

HAPPY MOMMY HAPPY DADDY CHAPTER 14

Chapter 14 Daddy Is Going to Find Mommy

In the corridor of the Star Hotel. Elena looked coldly at Alora who had already fainted, and a cold smile appeared on her lips. "I thought that you were tough after being a body double for years, but you fainted just like that?" "Miss Van, what should we do now?" The men who had tied Alora up asked in a low voice. "Send her to room 1102. Director Wang will be there soon."

"Yes." When the men heard this, they directly dragged Alora to the next room. When the woman was dragged, a jade pendant fell out of her body. The jade pendant was particularly dazzling under the warm light of the corridor Elena frowned, walked over and picked up the jade pendant "So that rotten drunkard gave this to Alora?"

She snorted coldly and put away the jade pendant, Before she was eighteen years old, she and Justin had been living together and had seen this jade pendant Justin had once inadvertently said that this jade pendant was a token from her biological mother. He also said that her biological mother's identity was extraordinary. When she left the slums, she wanted to take this jade pendant away, but she could not find it anywhere, She did not expect that Justin was willing to give the jade pendant to that idiot Alora. With a cold snort, she put away the jade pendant. Alora, you want to find your biological mother?

Dream on!

"Miss Van."

A minute later, Director Wang, whose head was half-bald, walked over with a beer belly. "Is she ready? The Rowan family doesn't know, right?" "Don't worry." "She is very happy to serve you. She doesn't have any status in the Rowan family. How can anyone know?" Elena smiled proudly. Not to mention that Mr. Rowan was cruel and would not send people to follow and protect Alora, even if his people followed her, Alora would take the initiative to shake them off. After all, having a rotten drunkard father like Justin wasn't something to be proud of. Alora definitely didn't want anyone to know about it. Elena also expected that Alora would go back and send money to Justin, which was why she sent people to ambush her near Justin's house. "That's good!" Director Wang rubbed his hands excitedly, took the contract that Elena handed over, and signed it. "As long as she serves me well, I will cooperate with the Van group every year!"

"Thank you so much, Director Wang."

"Time is money. Please go in quickly." Elena sneered. The old man laughed lewdly and strode over. Seeing Director Wang enter Alora's room, Elena sneered and turned to leave. The lock of the hotel was specially made and the room was soundproof. She was not afraid that Alora would escape. Moreover, Alora should thank her. Others said that the fire five years ago not only ruined Mr. Rowan's face and temper but also his lower body. The reason why he was so cruel to women was that he could not do it! Although Director Wang was a little old, at least he was still useful. In Rowan family's villa. In the study, an international video conference was being held. Samir was sitting on the boss' chair, frowning as he listened to the blonde woman on the other end of the computer talking about the latest proposal in French. The entire conference was serious. Even a video conference was so overwhelming that people could not breathe. "Bang!" With a bang, the door of the study room was suddenly pushed open from the outside. "Daddy, Mommy is in trouble!" James rushed in, a little flustered. As soon as this was said, the meeting that was originally in harmony was instantly quiet. Everyone on the other end of the video stared at Samir in shock. Since when did Boss have a wife? "What's wrong?" the cold man did not move. "When brother called Mommy just now, Mommy screamed and then the call was cut!" "No one picked up after that!"

James was so anxious that his little face turned red. He grabbed Samir's hand anxiously. "Daddy, hurry up and save Mommy!" "Maybe she was kidnapped!" "What if people see that Mommy is beautiful and want to hurt her?" "Hurry up and help!" The little fellow pulled Samir away.

Samir frowned.

Although James was usually mischievous, he rarely lost control of his emotions. It seemed that something had really happened. The man stood up and strode out of the door with James in his arms. Seeing that the position of the BOSS was empty, everyone in the video conference was stunned. They did not know whether to leave or wait for the BOSS to come back.

Steve, who was very mature at such a young age, climbed onto Samir's chair, picked up the microphone, frowned and said seriously, "Everyone, because something happened to my family, Daddy is going to fight for his lifelong happiness now, so the meeting is postponed." After that, the little fellow politely turned off the computer. The European branch instantly exploded. Boss, this ten-thousand-year-old iron tree, has finally blossomed! The workaholic Samir actually had a wife! "According to the location of Mommy's mobile phone, I found out that her last missing location was here." Next to a small alley near the slums, Steve was wearing a headset and tapping on his computer with his little hand.

"Mr. Rowan, I found Madam's phone."

Soon, the subordinate held Alora's phone and handed it to Samir. The old phone screen had been smashed. Samir paused for a moment and threw the phone into the trash can. "I'll get Mommy a new mobile phone now!" James, who was in the passenger seat, took out the tablet and began to browse the mall. Looking at the nearby scenery, Steve frowned slightly. "Why did Mommy come here?" This place was very, very far away from her Film City. "Star Hotel." The man sitting next to Steve flipped his fingers on the computer keyboard. "How do you know that Mommy is at Star Hotel?" Steve held his small laptop and looked up at the enlarged version of himself beside him. "There are no surveillance cameras in the alley, but there are outside." "From the surveillance cameras, we finally locked onto Star Hotel." Samir rarely spoke, but he was willing to explain everything seriously to his son. "Daddy, you are smart." Steve slapped his forehead. He only thought of searching for Mommy's whereabouts through the cell phone signal, but he forgot about the monitoring!

And...

"Daddy, you only used such a short time to finish the surveillance?" The little guy looked up. The man grunted, opened the door, and got out of the car. "You guys go home first. I can take people there myself." Steve nodded. He and his brother were still young. Even if they went, they would not be of much help. "Daddy, you have to bring Mommy back intact!"

"I will try my best." After the man finished speaking, he got into another car and sped towards Star Hotel.

It had been more than half an hour since Alora had been kidnapped. He could not guarantee that... Perhaps something had already happened.

"Bang!" As the door of the hotel was kicked open, a strong smell of blood came. The big white bed in the hotel was dyed red with blood. Alora, who was covered in blood, was lying on the big bed. Her clothes were disheveled and her face was pale. The scene in front of him made Samir's pupils suddenly tighten! "All of you close your eyes and turn your heads!" The man roared. The bodyguards behind him closed their eyes and turned away. Samir walked into the room step by step. With every step he took, the smell of blood thickened. Finally, he stood in front of her and reached out to touch her hand. He actually trembled a little. "Alora Van..." This was the first time he had called her name so seriously, but he did not expect it to be at such a time.

Chapter 15 Am Very interested in Her

Samir took off his coat and covered Alora with it, wrapping the woman in his arms.

"Help. : A weak cry for help sounded. Samir suddenly frowned and looked towards the voice. The one calling for help was the bald Director Wang. At this moment, he was lying on the ground covered in blood. His hands and feet were tied to the feet of the bed and he could not move. Seeing that someone had come, Director Wang's eyes suddenly lit up! "Save me! Save me! I'm dying!" Only after he regained his composure did he realize that there were two deep wounds on the man's legs. The blood on the ground was flowing out from Director Wang's legs. "This woman is too cruel! She hurt me like this!" Director Wang cried. "If not for the drug I gave her, I would have been killed by her!"

"Please save me!" At this time, a group of policemen rushed in from outside. "Who called the police?" "It's me!" Director Wang did not care about what he had done. He cried heartbreakingly, "Help! This woman wants to kill me!" "Nothing serious. She just fell asleep. The effect of sleeping pills." "She only scratched her skin. The blood on her body belongs to that Director Wang.” In the hospital, Mark handed the diagnosis results to Samir and teased, “I didn’t expect your wife to be so tough.” Samir took the diagnosis and turned to look at the ward not far away. At the moment, the little woman in the ward was answering questions obediently. “I was knocked unconscious in the alley. When I woke up, I was already in that room.” “That person drugged me, so I argued with him.” Her eyes were black and watery, and she looked like a primary school student who had been lectured by the teacher. “As for the injury on his leg... In order to protect myself, I...” “You’re talking nonsense!” The wound on Director Wang’s leg was too deep. At this moment, he could only sit in a wheelchair. He glared fiercely at Alora, “It was clearly you who asked me to go to the hotel! For the sake of your family and my contract, you voluntarily offered yourself. In the end, I signed the contract, and you went back on your word. You even hurt me like this!” “If I hadn’t fed her sleeping pills, and then she fell asleep, I would have definitely been hacked to death by her!” “Since I offered myself to you, why did you feed me sleeping pills?” Alora frowned. Director Wang, “...” “Sir, I am telling the truth!” His face was ashen. “This woman is just pretending to be weak! When she hit me just now, she was fiercer than a man!” While he was quibbling, Alora calmly took out her phone from her pocket. When she was attacked, her phone fell. So later in the hotel, she snatched Director Wang’s phone and called the police. But after so many years of watching criminal investigation TV shows, her experience told her that only with evidence could he be convicted.

So... She silently found the recording file and pressed the play button. “Hiss! How dare you hurt me! I pity you out of kindness for your good looks!” “Alora, don’t be ungrateful!” “Everyone knows that the fire five years ago not only ruined Rowan family’s third son’s appearance but also burned his lower body!” “He can’t be a man in this life!” “I am kind enough to let you experience the happiness of being a woman!” “Let go of me!”

The recording echoed in the ward. Director Wang’s face was pale, and Alora had a smile on her lips. She even glanced at the man outside the door out of the corner of her eye. Outside the door, Samir’s face was a little ugly. “Hey”

Mark held back his laughter and raised his hand to pat Samir on the shoulder “Look, everyone knows about your problem now.” The man raised his eyes coldly and looked at Mark with a grumpy gaze. That gaze seemed to be able to kill. “That woman has already been dead for five years. Are you still unable to get over it?” Mark coughed lightly. As his attending physician, Mark knew very well that it was not that Samir could not do it, but he was conflicted. Five years ago, because of an accident, he was with a strange woman for one day and one night. That day and one night made that woman want to die and suffer from depression. After giving birth to Steve and James, she set fire to commit suicide. Not only did she almost burn Steve and James to death, but she also almost took Samir’s life.

After that fire, Samir began to resist contact with women, not wanting to hurt any woman again.

“Come here for treatment tomorrow.” “You are already married. You have to be responsible for her.” Mark said with sympathy in his eyes. “There is no need for treatment.” Samir narrowed his eyes and looked at the little woman in the ward.

“I am fine now.” “Yeah?” Mark asked, his eyes widening. He subconsciously followed Samir’s gaze. “You and her...” The man glanced at him lightly. “We are already husband and wife.”

Mark opened his mouth so wide that it could swallow an egg. Samir bypassed him and went straight into the ward, "Hubby, you are here!" As soon as he entered the door, Alora called him sweetly. This was the second time she called him her husband. The image of her lying in the bathtub and seducing him appeared in his mind. The man's Adam's apple moved slightly. He walked in and put his hand on Alora's slender waist. "I heard that you wanted to touch my woman?" he asked, looking coldly at the pale Director Wang in front of him.

Director Wang was stunned. He looked at Samir, then at Alora. "You are..." Suddenly, he began to shake his head frantically. "No, impossible!" Wasn't the rumored Mr. Rowan disfigured and extremely ugly? How could he have such a handsome appearance? "You are not Mr. Rowan!" "I've seen Mr. Rowan's photo. He definitely isn't like you!" Director Wang snorted and pointed at Alora. "I didn't expect you to have other men as well!"

"Bah! You are such a slut!"

After saying that, he grabbed the hand of the policeman beside him as if he was holding onto a life-saving straw. "Sir, look, this woman is a whore. This can prove that she asked me out!"

Samir gave a faint smile, his aura noble. "Sir" At this time, the secretary knocked on the door and came in. He said respectfully beside the bed, "It has been done." Director Wang immediately widened his eyes. Wasn't this person always by Samir's side, the gold medal secretary, Ronald Brown? It was rumored that Samir did not want to see anyone, so he let Ronald handle everything. He was Samir's spokesperson! The wealthy merchants he knew were all dying to meet Ronald. Now, this gold medal secretary, Ronald, who was incomparably cold in front of outsiders, actually bowed in front of this man? Director Wang's body suddenly stopped. His body trembled violently. The man in front of him who was holding Alora... Was he really... Samir? But wasn't Samir disfigured? Suddenly, Director Wang's mobile phone rang crazily. The policeman on the side pressed the answer button.

"Director Wang!" The subordinate on the other side of the line said with a tearful voice, "Just now, Rowan Group announced that they would cancel all the cooperation with us, and our partners have also begun to revoke their contracts..." "The Wang family... went bankrupt..."

"They said that it was because you offended Mr. Rowan..."

"Bang!" Director Wang fell down from his wheelchair. He knelt down in shock and fear and raised his head to look at Samir. "Mr. Rowan..."

"I was wrong! It was all my fault!" "I admit my guilt! Please have mercy..."