

Her Billionaire 616

Chapter 616 The Ceremony

Matthew turned his head slightly and shot a look from the side of his eyes at Skyler before averting his attention to Veronica as he gulped anxiously.

“Roni, I’ve been so blessed to have encountered you and... your existence has brought colors into my life, which used to be dull and boring.”

He paused for a moment and stepped forward to hold Veronica’s hands. At the same time, he gently stroked the back of her hand, as if this gesture of holding her hand made him feel significantly at ease for some reason.

“For the rest of our lives, no matter how tough things get, I hope that we will continue to walk through life hand-in-hand, for better or worse.” As he said this, he held her hand tightly with a sincere and loving look in his eyes. Although it was just a few simple sentences of confession, Veronica was content with that.

She reached out and took the microphone from his hand. “All of the heartfelt words I have for you are written on that post on Twitter the other day, but listen here, Matthew Kings. After our marriage, that means you’re solely mine. So, if you dare to abandon me, then I vow to chase after you to the ends of the earth.”

As Veronica said that, she revealed a faint smile on her red lips and her dark eyes sparkled brightly; her happiness clearly shone through at that moment. “Wow! How blissful!”

“I like this confession of love.” “Oooh... I hope that they will remain happy forever.”

tell that she really

...

couple since

Matthew realized that their wedding was potentially full of danger, so the more guests they invited, the rowdier the slight rosy tinge to her porcelain skin. Her bright-red lips accentuated her pearly-white teeth and her thick, dark yet slightly upturned eyelashes covered her dark eyes that sparkled. Her features were perfect and she was such a natural beauty that he could not quite keep his eyes saying her vow, he strode forward and placed a hand behind her neck before domineeringly planting a kiss on her lips taken aback by that. At that moment, she heard his white tuxedo accentuated his features much better. His well-groomed action of kissing Veronica resulted in excited screams throughout the room. She host took the microphone from her and Matthew's family traditions, so there were next step was the exchange of wedding rings before and wife. We direction of the guests and took a