Chapter 1381

Sadly, Nicole did not pick up any of the calls.

Jared hung up with a frown and a sigh.

"Max."

Hearing Jared called him, Max instantly pushed the door and entered, "You were looking for me, sir?"

"Try and locate Nicole."

"Noted." Max nodded.

Then, he whipped out his tablet.

After a brief moment, he reported, "Ms.Riddles has returned to the sea view villa."

"villa?"

Jared frowned again.

"Quit all that nonsense! You better explain from A to Z what happened. What else are you hiding from me?"

Maximillian had been deceived for many years; he wanted the truth now.

"I..."

Henry was at a loss for words. He had done so many bad things that he did not know where to start.

But Jared might expose him, so he chose not to tell the truth.

Maximillian would hate him even more if that were to happen! So, Henry gritted his teeth and began crying, "I-I was wrong...I asked people to knock you and did the trick at the hospital. I-I'm worse than a beast. Dad, please forgive me!"

Of course, Maximillian had known about these already.

But when he heard Henry admitting to it on his own, his heart began to stir.

'How did I raise such a useless and disrespectful son? And after years of upbringing, he actually tried to kill me! What a rebel!'

"What you did was attempted murder. How do you expect grandpa to forgive you? Even if he does, the law would not easily let go of you."

Watching Henry keep hurting Maximillian with his words, Jared could not take it anymore. He lifted his legs and sent a kick toward Henry's chin. He fainted instantly and stopped crying.

"Drag him away."

Jared's eyes were filled with disgust. He did not want to see Henry anymore.

Max quickly brought some men and carried Henry away.

After a moment, the police arrived and immediately detained Henry.

Max also handed over all the evidence they obtained to the police.

The living room had finally regained its peace.

However, if one listened closely, one could catch Maximillian sobbing softly.

Maximillian turned his back to him, worried that Jared would notice him being weak.

He choked with sobs after a long while, "My whole life is a failure. My sons are killing each other, and my grandson has to carry these burdens alone. I am a huge failure!"

Jared felt the sadness coming from Maximillian. He went forward to carry him and said, "Grandpa, I do not blame you."

Jared frowned and looked at her. Then, he replied shamelessly, "But what am I supposed to do? I missed you."

Nicole acted as if she did not care, "That is not my business. Many others miss you. You don't need me."

Her jealous words made Jared burst out in laughter, "Are you still jealous?"

Nicole did not admit to it, "I wouldn't dare to. Who am I to be jealous?"

She got up to escape as soon as she finished speaking.

However, Jared held her tightly, "You're my girlfriend, my future wife, mother to my future kids."

Those confident terms and warm hugs made Nicole's heart skip a beat.

"This guy sure has a way with his words!" "Don't bluff! Go and find the one who kissed you to have your baby!"

As soon as those words came out of her mouth, a light flashed across Jared's eyes, "That's what you said."

After saying that, Jared grabbed the back of Nicole's head and forcefully kissed her. It caught her totally off guard.

As Jared spoke, he carried Nicole in his arms arrogantly.

The following day, Nicole woke up before he did. She continued staring at him blankly.

'How could I have misunderstood someone who cares and loves me wholeheartedly?'

"Are you looking at me?" Jared asked as he opened his eyes and looked at her. She sat up shyly and denied, "When did I? I just woke up right before you did."

"Really?"

Jared also sat up and moved closer to her.

"Of course. Get up; breakfast should be ready downstairs."

Nicole was about to get up from bed when Jared grabbed her wrist and pulled her into his arms.

"What are you doing?"

Nicole stared into his eyes nervously.

"What do you think?"

Jared looked into her bright eyes with a smile on his face.

The next second, Jared immediately pressed his lips against Nicole's.

"You're lying! I don't believe it!" said Nicole.

"It's true. I'm not lying to you this time," Jared explained to her seriously.

Nicole still found it hard to believe his words.

"Really?"

"Really."

"Alright then. Where do you want to go this afternoon?" Nicole asked Jared.

"Of course, we're going to your favorite place, Blue Whale Restaurant," Jared responded.

Nicole had just been there with Martin the day before, and they had the softshell king crab. Today, she wanted to try something new.

"I don't think we should go there so often. Why not switch things up today?"

"Sure. Then you can think of a place to go."

Jared wanted her to choose.

"I can't think of any now. I'll let you know once I think of one."

As they were chatting, a car reached the lobby of the Golden Coast Building.

"I'm not afraid if that rouses suspicion.At most, it'll just force Joyce to personally get involved.That's even better in my books."

Harvey analyzed the matter calmly.

"Alright, but I can't shake the feeling that this response is too nonchalant.We need to present it in a way that makes them see that you're unaffected.Otherwise, I think they'll look into my background and expose me.If that happens, Joyce will definitely notice."

"You've got a point.We can put on a show for them.We cannot allow the restaurant boss to figure out who you are."

Nicole looked Harvey in the eyes as she said this.

"Yeah."

"We cannot meet outside the plaza anymore.We need to find a new place."

"I'll leave the arrangements to you then.Just inform me later."

"Alright, I'll see to it right now."

As he said that, Harvey got up and left the room.Nicole sat in the office, thinking for a good while before getting up to do her work.

"Alright then."

Since they were already here, it would be rude for Jared to rebuke Nicole, so he sat down and patiently waited for the food to be served.

After a while, a waiter came to Nicole and Jared's table with a platter of specialty dishes before carefully placing it in front of them.

"Bon Appetit."

Nicole picked up one of the delicious pieces and held it up to Jared.

"Give it a taste."

Seeing that Nicole was trying to feed him, a smile appeared on his face as he ate the food.

"Not bad," Jared commented.

"See, I told you so. This restaurant's food has to be pretty decent to be so popular."

Nicole then took a bite as well.

The two chatted as they ate.

And for some reason, the topic shifted to the McCarthy family, and Nicole looked at Jared as she said, "I had dinner with Martin yesterday, and I heard something really important from him."

After that, Joyce looked around and saw nothing of interest, so she took out her phone and sent a message.

"Sit back down."

Nicole pushed Jared back into his seat.

Being pushed like that, Jared could only return to his seat.

"How's the chip research coming along?" Jared asked, looking at Nicole.

"We've already developed it. We're in the testing phase now," Nicole answered as she ate.

Jared was quite surprised upon hearing Nicole's response.

"That fast?"

"I understand but do visit Grandpa when you have the time. After all, you're his closest relative,"

Nicole advised as she looked Jared in the eyes.

"Alright. Speaking of which, the food here is pretty decent," Jared said as he met Nicole's eyes.

"Told you. Give this a try, then."

Nicole served Jared another dish that he had yet to taste.

"Okay."

An hour passed, and after Nicole and Jared ate, they walked out of the restaurant.

"How about we take the Southlake road back? I haven't seen that place in a while,"

Nicole suggested with an inquisitive gaze.

"Sure."

The two then got into the car and left the restaurant.

Along the way, Nicole kept looking in the rearview mirror.
