Chapter 1241

"These people must be bored out of their minds. They even came to the company," Jared murmured, feeling displeased.

"Mr. Johnston, do you want to find something for them to do?" Max asked from the side.

"Only those who did not make a ruckus."

"Understood."

Jared got up and walked toward the office. Just as he sat on the chair to rest for a while, he heard a knock on the door.

"Come in." He really could not get himself a break.

"Ms. Fisher, Castor has no practical experience. What if something goes wrong without your supervision?" Jared reminded her worriedly.

"Relax, don't worry. My assistant is there to assist him. Nothing bad will happen. Even if something happens, my assistant will call." Fiorella looked very calm.

"Mr. Johnston, do you have coffee?"

'She wants me to brew coffee for her.

Jared really wanted nothing to do with her. 'Why did Henry have to sign a contract with her back then?' He picked up his phone and said, "Make a cup of coffee for Ms. Fisher'

"What's the matter? Is my assistant around?' asked Fiorella.

"There were some other matters to deal with, so he left for a while. If you're not coming, we most probably have to delay the progress." Castor explained.

Fiorella replied with slight annoyance, "All of you are a useless bunch. Give me some time, I'm going over now."

As soon as she hung up, Fiorella walked to Jared's desk and looked at him, "Mr. Jared, I'll have to attend to some matters about the project for a while. I'll come over later."

"Go on. I won't be sending you off then." Once Jared heard that she was leaving, he was inexplicably delighted.

Nicole's words hit Jared hard like a slap that he had nothing to refute.

'That is her personal matter. I have nothing to say.' Jared was still stubborn.

Nicole could see through him. 'He doesn't want to tell me the truth? That's fine. I'm not that interested in it anyways!'

"You should pay more attention to Martin's matters. He needs your help." Nicole looked at Jared solemnly. Then, she stood up and walked out.

'Nicole, where are you going?' Jared immediately asked her.

Nicole did not reply to his question and walked straight out of the office.

From the window, Jared watched Nicole drive off in that Lamborghini. He quickly picked up his phone and called her. But even after a few calls, no one picked up the phone. Jared knew that Nicole was angry at him, so she would not take her calls. He stopped bothering her and thought of explaining everything to her clearly when he met her at night.

Then, he returned to his desk and continued working.

"That's not right. I remember Nicole was happy when she came back." Tia took some time to think and replied to Jared confidently.

Jared was confused by Tia's response. 'No matter what, Nicole would not return happily. Unless...she lifted her finger on Fiorella? This seems like the only possibility.'

At that thought, Jared could not help but sigh. 'I guess things have gone too far this time around. I should've just explained everything clearly to her earlier at the office.' Then, he decided to head upstairs and clear things up with Nicole.

Jared stood up and was about to walk to the stairs. Tia assumed he was about to leave, so she said, "Mr.
Johnston, you've just arrived, and you're leaving already?"

"No, I'm going upstairs to see Nicole." After Jared had finished speaking, he wanted to head upstairs.

"Upstairs? Mr. Johnston, don't you know that Nicole had already left?" Tia replied while looking at Jared

In the meeting room, Martin and Claus were checking the recording taken during the investigation.

Jared's footsteps were approaching the meeting room. Then, Claus was the first to notice Jared's shadow. So, he politely walked over and opened the door, "Mr. Jared."

"Yeah."

Hearing some noise, Martin looked at the door and found that Jared had arrived. Martin stood up and looked at Jared, "Mr. Jared, you're here."

"Did you manage to find any leads?" Jared walked to Martin's side.

"Currently, we've filtered out two possible suspects. We're still going through the rest." Martin gave his seat to Jared and explained their progress.

"The two which you filtered out are new employees who had just joined?" Jared looked at the video and questioned.

"One of them is a new employee; the other is a senior." Martin looked at Jared.

"Other than that person's sneaky behavior, the rest only looked nervous. You can go and interrogate

"Okay, I'll work on it now," Martin replied as he stood up. Try and control your emotions," reminded Jared.

Jared flipped through his phone and looked for Nicole's contact on his messenger. When he tapped into her profile, he noticed that she had blocked him. He could not see her status.

Jared was unnerved immediately. He counted the time quickly and thought, 'She must have landed already.'

He tried to video call Nicole. But after ringing for some time and no one picked up the call, it automatically hung up.

Jared was starting to feel unhappy. So, he dialed Nicole's number once more. After waiting for a short while, Nicole finally answered the phone.

"What's the matter?" Nicole asked coldly.

Jared could sense from her tone that Nicole was still angry. Facing that, Jared was at a loss for words instantly, so he kept quiet for a moment.

Once Nicole noticed that he was not replying, she got angrier and said in an unhappy tone, "I'm hanging up if you're not going to say anything."

"Wait." Jared stopped Nicole as soon as he heard that she was about to hang up. How could he be willing to let her hang up, especially when it was so hard to reach her by phone?

It hurt her to think about it. He began lying and could even do it brazenly right in front of her. It really made her feel disappointed.

As she was thinking, she could not help but stare blankly.

"Hey! Why are you in a daze?" Harvey caught Nicole staring blankly after he had finished his food. So, he waved his hands right in front of her eyes.

"What? Have you finished eating?" Nicole slapped his hands and rolled her eyes at him.

"Yeah. What were you thinking about? Your eyes were still." Harvey asked out of curiosity.

"Nothing much. Let's get back to work." Nicole got up and walked to her office.

The next day would be his off day. Jared did not want to bring those documents home that day. He looked at the time and realized that there was one hour left before noon. ‘I must work harder. That way, I only need one and a half hours in the afternoon to finish everything. Then, I can leave earlier than usual.’

He drank some water, picked up his pen, and continued working. Suddenly, there were some noises coming from outside. Jared listened closely, and his eyes widened in shock, “Fiorella!

‘Why did she choose to come in the morning today?’ Jared looked around and thought of hiding.

He tried to calm down. ‘This is my office. Why should I hide?’ But as soon as he recalled how persistent Fiorella was, he knew that she would bug him again.

The last time when he did not hide, she ended up dragging him to a meaningless dinner in the name of work. It was a total waste of his time.

Hearing her approaching, Jared immediately hid inside the back room of his office.
