

Forgive My Ex-husband Chapter 89

The woman sounded depressed but Jonas was unmoved by her words. If he was the same guy that he was a couple of years ago, who knew nothing about love, he would have fallen for her tricks. But he was different now.

If Jonas was truly in love with Emily, he wouldn't have remained calm.

"I won't be attending the promotion meeting. I've already arranged everything and I've asked the casting group to prioritize you over others. I'm going to promote you and I've repaid my debt to you as well."

Jonas heaved a sigh of relief and disconnected the call before Emily could say another word. He had been confused about his feelings but he was clear now. A smile tugged at the corners of his lips when he thought of Melinda.

He couldn't wait to see her beautiful face and her magnetic smile that had the power to heal everything.

Melinda was sitting on the small yard of the villa with paintings of Japanese cherry blossoms scattered everywhere.

The faint sunlight bounced off her body, emitting a subtle glow. She looked peaceful as the wind ruffled her hair.

Jonas walked into the yard and looked at Melinda intently, trying to study her expression.

"What made you paint today?"

Melinda jerked when she heard Jonas's voice. The little flaws in the paintings irked Melinda. She glanced at Jonas, crumpled the painting into a ball, and threw it away.

Jonas understood that Melinda was still angry. He knew that it would take some time before she became normal.

Emily's face turned red with anger when Jonas disconnected the call. She gritted her teeth and threw the phone that collided with the floor and shattered into pieces. The assistant flinched and patiently waited for Emily's anger to subside. She quietly picked the pieces and cleaned the floor.

"Miss Bai, we are going for the promotion meeting tonight. Should I call the stylist?" the assistant asked, swallowing her fear.

"Yeah."

Emily was a sensible woman. She decided to make use of the TV show to gain popularity.

After perfecting the makeup and clicking a few pictures of herself, Emily went for the promotion meeting with the crew. Once the meeting was over, Emily attended the party. She found that almost all the investors were present, except for Jonas.

Emily's boss also attended the party to greet the director.

"Oh, I need to thank Emily for making a huge investment for my play. This play would not have possible without the investment of, 30 million dollars, by Soaring Group. I would like to propose a toast to Emily."

The director grinned, raised the glass of wine, and downed the contents in one big gulp. Emily took a sip of the drink as her boss eyed her with confusion.

The director inched forward. "What's the relationship between Emily and Jonas? He's always there to support her," he asked, whispering in the boss's ear.

The boss didn't have an answer to his question, so he smiled awkwardly.

a great chance to show off vague statements about their relationship, giving a chance for the media to cook up interesting stories. Emily's plan seemed to work as news and gossip about Emily did Soaring Group invest thirty million dollars on a TV and Jonas Gu

taken the

and Jonas. The company deliberately mentioned the thirty million dollars that Jonas had invested and thanked department did a commendable job in crafting sensational news about Jonas and Emily. They made sure to add public opinion to the about Emily and Jonas was one famous star, and Jonas was the mysterious heir of Soaring Group. They were the internet by storm. Her fans, haters, and just about everyone seemed to talk about began to look for interesting gossip about Emily and her fame rose the result and the operational department

Soaring Group either. Fortunately, they didn't gather around the Gu's began to invite Emily as their

a popular program that could him and William couldn't find him crew of the program asked the original guest to dress and white shoes as her silky hair cascaded down into thunderous applause as soon as she entered the stage. The host walked into the stage and greeted her.

people who love and support me, of male fans were particularly excited. "I love you, seat. The first set of questions was basic, formal questions and answered confidently. Everyone was mesmerized by her wit answer." The host smiled and winked at the audience before turning to look at Emily. "What basic qualities do you look for in a partner or do you already have a show. Almost every celebrity gave diplomatic answers but fans make me feel secure. I'm like a little lip as her face flushed with embarrassment. "We can spoil you," the spoiled by their parents. Is that the case with you as child.

would increase the views. He took advantage of her answer and probed further, friends since childhood. I left the wonderful, Emily. Could you

"Sure."

tell us something we face, capturing her expression. She was smiling fondly as her mind raced back