

Her Biliionaire Husband

Chapter 584

Chapter 584 The Past Is Exposed

After Veronica repeatedly proofread her story and edited the text until she was satisfied, she attached the pictures, which were more than a dozen pictures of them from when they first started dating, as well as the gif and video of her disguise process.

Veronica's social media handle was called 'Little Roni, the Master of Disguise'.

This was an account she started using since high school, and because she constantly updated it with videos, she had accumulated quite a considerable following. That was why she hadn't changed her handle before.

After everything was perfect, she published the content without hesitation.

As her account had accumulated more than 300,000 followers, the number of her followers exploded to more than a million after the video of her and Matthew was released.

Her fans were on both ends of extremity—either they were critical of Matthew and wanted her to steer clear from that jerk, or they were berating her, saying that she was a scheming bitch.

However, she had ignored all the messages in her direct message so as not to spoil her own mood.

With the help of the power of her followers and the trending topic between her and Matthew, her social media account went viral within fifteen minutes of publishing the post.

The title, 'Veronica Murphy's Letter to Matthew Kings, shot straight to the top search.'

'My god, were there so many stories?'

'Mom, I'm beginning to believe in love again.'

'The modern-day Prince Charming and Cinderella.'

'Is this for real?'

'Every word on the Internet is filled with emotions. It doesn't look fake.'

'I'm a fireman and was there when the Regalia Condominium caught fire last year. I did see someone dashing into the fire to save a girl, but I didn't know that it was her!'

'Goodness, that's so romantic!'

'I'm a food delivery girl as well. May I ask where I could find a wealthy man like that? I would like to have a fairytale romance, too.'

'Did they hire a PR?'

...

Just within thirty minutes, the post received 2.3 million likes and 30,000 comments.

Immediately, bloggers who were following current affairs started to dig up news and videos.

#RegaliaCondominiumVideoExposed
#MurphyWasReallySavedByKings
#ShoppingMallVideoExposed #TheDressedUpManWasHer
#ShockedThatMurphyHadAMiscarriageForHim
#Exposé! #KingsSavedHerFromFloodWithAHelicopter
#KingsChoppingWoodAtTheMurphysExposed

...

Due to the development of the Internet, bloggers kept posting news and digging out all that had happened before in the following hours.

And so, their love story was made public, taking over the spot of the top search in all major search engines.

All the keyboard warriors who started abusing and criticizing them gradually took a turn in their stand and started supporting their relationship. Some even insisted on a grand wedding to be held.

Even the hashtag, 'Prince Charming and Cinderella isn't a fairytale', made it as one of the trending topics.

In the hospital bed, Veronica monitored what was going on on the Internet and saw that there were no more abuses.

In its place were countless blessings for their marriage, and her heart which was on tenterhooks, finally relaxed.

At the same time, Matthew was in his office in Spinfluence Group. As he leaned into his executive chair, he read the 'letter'

Veronica wrote him from his screen, and a warm replaced his usually aloof expression.

In front of the desk stood the head of the public relations department. Initially, Matthew was worried that these negative voices would affect Veronica's mood, so he asked the people from the PR department to take care of this.

Unexpectedly, before he could go into a detailed discussion with the head of the department, the department head received a call and told Matthew about the situation.

When the employee informed him of the current state of affairs, he logged on to his social media and saw Veronica's letter for him.

From the beginning until the end, he examined each word closely and even read it through four times.

"Uh...President Kings, do you still need the PR department to take care of it?"

As he was used to seeing Matthew being aloof, his heart nearly stopped beating due to the shock of seeing his boss, Matthew, suddenly staring at the screen in a daze with a faint smile on his face like he was a fool in love.

???