

Chapter 2617

Kaitlyn Parson decided to bury the hatchet after thinking about the consequences.

She came here too quickly. She became reckless because of it.

She believed that it would be easy to completely deal with Harvey York if she were to make a more elaborate plan.

Several plans flashed before Kaitlyn's mind.

She held back her embarrassment and deeply bowed in front of Irene Johnson.

"I was just drunk today, Ms. Johnson. My mind's all a blur, and that's why I've been spouting nonsense just now! Please forgive me.

"As for the Emerald House's interests, I'll get someone to hand it to you once we're done with the calculations.”

“Fine. I accept your apology.”

Irene did not want things to escalate even further.

“You can leave now,” exclaimed Irene coldly.

Kaitlyn was boiling with anger at Irene's attitude, but she suppressed her emotions before leaving with cold glares toward Harvey and Irene.

After Kaitlyn and the others left, Rupert Howell immediately shut the door at the entrance.

He then looked at Harvey with a perplexed gaze before walking toward Irene.

“Ms. Johnson, this is a huge matter. It won't end that easily,” exclaimed Rupert quietly.

“The Parson family is one of the top four families. If Kaitlyn's fully prepared, we won't even be able to survive their attack!

“Why don’t we look for Young Lord York right now? We’ll apologize to him and ask for his help! We’ll give him some money as compensation too!”

“Right! Right!”

“I was just going to say the same thing! Ms. Parson’s likely going to be the future lady of the Yorks! We can’t afford to offend them!”

“Even if we managed to get the upper hand now, we’d get in trouble in the future!”

Irene’s friends started to speak up. They wouldn’t even dare let out a single noise when Kaitlyn was still around.

They had no choice but to say something like this, in case they also got dragged into this mess.

Other than respect, those people were filled with hate when they glared at Harvey.

Clearly, in their eyes, Harvey's actions had caused a great deal of trouble that day.

If the Parson family were to lash out, who would be able to shoulder all of that responsibility?

Harvey squinted at the sight without saying another word.

Those people were only scared of the strong. They were just filth of the younger generation.

Harvey could not even be bothered to talk to filth like these.

Irene put on a frown.

“Alright! Enough idle chitchat!

“No matter what, the Johnson family will shoulder all the blame for what happened tonight!

“Kaitlyn will only be coming for us!

“You’re all only here for the show. This matter shouldn’t have anything to do with any of you!

“If you’re too scared to dine here, then get out right now!”

Those so-called friends were waiting for her to say just that.

All of them looked at each other before stumbling their way out of the place.

If they knew that there would be this much trouble by just having an ordinary meal, they would not have come here in the first place!

Harvey calmly smiled.

“You can leave as well if you want to, Ms. Johnson.

“I was the one who caused all this. I’m the one to blame. Your family has nothing to do with this.”

Irene bitterly chuckled.

“Don’t say that, Sir York,” she said.

“My grandfather already informed me. The Johnson family has the branch leader of Hong Kong’s Longmen branch...

“That’s why, no matter what, we have to take responsibility together!”

Chapter 2618

The meal was not particularly delightful.

Irene Johnson took a few bites before paying the bills and leaving.

Harvey York did not want to stop her either. He knew that she had a situation to report.

Inside the Longmen Budokan of Hong Kong and Las Vegas.

Morgan Johnson was sitting on the futon while taking deep mindful breaths as he listened to Irene's explanation about the entire situation.

When she was about to finish, Morgan opened his eyes slightly before asking, "Did you hear that correctly? Harvey wanted Vince York and his entire family to show up?"

Irene thought about what happened, then quietly replied, "That's right. He did say so."

"That's interesting!" Morgan muttered to himself.

"He was so sure that Kaitlyn Parson wouldn't dare call anyone...

"Does he have any plans for himself? Or does he not even care if the Yorks of Hong Kong shows up in front of him?"

Morgan frowned. Either way, one thing was clear ...

Harvey was not scared of anyone in Hong Kong and Las Vegas.

Irene seemed a little hesitant after seeing Morgan's look on his face.

"Should I get someone to say good things about our family, Grandfather? Or are we going to follow Harvey to the bitter end?"

“The Law Enforcement of Longmen stands against him. It would be dangerous if we continue down this path with him.”

Morgan squinted for a long while before replying, “A huge storm is brewing in Hong Kong and Las Vegas right now. It’ll break out at any moment...”

“The Johnson family has governed Longmen’s Hong Kong and Las Vegas branches for many years now. We have never backed down, nor have we ever picked a side.

“But there’s no other choice this time. It’s either the Law Enforcement of Longmen or the Mordu’s Longmen branch leader.

“As people of Longmen, we cannot remain neutral any longer.

“We have to pick a side.”

Irene frowned.

“Though, it is not mandatory to pick a side immediately, right?” she exclaimed.

Morgan shook his head.

“There’s no choice! Or rather, we still have one right now...”

“But if we don’t pick now, we might be forced to stand with the Yorks of Hong Kong.”

“So, do you mean...”

Irene’s expression worsened.

“If we stand by the Yorks, we’d be able to maintain our current position...”

“But if we take a gamble now, we might even rise to a higher status in the future!”

“The Johnson family has been secluded for many years now. It's time to show the people our fangs.

“If not, people will forget that we're a force that can go against the top four families!

“There will be no regrets! Since we're already standing with Harvey, we'll stick with him till the end!” exclaimed Morgan, full of certainty.

“After being secluded for so many years, I do want to see what the youngins can do to change Hong Kong and Las Vegas!”

Irene did not say another word. Compared to the high and mighty Vince, she felt that Harvey was more approachable.

After all, that was how a real man should look like.

Right when the Johnson family had made their decision...

In a huge villa on Hong Kong's Taiping Mountaintop, Kaitlyn looked at her elegant face through the mirror while her eyes twitched, making her seem extremely wretched.

She slammed the laptop beside her on the table, then exclaimed coldly, "Harvey's arrogance is way beyond my expectation..."

"I didn't believe him when he said that the Clarke family stands beside him!

"But now I understand. They're sticking by him till the end!

"I'll kill him!

"If I don't, the family's reputation will be completely tarnished!"

Chapter 2619

Behind Kaitlyn Parson, Ellis Parson, one of the Four Masters of Hong Kong, was sipping his cappuccino with a calm look on his face.

When Kaitlyn was about done with her rage, he then reasoned with Kaitlyn, “Say, why are you this angry? There’s no need to be this agitated about these trivial things.

“Just think about it. Carol Parker, Queenie York, Carrie Kennedy, and others suffered losses going against him.

“Since you wanted to get involved, it’s normal for you to suffer the same, right?

“If you want someone to blame, blame yourself for provoking him in the first place. Just get others to go in your stead!

“I told you already. The Parson family isn’t about killing. That's the Briewood Gang's job.

“We need to use our brains here.”

Bang!

Kaitlyn slapped Ellis' cup to the ground with a twisted look on her face.

“Does it look like I have a choice?!”

“Young Lord York himself already has a negative opinion about me! The Emerald House is our property too! Who's going to show up if not me?!”

“You?!”

“Would you even dare?!”

Ellis looked at his shattered coffee cup with pity. This was a gift that could only be obtained after spending millions of dollars at a Hermes store. Truly a shame to see it broken this way...

“There's no need to panic. Even though we suffered losses against Harvey, we made it clear to Young Lord York that we'll stand by him as long as he needs us!

“This is a good thing. It's an investment.

“After Young Lord York knows about this, he'll despise us at first, but I'm sure he'll still admire our loyalty.”

Kaitlyn scoffed coldly.

“Of course, it's a good thing for you!

“But, what about me?!

“If Young Lord York thinks I'm useless, how am I supposed to climb the ranks that way?!

“Now that Queenie's out of the picture, I finally have the chance to do something!

“Am I supposed just to give up now?!

“You of all people should know that it'll benefit you greatly if I'm able to marry into the Yorks of Hong Kong!

“How can you not know what I'm worried about?!”

“You're not even considering our future, yet you're here mocking me?!”

“Are you braindead?!”

“That's why I asked you. Why are you so agitated?” replied Ellis calmly.

“I didn't say that I was just going to sit back.”

Ellis took out his phone and played a video before throwing it in front of Kaitlyn.

Kaitlyn's footage of her being slapped in the face was showing. The video was very well made.

Kaitlyn's anguished and resented expression could be seen clearly across her face.

She lashed out furiously after watching the footage.

“Are you trying to embarrass me or something?!”

Ellis smiled.

“Don’t get so worked up. Other than us, only one other person has seen this footage.

“He’s one of the Four Masters of Hong Kong, Louis Castro.

“Out of the four of them, I think the fiercest one should be able to bring you justice, right?”

Kaitlyn’s expression slightly changed.

Louis was the young master of one of Hong Kong’s four top families.

He was neither interested in doing business nor looking for authority, but he did like to live his life in constant danger.

During the recent years, he had been playing around as a mercenary at the Dark Island while occasionally returning back to Hong Kong.

Louis had always been fond of Kaitlyn. He even announced that anyone who dared to lay their hands on Kaitlyn would mean going against him.

It was plainly obvious why Ellis showed the footage to Louis at this very moment.

Chapter 2620

Ellis Parson reached out and patted Kaitlyn Parson's face after seeing the slight change in her expression.

"My dear sister, it's time to bring this old dog back into Hong Kong," said Ellis calmly.

"If he wins, we'll regain our reputation!

"But if he dies, you'll have one less trouble to worry about!

"No matter what happens, we'll still benefit from it. Am I wrong?"

Kaitlyn's expression slightly changed.

"Are you trying to go against Young Lord..."

"Shhhh!"

Ellis put a finger in front of his mouth with a cold expression.

“Vince York has no right to suppress the Four Masters of Hong Kong.

“He already got the Fourth Master dead and replaced him with Quinton York.

“If Matthew Flynn and I continued fooling around, we would’ve been replaced by now!”

“So, Louis Castro...” Kaitlyn said.

Ellis immediately cut her off.

“If Louis can win your dignity back, it means he has the right to stand beside us.

“But if not, then he’s just some pawn for us to use!

“I can only go against Vince if I team up with Matthew, right?

“You don’t actually think that Matthew and I want to serve him our entire lives, do you?

“Men put their dignity above their lives! We can't just keep serving someone else until we die!”

Matthew pushed the door open and walked in indifferently from behind.

His appearance made Kaitlyn freeze slightly. Her expression worsened shortly after.

She knew full well that once those two Masters of Hong Kong joined together, they would definitely have a chance to overthrow Vince.

On the next day, early in the morning, Harvey York looked up his phone for a nearby cafe to dine in.

According to his deal with the Hong Kong Police Station, he would not be able to leave Hong Kong for the time being.

That said, his freedom was not restricted anyway.

At least Harvey was still waiting for Leslie Clarke to hand him the Good Citizen Award.

While Harvey was having his food, he frowned while looking at the weather outside.

Even though there was no rain, the entire place seemed terrifyingly gloomy, as if the sky could fall at any second.

Vooooooooom!

As Harvey was halfway done eating his pineapple bun, his phone vibrated violently.

An unknown number called.

After picking up the call, a voice could be heard from the other side of the phone.

“Sir York! Save me! Please!”

A terrified tone could be heard as if the person was prey moments before death.

Harvey frowned slightly.

“Who is this?”

“I’m Rupert Howell! We met last night!”

“Our group was supposed to meet up and play golf today! I was tasked to escort Ms. Johnson, but some car stopped us when we were halfway there!”

“Ms. Johnson got kidnapped!”

“I escaped when I saw the opportunity, but they’re still looking for me!”

“There’s nowhere for me to run! I tried contacting the police station and the Johnson family, but nobody picked up! You’re the only person I could call...”

“Please, Sir York! You must save me and Ms. Johnson!”

“You couldn’t contact them?!”

Harvey frowned slightly. He felt that someone was pulling the strings from behind the scenes...

“Don’t rush. Where are you? Tell me right now. I’ll go to you. Explain everything to me slowly.”

Harvey calmly squinted at the window, as if unbeknown to him that someone was trailing him.
