Chapter 971 That Bastard

Under everyone's eager gaze, Gloria finally spoke up!

"Please read this contract carefully. Article 24 clearly states that..."

Gloria went on and on about the loopholes.

Claude's lawyer was struck dumb!

There was nothing wrong with the article, but there was if it was put together with another one. Gloria was professional. She was able to find loopholes that none of them could have imagined!

How... could this happen?

Claude did not understand any of what Gloria said, but he saw his lawyer's pale face!

"Hey, who are you talking about?"

All of sudden, Nydia bit back the words that sprang to her lips!

Her eyes were wide open in shock!

Did I hear him wrong?

Nydia halted her thoughts and turned her head.

She was shocked to see George sitting behind her with a grim face!

Chapter 973 The Only Option

Claude’s face further darkened. This was the only way. He knew it but felt upset.

Halfway through her speech, Martha looked at him in a solemn way. “As for our income, whether she has soaked us or not, we will not give her. Losing the shares is terrible enough. We can’t lose our money.”

Claude gritted his teeth. “It doesn’t sound like a good idea. I won’t let her have my shares. It took us great pain to deal with Declan, and the two billion dollars she cheated out of us is all the money we’ve earned over the years. All our efforts will go to waste if we give her another billion besides the shares. How are we going to pay off our debts?”

Martha frowned and sighed, “I know how terrible it sounds, but... do we have any other option?”

Claude's face turned gloomy. He stopped talking to his wife and gave his assistant a call.

The other party quickly answered the phone. His voice was not sleepy at all. "Mr. White."

"Help me get the judge's contact information."

"Well, could you help me contact the judge? It's about the lawsuit Gloria filed against me. I wonder if he could..."

Claude sounded desperate. He didn't finish his words, but his implication was clear. The assistant, who worked for the judge, was smart enough to perceive it.

He let out a sigh. "Mr. White, I'm sorry. There is nothing I can do about it."

Now that Claude put it forward, he could give a definite answer.

Claude changed color. On second thought, he believed the assistant was trying to get more benefits.

"Mr. Holt, I know this is a bit difficult for you, but the shares mean everything to me. I hope you'll help me put in some good words. I can assure you of a generous reward, or Claude was astounded.

He was pissed off. All of them?

Before he could dwell on it, Gloria said again, “I mean, Mr. White should return all the shares.”

Claude was stupefied.

In the public gallery, Angela and Martha were both pulling long faces.

“Claude and his family murdered my father. They have no right to inherit.”

Claude’s heart lurked, and his face changed in an instant. “That’s nonsense!”

Martha and Angela were panic-stricken.

They hadn’t expected such an accusation from Gloria.

All the attention was caught.

Even George forgot his frustration. Astonishment was written in his eyes.

The judge frowned, dissatisfied with Claude’s actions. In a formulaic manner, he responded, “True or not, it will be identified.”

Claude was stunned.

He was at a loss.

He was not sure if the recording was real or fake, but they indeed had voiced their intention to kill Declan. What if Gloria was there to record it?

He was panic-stricken.

He looked at his lawyer and said, "Do something!"

The lawyer felt helpless and whispered, "Mr. White, there is nothing I can do. Whether the recording is real or not, we have to listen to it and then fire back."

"That's right! Our days are coming!" Angela sneered.

Claude laughed, "Thank you for playing along with me all these years. After I obtain the shares and become the chairman, I won't let you two suffer any grievances again."

“Nonsense! How is that possible?” Claude snapped, but those in the distance couldn’t hear him since his microphone had been muted.

Those nearby heard it.

But they ignored him. Everyone was shocked by what Gloria said.

Claude and his family did such a terrible thing?

They found it hard to believe, but such things happened. It was called human nature.

To obtain their family fortune, countless people stopped at nothing.

Their families and friends were harmed. They did all kinds of evil things.

Not a single person paid any attention to Claude. They didn’t even bother to look at him. All the eyes were on Gloria as they waited for her to continue.

In the courtroom, everyone showed a strange expression on his face. It felt like they had watched a wonderful drama without knowing the end. The cliffhanger was killing them.

However, the judge was already gone. There was nothing they could do.

Gloria stood up. She knew that the case would not be closed today.

As everyone was exiting the room, she didn't plan to linger.

Nydia and Irene also got up. They trotted over with excitement.

Nydia was thrilled and eager to know what was on the files submitted by Gloria. She was also curious about the end of Angela and her family.

It was just not the right occasion to ask about it, so she urged Gloria to go with her.

No sooner had they taken a few steps than a voice came. The speaker was trying to sound calm, but anger was hiding in it.
