

Her Billionaire 609

Chapter 609 The Upcoming Wedding

All along, Crayson had not been supportive of Matthew and Veronica's marriage. "Master Crayson, I would never regret any decision that I've made."

Veronica had a solemn expression as she spoke, "You should realize that even if we don't get married, what's coming for us will still come at us."

"Do you realize the massive danger that you would face during the wedding day?" Crayson was much more worried about Veronica's safety than anything else.

"In reference to the safety issue, Matthew is much more aware of it than me. Besides, I've contacted Destiny a week ago. With her and Matthew protecting me at the same time, though I can't guarantee that I'll be perfectly safe, I reckon I wouldn't be subjected to too much danger."

Naturally, she had also considered the issues that Crayson was concerned about. It was something that had to be inevitably faced, so running away from the problem would not resolve things.

"Have you made up your mind?" Crayson repeated his question once again.

Veronica lowered her head and considered his words for some time before finally nodding firmly. "Yes, I've made up my mind. This time, I won't look back."

She recalled the past and thought of all the things that Matthew had done for her. He had sacrificed silently all this while. If she could not tie the knot with him and walk down the aisle hand-in-hand, then this would most likely be the most regretful thing in her life.

Meanwhile, Crayson lifted a hand to stroke his goatee before coming to the realization that his goatee had been sheared. In the end, he stroked the short white stubble on his chin.

eyes were full of coldness and one could not seem to tell finally heaved a sigh. "Since you've made up your mind,

did not turn up to work, no we're heading back home together tomorrow." Veronica did not make him stay any a look at

to share with her, but in the end, he kept all the words to himself. He left and his

Veronica sort out the hospital discharge procedures before sending her back to

Shirley, Ruka, Larry, Stephen, Ivana, Wade, Sean, Skyler, Caleb, Miguel, and Rania went along with Matthew to head to Veronica's hometown. Naturally, Crayson marriage custom, the bride's family had to put up a feast than ever with the

had brought along plenty of stuff and they were all betrothal

As they parked their cars by the side of the road, it was an impressive sight with a range of luxurious cars. There was a Ferrari, a came out in droves to take a look and they were impressed by the snagged a rich man and wealthy. Gosh, up today are wealthy people and those men are so handsome. It would be