

Forgive My Ex-husband Chapter 47

Knowing that Melinda wasn't actually pregnant, Jonas couldn't help but feel upset. Even so, he did his best not to show it. Soon after, the two went back home.

Melinda had always known that Nelson was looking forward to have a great-grandchild. Because of this, she knew that he would be disappointed to find out that she was not pregnant. Still, she had to break the news to him.

Although Nelson was in a low mood, he still put on smile. "It doesn't matter. You are still young! Don't worry, you have plenty of time to have kids," he comforted.

"I'm really sorry, Grandpa," Melinda mumbled.

Guilt washed over her at that moment—not because she failed to get pregnant, but because she actually didn't want to have another child with Jonas. It was such a complicated feeling in her heart.

"Silly girl. It's not your fault at all. The doctor said that you are just probably exerting yourself too much. From now on, just take good care of yourself and I'm sure you'll get pregnant in no time."

Nelson mistook Melinda's sadness, thinking that she was upset because she couldn't get pregnant. Unconsciously, Melinda bit her lower lip. Sometimes she thought maybe it wouldn't be so bad to have children just so that she could make Nelson happy. However, she did not want to raise children in a home that had a broken family.

Melinda was certain that her relationship with Jonas would be over sooner or later.

The news of Melinda's false pregnancy made some happy while others sad. A lot of people were highly aware of the significance of her pregnancy in this family.

Needless to say, Nelson thought highly of her, and Jonas had taken good care of her recently.

Yulia was happy that Melinda didn't get pregnant. Otherwise, she would be really worried as she wouldn't know how she should proceed.

After the two returned to their villa, Melinda turned on her computer and began to type on the keyboard. There was a lot of inspiration and ideas flooding through her mind, and she didn't want to miss it.

Jonas walked in on her, seeing her busily typing away. "Are you writing again?" he asked.

It was not the first time that Jonas had seen such a situation, but it was the first time that he asked. There was no aversion in his tone unlike in the past. Slowly but surely, he had accepted a lot of things about Melinda.

"Yes. I've had a lot of free time on my hands recently."

Yulia's fake kindness ruined everything, and since the last draft was lost, she was not in the mood for writing for a few days. Today, however, she was in the mood to get her writing done.

It was such a thrill for her to write. Whenever she wrote a sentence she liked, she couldn't help but sit back and smile to herself, admiring her work.

"What are you writing right now?"

Jonas seldom read novels, and mostly read classics and prose. Melinda looked up at him with a subtle expression in her eyes, and finally said helplessly, "I don't think you'd be interested in this."
