

HAPPY MOMMY HAPPY DADDY CHAPTER 20

Chapter 20 You Return the Ring to Me

Alora almost spat the juice out of her mouth.

She lowered her voice, "Is she the net friend of James?"

James was already impressive enough to be seeing a female net friend. What shocked her, even more, was that this female... was actually Elena?

"Don't make a sound. Just watch the show."

Steve lowered his eyes and sent a message on his phone.

On the other side, Elena sat down at the appointed place and took out a small mirror.

While fixing her makeup, she made a phone call to her best friend to show off. "Yes, I have arrived. Mr. Scott said that he will be here soon."

"Why am I so charming! We have just chatted for two days and haven't seen each other. But he asked someone to give me a diamond ring of ten carats."

"Of course, Mr. Scott told me that after we meet today, he will let me make the headlines and become Banyan City's happiest woman!"

"He will definitely treat you to a meal. Don't worry, Mr. Scott is as rich as a country..."

Probably because she was proud, Elena's voice was loud, and almost everyone in the coffee shop could hear it clearly Alora covered her face with a magazine and secretly glanced at Steve who was sitting next to him. "What are you guys doing?"

Mr. Scott?

A ten-carat diamond ring?

The Mr. Scott who gave her a ten-carat diamond ring... was James?

"Mommy, just wait and watch the show."

Steve picked up the juice with a smile and took a sip. Not long after, James, who was wearing a small black suit, pushed open the door and came in.

The little guy looked particularly handsome today in a suit.

He walked to Elena with his short legs and said in a childish voice, "Miss, are you Bubble Love?" After hanging up the phone, Elena glanced coldly at the little guy who was not even half her height. "Who are you?"

"I am Mr. Scott."

James blinked his eyes and revealed a sweet smile. "You said that you don't mind me being younger than you."

Elena raised her eyebrows and looked up and down at the little James in front of her with contempt. "I don't have time to deal with a little brat. Go away!" Mr. Scott, who was chatting with her before, was mature and steady. How could he be this little thing in front of her?

"I really am Mr. Scott!"

James pursed his lips, took out his phone and sent a message.

At the same time, Elena's phone rang. "It's me!" The little guy shook his phone proudly. Elena, "..."

The Mr. Scott that she was looking forward to seeing... was actually a kid?

She was fooled by a kid.

"Don't you have to go to school? You stinky brat!" Elena was both angry and embarrassed.

"You know how to lie at such a young age. When you grow up, you will definitely be a scourge!" "Get away from me! Just as Elena finished speaking, James flattened his mouth and directly sat on the ground. He began to cry loudly.

"You don't keep your word!"

"I stole the diamond ring that my daddy prepared for my mommy for you!"

"You actually don't want me now!" "You promised me on the Internet that you would take good care of me after receiving my gift!"

"I'm so young, and you still lied to me!"

"Woo!"

When Steve cried, everyone in the coffee shop looked over.

"Isn't this Van family's Elena?" someone with sharp eyes recognized her.

"I didn't expect that she would lie to such a small kid and even encourage him to steal his parents' diamond rings!"

"How shameless!"

For a moment, the discussions in the coffee shop started.

Some people even took out their mobile phones and began to broadcast the video online.

Elena's face suddenly turned red and then white.

How could she know that Mr. Scott who was talking and laughing with her online was a five-year-old child!

Mr. Scott was generous. The photos he sent her were all extremely handsome. His house was also luxurious like a castle!

She thought that she had met a potential stock, so she rushed to meet him after only a day! After all, she had just screwed up Director Wang's investment and was in urgent need of another cooperation in order to stabilize her position!

Elena even thought about going to a hotel with him... But who would have thought?

"Little liar, get out of here!"

She glared at James fiercely and was about to leave.

"You can't leave!" James hugged her calf.

"Return the ring to me!"

"And the money I transferred to you on the Internet! You have to return it to me!"

"Why should I return it to you?" Elena rolled her eyes.

As she spoke, she raised her leg and kicked James away.

The people in the coffee shop were filled with indignation. Not only did this woman deceive such a young child, she even wanted to hit this child! Seeing James being kicked to the ground, Alora felt distressed and directly threw the magazine in her hand.

"Calm down, Mommy." Steve pressed her hand.

"He is your younger brother. Don't you feel sorry for him?" Alora pursed her lips and lowered her voice. Steve paused and turned to look at her seriously. "Do you feel sorry for James?" "Of course!"

"James is a little devil at home. When has he ever been wronged like this?" Alora clenched her fists silently. "No, I have to go over."

"No."

"You are a good mother." Steve looked at her face seriously. Alora felt a little uncomfortable under his gaze. The woman raised her head and looked in Elena's direction again. The butler had already brought a few policemen with him.

“Miss Van, someone reported that you used a fraudulent act to steal the property of a minor. Please come with us.”

After saying that, the two policemen held Elena back. “I didn’t!” The woman struggled violently. “I didn’t lie to this little thing. He is the one who took the initiative...” “Mr. Policeman, please help me...”

James cried very loudly. “Our young master is only five years old. If no one instigated him, how could he steal.” The policeman who was handling the case looked at the old and young crying so sadly. He turned around and said coldly, “Miss Van, you have to be more convincing when you lie. How can such a small child plot against you?” “If you have anything to say, let’s go back to the police station!” After that, the policeman took Elena away directly. The butler carried James and followed the policeman.

Alora was stunned. Steve sighed lightly and jumped down from the chair. “Mommy, let’s go to the police station to pick up my brother and go home!” he said, holding Alora’s little finger. “Did you plan this?” the woman had not recovered from the scene just now. “Yes!”

“But we didn’t lie to her!” Steve took her hand and strode out the door.

“James told her that she would be in the newspaper after they met.”

“And that’s exactly what’s going to happen.”