

Chapter 2937

While Cory and Lexie were carefully laying out their plans...

In the cold wind of Hong Kong, an unexpected guest showed up before the dimly-lit garden villa.

Because of the wind and rain, the heavily guarded place had become a little lax in terms of security.

Inside the main building, only a few people could be seen roaming around. These were the elite guards of the garden villa.

After most of the guards had been taken away by Marcel, not a lot of people were left in the building.

A mixed-race man in a knight uniform emerged from the shadows.

The firearm in his hand was equipped with a silencer. As he trudged forward, he quietly destroyed all the surveillance cameras along the way.

At the same time, he roamed the villa to make sure there weren't a lot of guards around. Then, he sent out a signal.

Minutes later, several men in the same knight uniform showed up with swords in their hands. They walked into the main building with menacing steps.

Their movements were extremely light. They didn't make a single sound.

"Go!"

After confirming that the situation was clear, the leading knight gave the order. His eyes were cold.

This man was none other than the fourth princess' personal knight, Rozak.

In the past, he was made the deputy commander of the Knights Templar after making a grand achievement in the Euro-American battlefield.

However, it was said he had been utterly terrified by the Head Coach and had never honed his skills after the setback.

After he retired, he was asked to become the fourth princess's personal knight.

At this moment, he didn't seem weak at all. Instead, he was brimming full of power.

In his eyes, there was hope for him to rise again in this international metropolis.

If Hong Kong was trampled under his feet, he might be able to walk out of that man's shadow...

After squinting at the main building, Rozak waved his hand with a cold expression.

"Stick to the plan. Take Selena down and use her as a hostage. We'll trade Young Master Leo with her."

"Yes sir!"

The knights around him nodded.

Jason was their leader, the alpha wolf.

Without him, the Knights Templar would be destined to become cannon fodder.

Thus, they were using all their strength to get Jason back!

Shadows roamed under dim lights in the rain.

The door of the main building was kicked down, and the knights rushed inside.

Some of them took out their firearms, ready to gun down any guards that may show up.

When Rozak went inside the living room with his subordinates, his heart instantly skipped a beat when he saw Selena reading a book on the couch.

Selena wasn't meditating, nor was she shocked by the sight. Only an indescribable silence and calm could be felt on her.

She was clicking on her laptop while showing the occasional frown, as if she was in trouble.

Selena had no intention to look at Rozak at the others, who were standing right in front of her.

"Selena?"

Rozak felt a little parched. Something was wrong; a sense of danger came to his mind, making his eyes twitch quite a bit.

Alas, there was no way back at that moment.

Rozak gritted his teeth lightly and commanded his men, "Take Selena down!"

Right as the knights were about to take action...

Longmen elites clad in black appeared from every single corner of the room.

Chapter 2938

The elites already had their firearms with safeties off beforehand. Red dots shone on Rozak and his men before they realized what was happening.

At least four dots could be seen on every single knight.

The fierce knights were now so scared, they didn't dare budge even a single inch.

They knew full well what those red dots were.

If they did anything stupid, they would no doubt perish once someone pulled the trigger.

One of the knights, however, didn't believe that the York elites would actually take action.

He rolled to the front and pounced at Selena, ready to capture her alive.

Swoosh, swoosh, swoosh!

Countless bullets quietly rained on the knight; bullet holes could be seen all over his body.

Cold sweat drenched Rozak's back. A member of the Knights Templar was turned into mush right before his very eyes!

The smell of blood filled the air, making the place completely dense. Rozak and his men's intention of fighting their way out was immediately squashed as well.

"I just bought the carpet, too..."

Selena put down her laptop lightly, saddened.

She then narrowed her eyes at Rozak and his men.

"I've been waiting for you."

"Don't you people know that staying up late is bad for my skin?"

"How are you going to take responsibility if you ruin my sleep?"

Selena sounded like she was just chatting with her neighbors rather than facing people who aimed to kill her.

However, her words were enough to numb Rozak and his men.

Rozak's eyes twitched frantically when he saw the York elites surrounding him.

"Looks like I underestimated you, Lady Judd."

"I didn't think that Lord York would be this attentive and keep his guards around you!"

"Isn't he afraid of getting himself killed?"

"My husband is the lord of the family. Does he really look that weak to you all?"

Selena flashed them a tiny smirk.

"As one of the five hidden families, we have a lot of tricks up our sleeves."

"Don't you worry. Even if I have ten times the men here with me, there still wouldn't be any problems on my husband's side."

"These are just simple things. No need to be so shocked."

Rozak's expression was utterly horrible.

"How did you know that we were coming here?"

"We just got our orders!"

"Did someone betray us?!"

"These descendants of Country H are fishy, alright!"

Rozak shot her a vengeful look, as if he had forgotten that he was a mixed-race.

Selena replied with a look of complete disinterest.

"I have no interest in hiring people like you."

"We only prepared this many men because we knew what you lot were up to."

"Or rather, Harvey was the one who saw it coming."

"After he took Jason down, he said The Empire will take action soon after."

"Their best plan is to use me as a bargaining chip."

"Everyone who's connected to Harvey is all in Las Vegas at this moment. I'm his only weak spot right now."

"A weak spot to lure you in, that is."

"You people are exactly the same as that smart *ss Vince. The second you lose your advantage, you'll come right for this bait like a bunch of brainless idiots."

Chapter 2939

"I have to admit! Even though that fourth princess of yours is just an outcast, she's still pretty ruthless!"

"The moment she got word that she lost Jason, she didn't even hesitate to launch an attack."

"It's a shame that she's going up against Harvey."

Selena felt quite a bit of admiration toward Harvey as she spoke of him. Naturally, she was more and more content with her future son-in-law.

Rozak's face turned horrible after hearing Selena's words.

He took action only half an hour ago. Everything had been decided on the spot. It was clearly a stroke of genius...

Yet, Harvey managed to see through the entire plan.

That man even deliberately set up a trap just for Rozak!

A hint of fear pulsated in Rozak's chest; the same fear he felt on the Euro-American battlefield.

Rozak was so terrified by the ancient eastern country, he couldn't even hold his firearm...

"Drop your weapons," Selena said calmly.

"I'm getting old. I don't like killing."

"That said, it doesn't mean I won't kill."

"You're here to end my life, after all."

"If you really want to go against me, I wouldn't mind spilling a little more blood."

"The carpet's already ruined, anyway."

After hearing Selena's words, several York elites raised their firearms and pointed them at Rozak and his men. They were ready to kill.

Rozak's face was ugly. He knew he was finished.

But as the pride of the descendants of Country H in The Empire, he couldn't surrender without putting up a fight.

Bang!

However, Selena waved his hand, not giving Rozak much time to think.

A few elites pulled the trigger, gunning down two of the knights who were planning to fight their way out.

"We surrender!"

"We give up!"

Rozak's eyes were twitching frantically. Finally, he dropped and slammed his knees on the ground in submission.

Selena chuckled before taking his phone out.

"They're all yours."

"I'll send them to Las Vegas soon."

"It's nothing. Just treat them as my daughter's dowry."

Harvey, who was on the other side of the phone, was rendered completely speechless.

'She's sending me hostages as dowry?'

'...Can I just not take them?'

...

After letting Edwin take control of the Mordu Casino-Palace, Harvey immediately dozed off.

He was quite used to a hands-off approach like this by now. Besides, he firmly believed Mordu Casino-Palace would thrive under Edwin's control.

Early in the morning the following day, Harvey was about to have his breakfast in the casino-palace's garden when a few Rolls Royces with license plates from the embassy charged right in.

A large number of knights stepped out of the cars immediately.

The bossy fourth princess emerged from the car in the middle.

She was clad in jewelry from head to toe. A crown sat on top of her head, painting her in an enchanting image. Her elite aura could clearly be felt.

She kicked down the two large dogs sitting at the entrance before marching fiercely into the garden with her knights.

At present, the fourth princess didn't seem like she came from the royal family at all. Instead she looked like a furious widow who had lost her husband...

She glared at Harvey and exclaimed coldly, "I'm giving you one minute! Let my man and Rozak and his men go!"

Chapter 2940

"Kneel and beg for it," Harvey replied, calm.

"If you do, I'll give you a chance to save them."

'Kneel?!'

'Beg?!'

Everyone was shocked to hear those words. Even Fabian, Morgan, and the others, who were having breakfast with Harvey, couldn't stop their jaws from dropping.

'What's going on?!'

'Did he just say he wanted the fourth princess to kneel?!'

For a long time, The Empire was the strongest country of them all.

Even though the fourth successor of the throne probably had no chance sitting on the throne, her status was still immensely powerful.

When the fourth princess traveled on behalf of The Empire, she would still be treated like the leader of a nation.

The citizens and even royalty would pay their respects to her.

Some would even write an entire speech a month prior, just to say a few words in front of her.

Everyone would be terrified to offend the fourth princess and The Empire.

Yet, Harvey demanded her to kneel and apologize.

This was no longer a challenge.

This was utter disrespect toward The Empire!

The fourth princess had experienced many things, but this was her first time getting into such a situation.

She had ways to deal with Harvey, no matter how Harvey behaved.

But she never thought she would be demanded to kneel!

Calling him mad would be a massive understatement...

"What did you just say, Harvey?!" The fourth princess shrieked in a high-pitched tone.

"I'm telling you to kneel and apologize."

Harvey leveled her with a calm gaze, unruffled.

"Do you not understand English?"

"If you don't, then don't show your face here."

"Come back when you brush up your English."

The fourth princess exploded in anger at Harvey's conceit.

"Do you realize what you're saying, Harvey York?!"

"You want me to kneel and apologize?! Ha!"

"Who do you think you are?!"

"Let me tell you something! Other than the queen of The Empire, even the eldest princess has no right to ask that of me!"

"If you know what's best for you, then you better release my man and everyone else! If you don't, I'll come at you until one of us dies!"

"This will turn into a diplomatic incident sooner or later!"

"I'd like to see how you'll handle such a big mess!"

If this wasn't Harvey's territory, she would've put a bullet in his head.

'When did some nobody get the right to show off in front of me, anyway?'

'He must have a death wish!'

"So what if you kneel?"

Harvey remained emotionless and cold.

"All lands here belong to the king. Since you're in our territory, then you better play by our rules."

"If you're wrong, you have to admit it."

"If you do, you'll have a chance to be forgiven."

"Let me see your sincerity! Then, I'll consider letting you off the hook!"

"I might just release your men after that."

"Don't come here making demands with that bossy look of yours."

"You think you have special rights just because you're a foreigner?!"

Harvey spoke in a bitingly cold tone.

"I'm sorry, but you don't mean anything to me here."

"Nothing will change, even if you bring the queen of The Empire."

"Kneel and apologize! We'll only talk after that."

"If you want to talk, then do as I say. If not, get out of my face!"

Harvey's harsh words were enough to make the fourth princess shiver. Naturally, she was already seething with anger.