

Chapter 166

Harvey was speechless when he saw Rosalie's body trembling. 'Miss Rosalie, can you please not act like this? Others will think I'm teasing you.'

'I have a wife, I'm not that kind of person!' 1

Rosalie gritted her teeth and said softly before Harvey could speak, "I heard... Although you have been married to your wife for three years... you both never did that thing before, and you have not even touched her hand... is it true?"

"What thing?" Harvey absently asked.

Rosalie stomped her feet, her cheeks a bright red. "The thing that happens between a husband and wife!"

Harvey became more speechless. 'You, a pure and innocent little girl, are looking at me with those big eyes and asking me such a question. I don't know how to answer!'

However, Harvey felt helpless after being stared at by Rosalie for a long time. He finally sighed and said, “Well, you’re not wrong...”

“Great!” Rosalie exclaimed softly.

“Huh?” Harvey frowned. ‘What’s so good about knowing my embarrassing story? Can you not be like this, miss?’

“Well, I’ll contact you in advance when my grandfather comes. If you have time then, maybe we could have a meal together. You won’t say no, right?” Rosalie was very happy at the moment, and was no longer the stone-cold fox.

Harvey thought for a while, then smiled and nodded. “Okay.”

The Naiswells were quite influential in South Light, especially Master Naiswell. Master Naiswell was certainly a person worthy of befriending, and he surely would not throw away this opportunity.

“Okay, then I will contact you soon. I won’t bother you now... Father!” Rosalie whispered the last word, then quickly fled the scene.

Harvey looked at her back, speechless. What did that mean? If she also called him Father in the midst of doing that thing... Harvey shuddered. He should not think about it. It would be fatal.

Both Yvonne and Mandy were staring at him when he walked back towards them. Harvey shrugged and said, “Master Naiswell is coming to Niumhi. He invited me to meet him.”

Yvonne nodded. Her CEO was indeed awesome; even Master Naiswell wanted to meet him.

Mandy was curious about it, and asked, “Harvey, why? Was it because you identified that “The Rocky Mountains, Lander’s Peak”?”

“I think so.” Harvey smiled.

Yvonne could sense that Harvey did not want to talk about it, so she said, “How about sending you two home first? I have things to do later, so I can’t have dinner with you.”

Harvey nodded and said, “Alright, thank you for your consideration.”

Yvonne was very considerate. The guy who married her in the future would be very lucky.

Yvonne turned around and smiled, then walked towards the parking lot.

However, her expression changed when she turned around.

She could still accept Mandy since she was Harvey’s wife, but what about this Rosalie character? Was the CEO a playboy?!

No, the CEO was not a playboy. He was just too good. These women still wanted to make a move on him although he was so low-key.

At that moment, Yvonne secretly vowed that she would try to keep those flirtatious women away from the CEO.

Harvey did not think too much. He looked at Mandy's beautiful face after getting into the car. He was excited about tonight.

He would be sleeping in the bedroom, right?

In the Zimmer Villa.

Lilian and Xynthia were already waiting in the living room when they came back.

The circle of high society was not that big. The two of them already knew about the incident where Harvey had some crazy good luck. He was able to give Mandy the diamond ring Forever Mine.

Xynthia was the first to jump Mandy and grabbed her left hand when the two of them entered the house. Xynthia kept looking left and right at it, then asked happily, "Sister, is this the legendary Forever Mine?"

"Yes." Mandy nodded slightly, smiling happily. Not only had Harvey given up “The Rocky Mountains, Lander’s Peak” for her, but he had also taken the opportunity to get to know Yvonne — the secretary to the CEO of York Enterprise.

This was the first time Mandy felt that her live-in husband was reliable after three years of marriage.

“This was given to me by your brother-in-law,” Mandy said shyly.

Xynthia groaned and said, “Sister, I heard about it. That useless b*stard just happened to have some crazy good luck. He managed to buy that famous painting for just fifteen dollars and exchanged it for the Forever Mine. What’s so great about it? To put it bluntly, he just gave you a present that cost about fifteen dollars. Sister, you must not change your view of him. He is just a useless b*stard and that will not change!”

Lilian also said solemnly after seeing Mandy’s happy face. “Mandy, don’t be moved because of this. Also, don’t be arrogant, Harvey! What’s so good about a fifteen dollar gift? If he bought this diamond ring with his own money, then I will acknowledge his ability, but this is just pure luck. Hmph...”

“Mandy, you still have to divorce him, do you understand?”

Chapter 167

“Please stop it, Mom! We need to thank Harvey since he was the one who introduced me to Miss Xavier, which helped me get the investment,” Mandy pleaded.

“Really?” Lilian exclaimed in surprise. She had always been worried about the investment, so she stopped talking about Harvey since he had helped them.

“Yes, Mom, let’s get some rest now, alright? We’ll discuss the other things after I settle everything with York Enterprise,” Mandy said soothingly.

“Okay, we’ll take care of the important stuff first,” Lilian agreed.

“The floor hasn’t been mopped for days, get to it! You’ve been going out so often lately, do you even see this as your home?” Lilian sneered, glaring at Harvey.

“Alright, got it,” Harvey replied as he was used to Lilian’s attitude by now. He had been doing the chores for the past three years anyway, so it wasn’t a big problem for him.

Mandy stared at Harvey contemplatively for a while, then went to take a shower.

After half an hour, Harvey’s mobile phone rang. It was Mandy.

“Harvey, are you still mopping the floor? Are you tired? If you’re tired, you can... you can always come to my room...” Mandy stammered.

“Honey, I’m not tired,” Harvey interrupted before getting what Mandy meant.

Harvey immediately regretted what he said as he might lose the chance to sleep with Mandy for the first time.

He couldn’t imagine when Mandy would make an offer like this again.

“Mandy, if I said I’m tired, can I rest?” Harvey asked shyly.

“Get lost!” Mandy scolded coldly before slamming the door.

Bam!

Harvey stared at the mop dejectedly.

The next day, Mandy arrived at York Enterprise’s lobby, and the receptionist immediately guided her to the conference room. This time, Yvonne Xavier signed the contract after agreeing to change back to the initial conditions, which were fifty million dollars as well as a lowered profit demand.

Mandy sighed happily as she knew that Harvey had brought her good luck.

Although the painting “The Rocky Mountains, Lander’s Peak” was really precious, the most important thing to Mandy was that the Zimmers could get funding and not end up bankrupt.

Mandy felt relieved when she walked out of York Enterprise after finishing the deal with Yvonne.

Later that afternoon, Mandy gave Senior Zimmer a call and gathered the Zimmers at the villa.

For the past few days, they had all been disappointed with Mandy and had even looked down on her, thinking that she wouldn't be able to get the deal. They weren't quite willing to attend the family meeting after receiving the notice, but they had no other option.

“Mandy, we thought you went missing for the past few days as not a single progress report was announced. What are you trying to do today? You want us to give your ideas, or perhaps blame us?” Zack Zimmer mocked Mandy cruelly.

“Mandy, we're not going to help you with this since Grandpa gave you the responsibility of this project.”

“Yeah, Mandy, we can't provide any help either!”

“You should do it on your own, Mandy!”

The crowd shook off the responsibility as none of them were capable of bearing the responsibility if the family went bankrupt.

“Mandy, I see you have a giant ring there. I heard your live-in husband got lucky last night and got a famous painting for only fifteen dollars. In my opinion, you guys should’ve just given the painting to the Yorks and not exchanged it for your diamond ring,” Quinn Zimmer sneered enviously. She didn’t think that Mandy deserved such an expensive ring.

“Oh, that’s right! Why don’t you give the ring to Miss Xavier? It might get us a contract!”

“Yeah, Mandy! Don’t be stingy about something like this. Family first, remember?”

“Correct! You should focus on our problems first!”

Chapter 168

“This is a gift from my husband, I will not sell it no matter what!” Mandy Zimmer protested while glaring at her so-called relatives.

“Mandy Zimmer, you have no sympathy!”

“Do you want to see us go bankrupt?”

“You traitor! We were the ones who raised you!”

They were furious because they thought that they might have had a chance if Mandy had given the ring to the Yorks.

Swoosh!

“Rather than telling my wife to give back her ring, why don’t you all give your properties to the Yorks? They might give us a chance then,” Harvey said sarcastically as he opened the door and entered the room.

The members of the Zimmer family immediately looked upset when Harvey barged in.

“Who allowed you to come to our meeting, you worthless piece of trash?!” Zack yelled at Harvey.

“I’m here to witness my wife becoming the new project manager. Am I troubling you?” Harvey asked coldly.

“Hah, keep dreaming! Both of you will be kicked out of the family if she can’t get the deal, so don't be so confident, you good-for-nothing!” Zack laughed mockingly.

Bam!

Senior Zimmer silenced Harvey and Zack when he slammed the table. “Enough! Can’t the both of you behave? Mandy, tell me your progress.”

“I’ve got it under control,” Mandy replied assuredly.

After seeing Harvey, Mandy immediately felt more confident for some reason.

“The Yorks agreed to fund us fifty million dollars. I was trying to tell you all earlier but everybody was so passionate about giving comments,” Mandy said sarcastically.

“What? You... got it settled?” Zack asked doubtfully. He couldn't believe that Mandy had solved the issue despite being rejected a few times.

Although it was good news for the Zimmers, it was not quite pleasant for Zack as Senior Zimmer had promised the title of Project Manager for the Zimmer's Commercial Centre Project to Mandy if she succeeded. The project was highly profitable, which meant Mandy would get a higher position in the family if she did it successfully.

“Mandy Zimmer, I hope you're not trying to fool us! We know that you were rejected many times by the Yorks, how is it possible that you've settled everything all of a sudden?” A woman demanded suddenly. The woman was on Zack's side, so she naturally couldn't believe that Mandy was capable of handling the issue.

“Why should I report to you about how I got it done, Yuna? If I wanted to fool all of you, why would I call the meeting? You think I would joke about something like this in front of Grandpa?”

Mandy replied angrily to Yuna Zimmer’s accusation.

After they got over their initial shock, the Zimmers looked happy. Of course, it was because all of them would get benefits if the Yorks agreed to fund the Zimmers.

“You didn’t let us down, Mandy, good job!”

“As I said before, you’re the hope of our family!”

“After seeing your capabilities, I think we worried for nothing!”

The Zimmers had changed their views all of a sudden.

Mandy was disappointed by their fickle behaviour – they would praise her only if it benefited them.

They also wouldn't hesitate to blame her if the situation got bad for them, not to mention people like Zack and Sean who were always trying to overshadow her.

Although Mandy had succeeded, Zack's expression had darkened considerably as he wouldn't be able to benefit if he didn't get the project.

“Don't be so cheeky, Mandy Zimmer,” Zack growled quietly, since Senior Zimmer was still present.

Mandy didn't even bother about Zack as she handed the signed contract to Senior Zimmer.

“Mandy, since you didn't let me down, I'll give you what I promised. You are now in charge of the Commercial Centre Project, and I promise to not interfere with your decisions from now on,” Senior Zimmer complimented Mandy with a wide smile on his face.

“No problem, Grandpa. I already have plans for the project. According to the Yorks, the funds will be transferred into our account later this afternoon, and they'll fund us through a six-month installment, which means roughly 7.6 million dollars per month," Mandy said, explaining the Yorks' funding method to Senior Zimmer.

"No problem!" Senior Zimmer replied contentedly. With the fundings from the Yorks, the Zimmers would have no problems doing business with other companies. It would be very troublesome if the Zimmers were facing issues from both directions.

The contract which Mandy brought had instantly solved the biggest issue of the Zimmers.

Chapter 169

“Grandpa, I would like to request something. As we don’t have much time left, I’m planning to start the construction tomorrow, so I would like to pick someone trustworthy to keep an eye on the construction process,” Mandy said to Senior Zimmer.

“Sure, pick anyone you like,” Senior Zimmer replied easily.

“Grandpa, I pick Harvey...” Mandy suggested hesitantly as she looked at Harvey.

Mandy was starting to think that Harvey was reliable, so she wanted to give Harvey a chance to learn what it was like working on the frontline.

Senior Zimmer frowned at Mandy’s request.

“Mandy Zimmer, do you really think you can control everything about the project? It’s not even your asset to begin with! You want to let this worthless guy supervise the construction? Who's gonna bear the responsibility if he screws up?" Zack Zimmer shouted, jealousy clear in his tone.

"Grandpa already said that I'm in charge of the entire project. Who are you to object?" Mandy replied with a frown.

"Mandy, please don't tell me that you're planning to sabotage our assets. Having one of you as the project manager, and the other as the project supervisor? It couldn't get any easier for the two of you to snatch a few million dollars from the project," Zack accused spitefully.

"Grandpa, you shouldn't agree to this! That guy is an outsider!" Zack continued to object.

"You!" Mandy got mad as Zack was accusing others for something he would have done.

Senior Zimmer was still frowning as he couldn't decide which one of his grandchildren he should support. Although he definitely loved Zack more, Mandy was the one who had gotten the contract. He wanted to be on Zack's side, but he was also afraid that the project would face issues.

“Cut it out, both of you. Mandy, since you're in charge of the project, you should go and supervise from time to time, and get a professional supervisor if needed. Since the project involves our family's future, I would suggest we let the professionals do their work.” Senior Zimmer used the family as an excuse to deny Mandy's request.

Mandy was slightly disappointed when she realized Senior Zimmer had been convinced by Zack's false accusations. She agreed to Senior Zimmer's suggestion since holding onto the project was more important at the moment.

“Hah! The piece of garbage thought he could climb on our heads and get benefits - what a joke!” Zack sneered hatefully.

“I'm not interested in supervising the project,” Harvey said directly as he was already busy enough with York Enterprise's affairs. He had come today because he was worried about Mandy.

“Would you even be here if you weren’t interested? Don’t think I don’t know what you’re planning. Even if Mandy somehow became the chairman of the company, you would still be nothing but a dog of the Zimmers!” Zack shouted as he slammed the table.

Bam!

Harvey didn’t even want to argue with Zack anymore - he just grabbed an ashtray and whacked Zack’s head with it for his unpleasant comments.

“Ouch!” Zack howled in pain, looking like he was about to cry as he clutched his head.

‘Harvey has been acting quite violent lately, does he have a problem?’

“I’ve had enough!” Senior Zimmer roared.

Senior Zimmer was already disappointed in Zack as he had barely contributed anything; it had almost come to the point where he was reconsidering the rightful heir of the Zimmers.

Seeing that Senior Zimmer didn't speak up for him, Zack was unhappy. Sean, on the other hand, was also worried since that Senior Zimmer would change his mind and not acknowledge Zack as the rightful heir of the Zimmers.

The other Zimmers also looked worried as they started to wonder if Mandy would become the new heir. If so, they would have to suck up to Mandy often and respect Harvey more, which was tough since they only saw Harvey as a freeloader.

After Senior Zimmer left, Zack stood up in anger.

"Both of you had better not try anything, I'll be watching," Zack threatened while glaring at Mandy.

Mandy frowned a little while Harvey didn't even bother to pay Zack any attention. He was more than capable of taking everything away from him without breaking a sweat.

Chapter 170

It didn't take long before the news spread around Niumhi that the Zimmers got a fifty million dollar fund from the Yorks.

“I heard they got the funds because of a woman!”

“Is it the one who has a live-in husband?”

“I heard the husband bought the painting “The Rocky Mountains, Lander's Peak” for only fifteen dollars, and gave it to the CEO of York Enterprise.”

“No wonder!”

“Could it be that the CEO was interested in Mandy?”

Outsiders started to gossip all of a sudden, but that didn't stop the Zimmers from becoming more popular, as a lot of families came to visit in the afternoon.

The Zimmer Villa was crowded, and everyone was there except for Harvey York and Mandy Zimmer.

Other families had come to learn a thing or two on how they got the funding, but it was too bad that Mandy wasn't there to share the details.

At the Platinum Hotel.

Harvey wanted to meet Tyson Woods, and coincidentally met Jake Surrey on the way.

Jake was surprised to see Harvey there as he had come with the intention of asking Tyson to get rid of Harvey.

“What a coincidence, Harvey,” Jake sneered. He still couldn't get over the humiliation he had faced at the auction house, and unfortunately was still deeply attracted to Mandy. That was why he came to ask Tyson to break Harvey's legs.

“Could it be that your visit today is to get rid of me?” Harvey asked with a smirk.

At that moment, Tyson walked out of the room. He was shocked to see Harvey and Jake standing next to each other as he heard that Jake would be needing his help to break someone's legs. Judging from the situation, could it be that Harvey was the one Jake was after?

“Brother Tyson, as we discussed earlier, this is the guy. Break his legs and the eight hundred thousand dollars will be yours,” Jake said boldly, expecting Harvey to get scared and divorce Mandy. Maybe then he would have a chance with her.

Tyson's face paled after hearing Jake's request. Of all the people on Earth, Jake had to pick a fight with Harvey! Tyson wouldn't dare mess with Harvey even if Harvey wanted to kill him. Only those who knew Harvey knew how powerful he actually was.

A kid from the Surreys was asking him to break Harvey's legs? Tyson wanted to kill Jake on the spot!

Harvey gave Tyson a look before he could say anything.

“Mr. Surrey, at least let me know how much you paid to break my legs,” Harvey said calmly.

“Eight hundred thousand dollars! Four hundred thousand dollars for each!” Jake replied proudly.

Smack!

“Four hundred thousand dollars for a leg? Who are you kidding?! These are worth at least a few million, are you trying to cheat Tyson?” Harvey yelled at Jake after slapping his face.

‘What the... Did he just slap me?!’ Jake was stunned as he held his stinging cheek with wide eyes.

“Brother Tyson, help me break his arms too, and I’ll give you another eight hundred thousand dollars!” Jake yelled angrily while pointing at Harvey.

“Eight hundred thousand dollars? Are you trying to fool me again?” Tyson asked menacingly when he realized that Harvey didn’t want to expose himself.