It

the person you fear and hate is getting down, turned around

would be, but they could decide their own fate and she tried her sure if what she said that day worked, but Yulia was willing the Gu family's background for between the elders. You should know that since the living environment is full of tension, Yulia is always up this predicament

home to treat Yulia with respect, then she was blunt about this matter. She understood that Yulia, as the granddaughter of Nelson, would get scold because Nelson wanted her to shape