Chapter 346 Seriously Sick

“Stop.” Quincy interrupted her mercilessly. “Since you have decided to marry Lance, don’t care about other men. How Kingston is has nothing to do with you.”

“I...”

She was speechless.

Quincy was right, how Kingston was had nothing to do with her.

It would be best if they never met in this lifetime. They’d better never interact with each other again.

“I still have something to do. Please excuse me, Ms. Compton.”

Quincy finished his words and ran into Krista directly. And Krista didn’t prepare to guard against it. Fortunately, Aracely pulled her back so that she did not fall to the ground.

“Why is this man so rude?”

Aracely said in disgust.

“That doctor must be treating Kingston. Did something happen to Kingston?” She said worriedly.

“Alright, Krista, even if he is sick, it has nothing to do with you. You are not a doctor, are you? We are going back after getting the report. Luck is still waiting for us at home.”

“But...”

“Krista, you are going to marry Mr. Hamm. You’d better cut off contact with other men, especially your ex-husband. I know, he taught Carlisle a lesson for you, and you feel so grateful to him. But as you can see, Quincy doesn’t appreciate it at all, and you don’t have to show excessive passion to such a cold person. Let’s go, I’m hungry, let’s go home and have something to eat.”

Aracely pulled Krista away, but Krista had been feeling uneasy ever since she returned home.

She tossed and turned in her sleep at night, unable to fall asleep.

At this moment, her phone rang. She looked at the phone and found it was Quincy.

He had spoken coldly to her during the day, but now he called her. He must call her for Kingston.

She answered without hesitation.

“Miss Tang?”

His voice was not quite the same as usual.

“It’s me. Did something happen?”

“Can you ... come over? Kingston is in a very bad condition. He has a high fever, and now he suffers from the fever and begins to talk nonsense. The doctor has no solution. Now the doctor can’t even inject the tranquilizer to him. He has been calling your name all the time. Now only you can help him.”

“How can he be so sick?” She immediately got up from the bed.

“It’s a sort of a long story. Are you willing to come here?”

“I’ll go out immediately. Wait for me.”

“Alright, I’m already downstairs.”

She didn’t expect that Quincy had already arrived. She didn’t even have time to change her pajamas before she hurried out of the door.

Aracely heard the noise and came out. Seeing Krista was leaving, she frowned. “Where are you going??”:

“Kingston is sick. I want to see him.”

“Don’t go there. Do you still want to get involved with his business?”

“He needs me now, and I have to go there. He used to help me, and I should be grateful to him. Aracely, get out of the way.”

“Don’t go, Krista, you are not a doctor. You can’t help him...”

“Sorry.”

Krista forcefully pulled Aracely away. She still insisted on leaving.

She went downstairs as fast as she could. When she ran out of the residential quarters, she was panting and quickly got in the car.

“Why is he suddenly so sick?”

“In fact, we were supposed to go back tomorrow. The plane tickets have already been booked, but I didn’t expect Kingston to be so sick today. These days, Kingston was not feeling well. He went to business parties several times. He can’t drink too much. But he didn’t refuse anyone, and he was drunk every time. Sometimes he was still a little sober when he came back, and he still wanted to drink.”

“If this goes on, how can he not get sick? He was already in the hospital for acute gastroenteritis. He thought he was fine when he came out, but he fell ill again. The doctor said that his resistance is too weak now, and he must be taken good care of. Otherwise, he will be seriously sick sooner or later.”

Chapter 347 Kingston’s Love

“I had no choice but to ask you for help. When the matter is over, I will send you away immediately. I won’t trouble you.”

“It doesn’t matter. If there is anything I can do, I will definitely help you.”

Krista was so nervous that her heart beat very fast.

“But... why did he drink so much?”

“Ms. Compton, don’t you think it’s ridiculous to ask this?”

“What did you mean?” Krista was shocked.

“It was because of you that Mr. Lrwin drank so much! Four years ago, Mr. Lrwin could not be with you because of Sandra. Mr. Lrwin desperately suppressed his love to you. Four years later, Mr. Lrwin could finally love you liberally, but you were going to marry someone else.

“If Mr. Lrwin can forget you, I believe he will live a happy life even if he doesn’t marry anyone in the future. But Mr. Lrwin still loves you. He even deceived himself to help you. He was afraid that you would hate him.”

“Do you really think that Mr. Lrwin was destroying your love? If he really wanted to be with you, there were thousands of ways. You couldn’t even leave City D. He wanted to let you go, but he couldn’t forget you. He was distressed. Moreover, your relationship with Lance was not as deep as imagined.”

Quincy mocked

Krista bit her lips tightly. 'I know what he said was right.

But I still don't understand why Kingston broke up with me if he loved me four years ago.

All the wrong things seemed to start from the divorce.

"You said that Kingston loved me?"

"Of course!"

"Then ... then why did he divorce me? What about Sandra? And who is that child?"

"This..." Quincy gritted his teeth. 'This was the only thing that Mr. Lrwin had done wrong in his life. He regretted it, but he had indeed ruined Sandra's innocence.

If Sandra was kind, Mr. Lrwin would give her everything she wanted and would live up to her.

But Sandra was impure and had done many bad things.

Mr. Lrwin has already tried very hard to make up for his mistakes. But some mistakes that are hard to change once they happen.

"Mr. Lrwin... had no choice then. He was also an ordinary person. He was wrong. He didn't want to mention it in his life. But these were over. Sandra has died. Nothing can restrain him, except... Ms. Compton."

If Krista was unwilling to be with Kingston, Kingston couldn't compel Krista to be with him.

Kingston seemed to be ruthless, but he was kind to Krista,

Kingston never felt that he had lost to Lance.

He had only lost to Krista.

When Krista heard this, she had mixed feelings.

It was as if a huge stone had been thrown into the lake in Krista's heart, causing layers of ripples to spread out, not dissipating for a long time. 'Kingston liked me?

Kingston wanted to marry me? He was not about to take revenge on me. He just sincerely wanted to marry me?'

Krista's heart was in turmoil. 'If it was four years ago, I would definitely be very happy.

But now... Lance and Kingston all love me. I don't know what to do. Krista did not respond. It was so quiet in the car. Soon, they arrived at the mansion. When the doctor saw Krista, he was very excited.

"Ms. Compton, you're finally here. Mr. Lrwin has been calling you for the whole day."

Krista quickly entered the room.

Kingston fell into a coma and was already unconscious, speaking nonsense. But Krista could still clearly hear Kingston calling her name.

The doctor tried to needle for Kingston but failed. Because Kingston was unwilling to cooperate. The doctor failed to needle for Kingston many times. So the back of Kingston's hand was full of needle holes.

Chapter 348 Stay with Him

"He is in a very unstable mood right now. Even when he was unconscious, he refused to use the medicine. He is still having a fever after midnight. There is nothing we can do."

Krista approached him.

"Krista, Krista ... I'm sorry, Krista.."

His pale and dry lips kept muttering,

'He feels guilty towards me? Why?'

"Kingston, it's me, I'm Krista.",

She called out softly and grabbed his hand that was constantly shaking.

As soon as she grabbed it, Kingston miraculously quieted down.

"Great, it really works. Ms. Compton, please talk to the patient. His whole body is tense and will affect the effect of the infusion."

The doctor said as he injected the needle. "1... I'll give it a try."

Krista was a little shilly-shally. She didn't know what to say

“Kingston, don’t be afraid. You’ll get better soon after taking the medicine. Grandmother’s spirit will protect you in heaven, and she also hopes that you will be safe and healthy. She hopes that you will be happy every day...”

In the end, she wasn’t sure if this was what her grandmother hoped for or herself.

“Nothing must happen to you. The entire Irwin family needs you. Be strong.”

Her words seemed to have a miraculous effect, and the doctor finally breathed a sigh of relief. Kingston’s mood finally stabilized.

Krista let out a sigh of relief.

“When will he wake up?”

“I can’t say for sure. It depends on his immune system.”

“Ms. Compton, I’m going to send you back.”

Quincy was smart. He knew that it was inconvenient for Krista to come here late at night. He also did not want to make it difficult for her.

Krista nodded. This was all she could do.

With her current status, she really shouldn’t come here at night.

She got up to leave, but...

She was simply unable to break free from Kingston’s large hand..

Kingston was sick but his force was strong. It gave Krista pain when she wanted to take back her hand,

Her wrist quickly turned red, and the pain ‘made her frown slightly. “Let go. I still have to go back.”

She was a little anxious.

However, Kingston refused to let go.

“Maybe you should stay with him for a little longer, Ms. Compton.”

Quincy said awkwardly. “...”

She was about to say something when the doctor interrupted her. "It's better. What if the patient's mood is unstable again after you leave? Ms. Compton, please."

Her heart immediately softened.

Now, he was just a patient. No matter how tall and invincible he was in the eyes of others, in her eyes, he was just a person. He would die of old age, get injured, bleed, get tired, and suffer. He was not always in control.

No matter how glamorous his appearance was, it could not stop the desolation in his heart.

Only, no one could see his desolation.

"Alright, I'll stay a little longer."

"Thank you, Ms. Compton."

Quincy said gratefully.

Then, he pulled the doctor and left, leaving only the two of them in the room for a while.

Krista wanted to get a basin of warm water to wipe Kingston's sweat and apply alcohol to his armpit joint according to the doctor's method, which could reduce the fever faster.

But just as she got up, Kingston tightened his arms.

"I'm not leaving. I'm going to fetch water for you to wash up. If you don't let go, I'll be angry."

She also didn't know why she said such words to an unconscious patient.

He definitely wouldn't understand what he meant.

But the magical thing was that Kingston let go of his hand.

Chapter 349 I Didn't Do That

She blinked and the first thought she had was leaving.

She turned around and walked to the door. Kingston's painful voice came from behind.

"Krista ... don't leave me... don't leave..."

Although he sounded soft, every word he said pounded her heart hard, making her unable to bear.

He let go of her hand because he believed in her, but she actually wanted to escape.

She sighed and finally returned. She fetched warm water to wash his body for him.

Under the covers, he was topless. He wanted to cool down.

She saw the wound on Kingston's shoulder. Teeth marks were her work. She bit him hard so marks hadn't disappeared yet. Thick scabs formed.

At that time, she was so angry that she didn't think too much about it. Now that she saw his wound, she blamed herself in secret.

She must have hurt him.

She also noticed that there were other wounds besides the bite mark, which seemed to be other bite wounds.

She couldn't help but touch him. The moment she touched him, part of her memory instantly rushed back to her.

A fierce wolf suddenly pounced over. Kingston stood in front of her, and the wolf fiercely bit his shoulder. Instantly, he started bleeding.

She looked at the unconscious man and was a little shocked.

What happened exactly?

Was it her fantasy?

Four years ago, she didn't know Kingston. She didn't have any feelings for him and he hardly left her any impression.

But... why did some inexplicable memories come to her mind?

She had a headache. She didn't dare to think too much. She felt her head was about to explode.

She gasped and a cold sweat broke out on her forehead.

She quickly put away all other thoughts and focused on washing his body. Then, she used medical alcohol on him again.

After finishing all of this, she was also extremely tired. She couldn't help but fall asleep by the bed. She didn't know how long she slept, but she felt as if there was a pair of eyes staring at her in her sleep. The gaze was focused and lasting. There were unknown emotions in it. When Kingston woke up, the first thing he saw was Krista beside the bed. He was overwhelmed. He even suspected that he was dreaming and pinched himself hard.

The moment the pain came up, he smiled happily.

She really came. It was not a dream.

if it was a dream, he hoped that he would not wake up for the rest of his life.

His big hands trembled as he caressed her little face and sorted her short hair on her forehead.

He had dreamed about her face for four years and countless times.

"Krista..."

He had just woken up, his throat dry and his voice hoarse.

But every word of his was emotional.

He adjusted his posture, his head against her, and his body curled up slightly. He suddenly felt that watching her quietly like this was also happy. He couldn't control his emotions and gently leaned over, his soft lips gently kissing hers. His kiss was gentle and he didn't do other things. Time seemed to stop now.

Morning light came into the room. Krista woke up drowsily. She thought that her neck and arms would be sore because how she had slept, but she didn't expect to feel comfortable. She didn't feel any discomfort at all.

She looked again and realized that she actually had slept on Kingston's arm. No wonder her neck did not hurt at all.

His arm had turned red because of pressure.

She suddenly felt guilty.

She was here to take care of the patient, not make the patient uncomfortable.

She quickly rubbed his arm to help him recover his blood flow. "Just pretend that I didn't sleep on his arm." She stuck out her tongue and placed his arm back under his cover.

Chapter 350 | Haven't Left

Krista reached out to touch Kingston's forehead and found that his fever had gone. She sighed in relief, but her face was still very pale.

Krista checked her phone and found that Aracely had called her several times.

To avoid disturbing Kingston, Krista went out to make the call.

"What's the matter?" She asked Aracely.

"What's the matter? You didn't go home last night! Are you trying to anger me to death?"

"I will go back later. Does Mr. Hamm know?"

"He is busy preparing the wedding. I think he doesn't know.

"Then please don't tell him. I don't want to quarrel with him again."

"Why did you do that when you knew that it would cause another quarrel? Forget it. Kingston is badly ill. I know you won't leave him there alone. Hurry back. Don't get any closer to him. This man... You had suffered a lot due to him four years ago."

Krista was confused, "What do you mean?"

If it was in the past, she would not ask.

The suffering she thought was that Kingston had divorced her and Sandra wanted to die with her, which left Krista with poor health.

Krista didn't think much about other things. But ever since she came into contact with Kingston, she had had many inexplicable and familiar feelings.

mys.

Many memories that did not belong to her appeared. Krista couldn't tell if they were real or illusory.

"It's nothing. In a word, he's not a good person. His taste in women is also very bad. He caused you too much misery. You should stay away from him. Mr. Hamm is the one who loves you the most."

Hearing that, Krista felt that she had worried too much. Aracely never hid things from her.

“OK. I will go back soon. Bye.”

Krista hung up the phone and glanced at Kingston’s room.

Aracely’s words echoed in her mind.

Four years ago, this man caused her much misery...

Was that why he had kept apologizing in unconsciousness?

Krista thought, ‘Forget it. It was four years ago.’ She did not want to pursue the matter. Her grandmother had died. Sandra also died. They couldn’t come back and all the grudges had been gone.

It was tiresome to hate a person, just like loving a person. Krista would rather lock her heart up. She wouldn’t get hurt if she had no concern for others.

When Kingston woke up, he saw that his bedside was empty...

Kingston panicked. His first thought was that Krista had left him.

He knew that if she had decided to leave, he couldn’t change her mind. But he still pulled out the needle desperately and staggered out of the room. He was weak and didn’t even have time to put on his slippers.

“Sir, why are you up? You should lay in bed to have rest...” Quincy saw him stumbling. He was very worried and went forward to help him..

However, Kingston pushed him away and quickly went downstairs. Kingston almost fell down the stairs.

Krista just came out of the kitchen. She saw Kingston just as she put down the dishes.

Krista was a little surprised, “Why did you come down...”

Before Krista could finish speaking, she was forcefully pulled into his embrace. She was suddenly surrounded by his pervasive masculine aura.

Her body instantly stiffened. Her arms were hanging by her sides. Krista didn’t know what to do.

Kingston hugged himself tightly as if trying to press her into his body.

“You haven’t left yet. You haven’t left me yet.”

The moment Kingston saw her, he felt secure again.

Quincy sighed as he watched on the side.

Krista was the person that Kingston was looking for regardless of his safety. "I ... I haven't left yet. I was making breakfast for you. Why aren't you wearing your shirt and shoes? Your fever has just gone. You can't stand having it back. Go back to your room."

She said hurriedly.
