

Forgive My Ex-husband Chapter 94

The way from the courtyard to the bedroom was not far, but Melinda felt that it was so long, and she began to be anxious. When she approached the villa, she ignored Jonas who was behind her.

It was not until she felt that Nelson wasn't watching her that she felt relieved. Then her heart rose to her throat.

Melinda walked straight to her study, which was well-decorated. There were green plants and books on the bookshelf. Several books on the desk were opened, about the Republic of China.

The overall color of the study was light colored, but there was some warmth in some small furnishings. Melinda found a contract in the second drawer of the desk, which was signed by the two of them at that time.

"This is the only thing I have here. Are you going to let me show it to grandpa?"

Melinda slammed the papers on the desk, raised her head and glared at Jonas. The look on her face was cold and rigid, and the blue veins on her fingers were bulging. She was trying her best to control her anger.

Taking a slight glance at the document, Jonas suddenly had the impulse to tear it up. He couldn't accept it when he thought that Melinda would leave after he got the right of inheritance and.

"Don't worry."

"I'm not worried. Now you tell grandpa that I keep the marriage certificate for us. Tell me, where did I keep the marriage certificate?"

Melinda said in a rage. Jonas did that just for buying time to find a solution. Now Melinda was angry, he soon comforted her.

"It's my fault. Grandfather asked this question all of a sudden, I was too nervous that..."

"You pushed me out to face it because you were too nervous, right? Don't you think you've gone too far?"

If it were not for the last sanity that supported her, Melinda might have thrown all the books on the table on Jonas.

Her chest was still heaving sharply. It could be seen that she was extremely angry. What's more, she was flustered, and had no idea what to do.

She needed someone who would back her up, instead of being pushed away.

Therefore, what Jonas did not only disappointed her, but also made her feel sadder.

"Melinda, let's not talk about it now. Let's find a solution to the current situation. When the matter is settled, you can punish me whatever as you like, okay?"

Jonas's voice was so attractive that Melinda used to be captivated by it. But now his voice brought her back to her senses. She even wanted to give Jonas a good beating.

Sitting on the chair, with her legs trembling, Melinda looked like she was going to faint. Jonas was standing behind her. Both of them calmed down and began to think about how to deal with the situation.

"Where is our old marriage certificate?"

"No, we can't use that. The date is not right and it's indicated to be invalid." The most important thing was that it had been torn up by him a long time ago. Of course, Jonas would never tell her this thing.
