

HAPPY MOMMY HAPPY DADDY CHAPTER 21

Chapter 21 This Is My Wife, Alora

Coming out of the coffee shop, a black Maserati had been parked at some point in time. Steve released Alora's hand and went straight to the passenger seat.

Alora had no choice but to open the door of the back seat.

On the leather seat in the back seat, the cold and noble man was sitting there quietly, looking coldly at the laptop in his hand.

Although she had been married for quite some time, every time she saw his cold profile, her heart couldn't help but tremble.

"Why are you here..."

The man didn't even raise his head. His eyes were still fixed on the computer screen, his slender fingers tapping gracefully on the keyboard. "My son has been cheated. As a parent, of course, I have to go to the police station personally." "You already know?"

Alora pursed her lips and sat in.

The man stopped what he was doing and turned his head. His deep eyes stared at her.

"Do you think that without my permission, the two of them can get a ten-carat diamond ring?"

Alora was speechless.

That was true.

A ten-carat diamond ring was not a cheap thing. No matter how rich the Rowan family was, he would not give two five-year-old children so much pocket money.

"So, you also know?"

Samir neatly put away the notebook, leaned back on the leather seat. His eyes were indifferent. "Ronald looked into it. What happened yesterday has something to do with your sister."

"But she is very smart. She removed all the evidence. Even the phone number that she contacted Director Wang with was registered in Justin's name."

Alora's hands were tightly clenched at her side.

As expected...

Elena was indeed involved with what happened yesterday!

"We got married not long ago. I don't want to directly attack the Van Group. It's not good for you either."

Alora's heart suddenly felt warm.

All along, the impression that Samir gave her was cold. She had never thought that he would actually be so thoughtful. Not only did he thoroughly investigate what happened to her yesterday, but he also considered the consequences of targeting Van family...

She pursed her lips and raised her head to meet his deep eyes. "Thank you..."

"Mommy, he is your husband. You don't have to thank him."

"That is correct," said Steve, who was sitting in the front seat.

"It was James who came up with a way to vent your anger. I was the one who designed the process. Daddy did nothing except provide a ring and 100,000 yuan in cash."

"..." Alora.

"Without my support, could you guys go so smoothly?" Samir raised his eyebrows. "We could."

"If I tell Grandpa that I want to buy a ring for Mommy in your name, Grandpa will agree."

Samir narrowed his eyes slightly and did not speak. Alora watched from the side, dumbstruck.

Did Steve make Samir speechless?

She carefully peeked at the man beside her from the corner of her eye.

He was leaning against the leather seat and closing his eyes to take a nap.

It's unknown if he was really tired or if it was because he couldn't win against Steve.

The car started up.

Alora's phone began to ring non-stop.

It was the news.

In the past, when she was with Truett, she had to worry about Truett every day, so she developed a good habit of watching the news every day.

At this moment, the air in the car was dull, so she casually picked up her mobile phone and turned it over.

It was actually about Elena!

"Shocking! The Van Group's daughter talked a minor into stealing from his parents!"

"The diamond ring was stolen? The daughter of a rich family actually did this?" "I'm curious. What kind of crime is this?"

The Internet was full of news about Elena.

Someone released the video in the coffee shop.

Some even released the chat records between Elena and James.

Alora opened the chat screenshots and looked at them one by one...

The more she looked at it, the angrier she got!

Elena really deserved this! In the chat records, she had asked James for money more than once.

Other than the fact that James was hiding his age, everything else was really instigated by Elena!

She even said to James, "Your mother is so old, it is indeed a bit of a waste for her to wear a ten-carat diamond ring."

"Give it to me. Your family is so rich, your parents won't be angry even if they know."

Alora pinched the phone, the blood in her chest surging.

Although she knew that this was deliberately designed by James and Steve, the content was still hard for Alora to accept

Justin had said before that Elena had grown up with those bad girls in the slums since she was young and had been infected with bad habits.

Now, even though she'd returned to Van family, she was still the same as before, disgusting!

Looking at the overwhelming abuse on Elena on the Internet, Alora felt refreshed.

Soon, the car arrived at the police station.

As soon as she got out of the car, Alora saw Gary's car parked not far away.

It seemed like Elena's issue was not small. Even Gary had arrived at the police station.

"I won't get out of the car."

Sitting in the passenger seat, Steve turned on the laptop in his arms and put on his headphones. "I look exactly the same as James, so I won't cause trouble when I go in."

"Yes."

Only then did Samir, who had been dozing off, open his eyes. He gracefully opened the car door and got out of the car.

Alora did not dare to be slow and hurriedly got out of the car, following behind him.

“Sir, check again. It is impossible!”

“My daughter is kind-hearted and innocent. How could she do such a thing?”

In the police station, Victoria cried to the point of collapse, “It must be that the child has a problem himself!”

“My daughter will not do such a thing!” “The evidence is conclusive!” “Your daughter is still unwilling to take off that ten-carat diamond ring!” the policeman on the side scolded with a cold face.

Victoria cried and wiped her tears. She turned to look at Elena. “Elena, you...”

“I won’t!”

Elena lowered her head and held the diamond ring tightly in her hand. “Even if it’s something a child gave me, it’s still a gift. There’s no reason to return it.”

“This is not a gift. It’s incitement and deception.”

A low and magnetic voice sounded.

Elena and Victoria quickly raised their heads. At a glance, they saw the man who stood out among the crowd. He was cold, proud, and noble.

He was walking towards them with his long legs.

Elena widened her eyes.

Isn’t this...

Isn’t he the man in the photo that the child sent her

At that time, when she first saw the photo, she felt that her heart had been hit. That was why she started to have an online relationship with the child.

But now, when she saw him in person, she realized that he was... even more handsome and noble than in the photos!

The noble and cold aura that the man exuded made her heart fall...

“What a handsome man!”

Victoria lowered her voice and sighed.

“Mr. Rowan.”

The police officer beside the two politely greeted Samir, then turned to look at Victoria and Elena. “This is Mr. Rowan, the father of James.”

“If you don’t want to make a big fuss, have a good talk with him.”

After that, the policeman turned around and left.

Elena looked at Samir and her eyes were straight.

Victoria pinched her, and then she came back to her senses and stammered, “Hello, Mr. Rowan. Are you married?”

After asking this question, Elena regretted it.

His child was already so big, how could he not be married?

“I just got married not too long ago,” Samir said indifferently.

After that, he pulled the woman who had been following behind him. “This is my newly wedded wife, Alora.”