

THE GOD VIRUS

Volume 1 - 18 Smallest Gift Ever

Hearing her words Ella glared at her making her shut her mouth.

Everyone else was too stunned by his looks to talk right now which was too much out of this world, but this was also a natural reaction as everyone who saw him for the first time reacted this way.

Finally in front of them he gracefully took his sunglasses off under which eyes of different colors made everyone lost in them.

Smiling which showed his godlike crafted dimples he said "So, aren't you going to introduce me to your friends my beautiful Ella?"

Hearing this Ella blushed a little hearing him say 'My beautiful Ella' in front of her friends, but she soon came to herself and introduced him "Say hi to my boy friend everyone , he is Aizen Vee."

"Hello everyone It's a pleasure knowing you all." Virus said too.

Hearing her words everyone were shocked but Faith and Grace were less shocked as they suspected this was the case when they saw Aizen walking towards their group, but even though they had suspected these two might have gotten together but that was still only suspicion as they didn't truly believe that was true, but now they had confirmed it.

Ella continued introducing her friends to Virus then. "And these are my friends Faith York, Grace Hill, Jessica Sheen, and Mary Brown"

They all responded smilingly saying "Nice (Glad, happy) to see you Aizen."

"Same here, please continue taking care of my lovely Ella." Virus said and then continued "If you guys allow me I want to steal her from you guys and take her with me somewhere."

All of them smilingly looked at Ella in a funny way like their eyes were saying 'You lucky bitch... go have fun for now and we will interrogate you later! but their mouth said "Sure thing, sure... Ella go, see you later and have fun!"

"Haha then let's go my beauty, by everyone." taking Ella's hand into his own he started taking her away from them after they said goodbye and after they arrived beside the car Virus even opened the door for her which made every girl filled with jealousy toward Ella thinking inside 'My prince... why is it her!!! why not me(us).'

Then also getting inside the car he drove it towards a direction.

"Where are we going Ai?" Ella asked, this was what she liked to call Virus as that was how he had introduced himself the first time at the party.

"You will know it soon enough." Virus replied as such.

His destination 99 East 52nd Street, and after some time they got there as he drove until he stopped in front of a restaurant called 'Four Seasons'.

Getting of the car with Ella they went inside which was completely empty with no other customers whatsoever.

They were let to sit somewhere and after sitting Ella said "So we were going to a restaurant... and it's the Four Seasons at that! I heard that it's the place where billionaire people eat... "

"Yes, I heard it has good food so I reserved the whole place, though they didn't reserve the place but that was fixed as I offered more and more." Virus said smilingly.

"So that's why the place is empty... I thought that might be the case like in the movies, haha" Ella said laughing as she was happy her boy friend cared this much about her. freewebnovel.com

After they ordered food, wine and everything was brought to the table which they ate with joy, even Virus was amazed by the taste of the food.

Everything including the food, wine, and the service was perfect. It was like time had slowed that like there was eloquent ballet dancer dancing inside the musical notes which were roaming inside the restaurant. Everything was just too perfect.

As they were eating Virus suddenly said "Happy Valentine's Day my beautiful Ella." freewebnovel.com

"Happy Valentine's to you too Ai...you know... I'm not with you so I would not be alone and lonely in this big world... I'm with you... so you would be my only one in this lonely big world." Ella replied with a bright smile on her face as she took out something from inside his bag, opening the bag Virus saw it was filled with different kinds of chocolate and candies.

"Thank you." taking the Chocolates Virus said, he was also happy inside her woman had gifted her something even if it was just a simple chocolate as it's worth was more than just something material.

After that Virus talked again "As a gift I don't wanna give some something big... actually I wanna give you something which is the smallest gift ever, my gift to you is something that would make it possible to talk to me whenever you want."

Hearing until here Ella interrupted Virus saying "How is that the smallest thing! that's the biggest and the best gift you could ever give to your girl friend!"

Hearing that Virus smiled getting of his seat going behind Ella while saying "You will know soon enough."

taking out something like a futuristic injection device Virus pressed it behind Ella's neck but she didn't feel the slightest of pain even though a needle had gone into her spinal cord right now as the needle was too small as it almost couldn't be seen.

ELLA'S POV

Seeing Ai go behind her and press something against her neck Ella was confused but that confusion didn't take long as her vision blurred for second before coming back to her, only this time she was seeing something.

LOADING ... 12%

LOADING ... 56%

LOADING ... 71%

LOADING ... 89%

LOAD COMPLETE!

[Communication Device Loaded to the Host.]

Seeing these things Ella immediately turned super shocked, she thought she had gone crazy for a second as she stayed stunned.

VIRUS' POV

After injecting the [AI Device] to Ella Virus thought inside 'I'll only activate the communication feature unless the need to unlock the other features rises in the future.'

After thinking yo himself Virus saw Ella was still stunned laughing a little he said "don't worry my beauty you're not seeing things... I injected you with something by which you can directly connect to me whenever you want wherever you want."

"The things you see is natural as it's the visual screen interface of the device, so don't be worried." Virus reassured her.

hearing his words Ella came out of being stunned, but she was super amazed as she asked "just what is this thing, how does this even exist!"

"Well, it's a device as small as a cell which I directly implanted it into your spinal cord, which is why I said it's the smallest gift ever, and also for your other question, just know this... with your boy friend here nothing is impossible and anything can exist so no need to be too much surprised in the future." Virus replied smiling amusedly.

"Think of connecting to me and then try talking to me in your head." Virus said instructing how to use the device.

Ella did as Virus instructed and a second later a voice was heard inside Virus' head 'Do you hear me Ai?' Ella said without opening her mouth just thinking it.

Smiling again Virus replied 'Yes I do.'