

Gary Stu 526

Chapter 526

Armand whispered, "You are right. He was indeed cowardly."

"We were born of the same mother, but you had fine clothes and good food in the Faulkner residence, and you went to the best schools..." Jack jabbed a finger at his own chest. "But inc? I had to watch that drunkard assault my mother every day!"

Jack continued. "Later, I grew up and became stronger. I luted seeing how those men used my mother. The drunkard loved to drink, so I put him inside a wine barrel. Don't you think it was appropriate that he was still drinking when he dice?"

"I told my motlicr cliat the man was dead, and she didn't have to be afraid anymore, but she died..."

Jack's eyes stung as hic gritted his teeth and went on. "Do you know how she died? Those men recorded a video and posted it online, and everywhere she went, people pointed at her, talking about her behind her back. She didn't want those things to affect my schooling, so she drove off a cliff."

He remembered how it was a cold winter's day when that happened. It was freezing because it was showing

It was also her birthday.

He had come home early from school, having bought a present to celebrate her birthday with her. She was nowhere to be found, but he soon discovered the letter she had left on the table.

asking him to go to the hospital to identify a status. What do I have?" Jack asked him disparagingly, and the corners felt like he had lost everything.

later oni, wliereupon she reached out to catch hold of him. showing him that there still existed beauty to live for in the bride and

They could only kneel on the ground and bey me to let them go. As long as I let them live and let them go, they did not care what I wished to do each other until death. Yet when problems arose, they Armand, "Tell me. Do you think Chanaca, I told myself I would take revenge on Cesar's wife and children. I wanted to destroy the Faulkner family, but..." Jack sighed.

1/2

any child. In order to save you, she was even listened, his understood that she had not willingly gone off with Jack, but rather, she had done it Armband's face. "Just now when leaving Recality Gardens, I recognized the woman with Sicven. Back then, I asked men to stop her. When Geney wanted to return to Chanaca this time, I