

Remarriage Never And Go Away Chapter 727-731

Remarriage Never And Go Away Chapter 726

Chapter 726 The Cold Air About Jordy Dissipated

Jordy's brows were unknitted.

Even the cold air about him dissipated a little.

All eyes were on him. They were waiting to see what would happen next.

Some people believed there would be drama.

Others found him pleasant to look at. This man was special.

Although they were working in his company, they rarely had a chance to see him.

If someone were lucky enough, she might run into this man when she was coming to or going off work. Mr. Brown was always lofty and reserved. No one dared to approach or even greet him. He was always eyeing the front and oblivious to the surroundings.

And now...

He seemed to be willing to linger for Gloria.

Then...

They could take the chance to look at him.

Life is wonderful!

Some staff members had forgotten to see how Gloria would fight back. Instead, they were looking forward to Jordy's actions.

They couldn't tear their eyes away from this dashing and exalted man.

Gloria's eyes also fell on him. The encounter seemed to be unexpected.

As for Freda...

She had been aggressive and gave Gloria an attitude in the presence of everyone.

When Jordy was seen, she somehow wimped out and lost her head.

He came to Gloria's side and croaked, "What happened?"

Untroubled, she laid her eyes on him instead of rushing to reply.

The staff member, who had just spoken up for Gloria, didn't lose the chance to demonstrate her allegiance. "Mr. Brown, here's the thing..."

She unfolded the whole story.

She told the truth without exaggerating or twisting things.

There was no room for Freda to refute.

Gloria pursed her lips and remained silent.

After Jordy heard her out, the cold air about him seemed to further dissipate.

That was because of one thing he had heard.

“Jordy will shoulder the responsibility.”

He would be held accountable for her mistakes.

Remarriage Never And Go Away Chapter 726

Freda was in fidgets. In front of so many people, she couldn't argue with it.

She had planned to escalate it and tarnish Gloria's reputation.

Her manager had asked her to resign and get her pay. She had to make a scene or lose her job.

However...

Before she could escalate it, Jordy showed up in front of everyone and stood on Gloria's side. There was no doubt he would defend that woman.

Freda's eyes were full of grievances. When she saw Gloria laying her eyes on the man, she was afraid that Gloria would say something and thus said in a hurry, "Mr. Brown, you gotta believe me. Miss White's practice has aroused discontent throughout the company. She is inexperienced and incapable.

Before she could finish her words, a rebuke rang out.

"Shut up!"

Everyone looked over at the speaker.

The manager of the personnel department trotted over and wiped the cold sweat on his face. With an apologetic look, he came up to Jordy and Gloria's side.

Remarriage Never And Go Away Chapter 727

Chapter 727 Protective Jordy

"Mr. Brown, Miss White, this is my negligence. I failed to discipline my subordinate. I have asked her to resign and get her pay. I didn't expect her to make a scene in the office. This is my responsibility, and I'll willing to take any punishment."

The manager looked remorseful, "I'm responsible for the bad influence. I'm willing to bear any consequences."

He was full of guilt.

The blood drained from Freda's f Remarriage Never And Go Away Chapter 727ace.

She turned to Jordy and stated, "Mr. Brown, he twisted the facts and allowed private feelings to outweigh public duties. I handled things in accordance with the guidelines, but he asked me to resign. I don't think he's qualified to be the manager of the personnel department."

Gloria wrinkled her brows.

She was getting bored of this.

She turned to Jordy and asked in a calm voice, "Mr. Brown, what do you think we should deal with the matter?"

In an instant, all eyes fell on him.

They were waiting for his answer.

Freda tried to speak again but feared that it would annoy the man. She was on tenterhooks.

Jordy ran his eyes over the crowd and said, "Gloria is appointed by me. Her words are my words. Does anyone have a problem with it?"

The HR manager heaved a sigh of relief.

He had kissed the right ass.

With Gloria backing him up, he could throw his weight about

No one would dare to squash him again, that assistant manager, in particular.

The mere thought of that man made him disgusted.

Freda's face turned ashen.

She shook her head in disbelief. "Mr. Brown, she..."

A cold look from Jordy darted over and made her heart tremble. She didn't dare to continue.

Gloria turned to leave without looking at the crowd or Jordy.

The crowd was stunned.

Holy smokes!

That's cocky!

Her nose is in the air even in front of Mr. Brown! That's her boss!

Jordy's face clouded over as he saw her leave.

Damn woman!

She didn't walk away at once. Instead, she gave the crowd a cold look.

"Starting today, if there is another person challenging Gloria's instructions, he will pack up and quit on his own."

Freda widened her eyes in disbelief.

Just as she was trying to say something, Jordy's eyes fell on her.

"You will work in a city other than Los Angeles."

Everyone was astounded.

Holy smokes!

Mr. Brown is kicking her out of Los Angeles?

Remarriage Never And Go Away Chapter 727

His implication was clear. If she didn't leave, she would be on the blacklist. If that happened, she would not be able to find another job for the rest of her life.

Freda was dumbfounded.

"Mr. Brown..."

Jordy turned away without another glance at her.

Her face was ashen and her spirits dampened. She was overcome with trepidation.

"Mr. Brown, it was all my fault. I was wrong!" She was anxious to no end.

Jordy turned a deaf ear to it.

Most of the people all around sneered and scoffed, "Tsk, weren't you so tough? Since you want to stir up trouble, make it huge. In the end, you ensnared yourself, which is not fancy."

Remarriage Never And Go Away Chapter 728

Chapter 728 Standing Up for Her

Freda followed behind Jordy but did not dare get too close. She didn't want to give up either. She followed until the two people entered the elevator.

"Mr. Brown..." she cried out, hoping that he would open the door for her.

People looked at her with different emotions.

The manager of the personnel department eyed her and snapped, "I hope you'll give everyone an explanation for what happened today. I won't mince words. You know about Mr. Brown's personality."

left without taking another look at her work here, you'll drag down the reputation of the Collins Group. Several friends of mine failed to get asked are weird. Ask yourself, can I do those things? What Freda. In the past, she was not capable enough to challenge the waited for this day for so long. Finally, Freda reaped stick to are good for the company. If your friend were a fit, I answer. Your reputation stinks, and people are not blind. Sophistry is just self-deception. Do you think the others all feel the same way? If your approach were really feasible, Miss White wouldn't have ruled it out. Everyone believes in Mr. Brown's vision. What makes you think you can argue about that? Are you you should get the hell out of Los Angeles. Mr.

after another whereas those who were expecting Gloria's downfall kept their mouths shut due to Jordy's themselves. They would be doomed if Mr. Brown threw them out of Los Angeles

Remarriage Never And Go Away Chapter 728

"Alright, it's time to work. Go back to your posts." A supervisor stepped in. They were bored of it anyway. Following one last glance at Freda, they got scattered.

Freda was left standing there, disconcerted.

The supervisor went to her side and mused, "You're not at the end of your rope yet."

Freda looked up at the woman. Her eyes were tinted with confusion.

Since no others were around, only she heard the supervisor's remark.

This woman was the head of the sales department, but they had no connections. Freda saw the meaningful look in her eyes and blurted out, "Any idea?"

Remarriage Never And Go Away Chapter 729

Chapter 729 Jordy's Coercion

"You bet." The head of the sales department curled her lips. In her early forties, she was in good shape and looked younger than her age.

The uniform paced up her curvy body, and there was a distinct mark on the left side of her face. It was a tiny tattoo of a rose.

No one knew why she got such a tattoo on her face, but it accentuated her charm. It didn't look gaudy at all.

"Fill me in."

Freda looked the woman in the eye. Before this, they had some occasional interactions but had barely talked. This woman was an acquaintance at best but was willing to help her?

She was puzzled and lamented about her situation. None of those who had great expectations of her had stood up for her. In the end, an acquaintance did.

Humph!

How ironic!

Under her expectant gaze, Laverne Collier replied with a calm look, "Beg."

Freda shook her head and said in a bitter voice,

“How? I just cried out to Mr. Brown, but he ignored me. It’s not easy to meet him.”

“I mean Gloria,” Laverne said with assurance.

Freda’s face changed in an instant. “You want me to beg her?”

Laverne smiled with ease, “This is the only idea I can come up with. Be aware that if you want to stay, you’ll have to leave Los Angeles for good. What about your husband? What about your child? Would you like to get separated from your family or take them with you?”

Freda’s lips parted, but words would not come out. The look in the depths of her eyes was getting more and more complex. She started to regret it.

Why did I argue with Gloria? What makes me think I could do that? Gloria’s status is special and unchallengeable. Yet I acted like a wrecking ball. I must have been possessed.

She had a bee in her head.

Just then, Laverne spoke again, “This is your only option. If begging her in private doesn’t work, then do it in public or kneel at her feet. You have to get Jordy’s mercy through her.”

Freda turned more livid and gaped at Laverne. She was speechless and seemed to be questioning the supervisor. How could you ask me to kneel in front of that bitch?

Laverne forced a smile and left without another word.

Only the receptionist and she were left in the empty hall. The receptionist was far away and did not bother to talk to her.

Freda was rejected and at a loss of what to do.

Remarriage Never And Go Away Chapter 729

Jordy and Gloria were the only ones in the elevator.

It was an elevator for the staff members.

Jordy had a dedicated elevator but had chosen to follow behind Gloria.

This elevator was usually crowded.

When Jordy was taking it, however, no one dared to enter.

Everyone was going upstairs, but when the elevator came to the first floor, no one else dared to get in.

When they were about to reach the floor where she wanted to go, Jordy pressed the button so that the elevator would not stop. Gloria furrowed her brows and looked up at the man. "What are you doing?"

"Coming to my office." Jordy's face was sullen.

Chapter 730 Troublemaker

Gloria frowned but said nothing.

She thought it was about work.

Jordy followed her into the office, closed the door, and looked at her with cold eyes.

Puzzled, she stood there and waited for his instructions.

Jordy came to her side and started, "When are you going to stop doing this?"

"Doing what?" Gloria was confounded, "I don't know what you're talking about."

From before they got married till this moment, she didn't think she had stirred up any trouble.

She had been going with the flow of a normal life. During their marriage, she hadn't fought with him because he went to keep Angela company. After the divorce, she had all the less reason to do that.

Confusion was written all over her face. She acted like he was making trouble out of nothing. Jordy snorted, "Great."

She was even more puzzled.

She knew about his personality. He was not someone who cared to explain anything or make things clear.

There should be something making him think that way.

Is there anything worth making a fuss about?

She realized something and looked at the man. "Are you blaming me for driving away an excellent employee?"

Jordy was speechless.

The air about him turned colder.

Sometimes, Gloria is foolish to an incorrigible extent.

In Gloria's view, her judgment was correct. She continued, "Freda is excellent but too self-important. She sticks to her own ideas which don't conform to the project we're going to develop. I've advised her many times, but she is bent on having her way."

Besides, she was not the one who fired Freda.

She didn't explain because it was known to all that the head of the personnel department had no power in the past. Now he stood out and fired Freda. Everyone had reason to believe that she was backing him up and that it was her idea.

As his face further darkened, she added without waiting for him to speak, "You have to bear with me and kick her out for the sake of the project. You were sort of helping me build up my authority but got annoyed deep down. You believe that I'm setting myself against you, right?"

The first half of her remark somewhat pacified him, but the second half irritated him.

"Yeah, you're one troublemaker," he sneered.

They could never be on the same page.

Remarriage Never And Go Away Chapter 730

Just as I expected.

Her gaze at Jordy was calm, and there was a hint of sarcasm in her eyes.

“Back when I developed the program, I never thought of working with you. You stole the partnership, and I had to come. If you don’t want to have me here, you can just call off the project.”

Her voice was apathetic and cool.

It didn’t feel like her angry words.

She didn’t have the slightest intention of causing trouble.

Jordy was rattled.

“Gloria!” He ground his teeth.

She frowned, asking, “Anything else you called me over for?”

Jordy sneered again, “I’ve never seen another person as supercilious as you.”

Chapter 731 Face the Music

Jordy’s behavior made her feel helpless.

Since he had no important issue to talk about, she concluded, “Think about it. I’m going back to my office and continuing with my work. Call it off at any time you like.”

Without further ado, she turned away from the man.

Quick in reaction, Jordy grabbed her arm and prevented her from leaving.

Gloria wrinkled her brows and looked back at the man. "Anything else?"

He gritted his teeth. "Are you betting that I won't call off the project for the sake of interest?"

She scoffed, "The Collins family is rich. How would you care about such a small amount of money?"

"Very well." He tightened his grip and slung her to the sofa before she could resist

Dumbfounded, she looked at the approaching man. "Who is the troublemaker now?"

Jordy bore down on her. Unable to escape, she kicked him in the vitals.

As if he had anticipated it, he dodged with ease and pinned her legs down without hurting her.

Gloria bristled in an instant. "What do you think you're doing?"

He is being irrational Has he lost his mind?

Jordy gave a cold laugh. "It has not been long since we divorced. Have you forgotten how you used to love me?"

She felt a pricking pain in her heart, and it spread to every part of her body.

God knew how much effort she had made to get over the man she had missed day and night!

Now that she had gotten out of the shadows, she would not shed unnecessary tears or look back into the past anymore.

The next second saw her sneering at the man, "Mr. Collins, see a doctor if you're sick."

Emotionless, he looked at her. "Yes, I am sick and crazy to put up with you like this!"

Gloria was baffled. "Is it a hallucination that I hear such inexplicable words from your mouth?"

He had never bothered to explain anything to her. Even if he did, it would be something that broke her heart.

What was happening made her wonder if she was hallucinating.

His gaze was penetrating. In annoyance, she struggled again, but the man didn't budge. What was worse, her hand contacted his solid chest.

For a moment, they both trembled.

Jordy's eyes dimmed by a few shades.

Gloria wrinkled her brows. She had never gotten physical with him like this before. What happened the other night was just a ridiculous mistake. Although she was no longer a girl, she was still ignorant in this aspect.

“We can talk it out Mr. Collins, given our current relationship, we shouldn’t get so close.” She did her best to speak in a calm tone. Harsh words were undesirable. She would be in trouble if he were provoked.

However

Even though she said so, Jordy refused to let go of her. On the contrary, he bored down on her and spat, “Maybe because of my indulgence, you keep pushing your luck. I gave you an out, but you scored at it. Time to face the music.”