

Her Billionaire 617

Chapter 617 Looming Danger

After the end of the ceremony, the host handed over the microphone for Elizabeth to share some words with the married couple. At that moment, she seemed very energetic and beamed widely the entire time.

As she held onto the microphone, she expressed herself excitedly, "From today onward, Veronica's my granddaughter-in-law. Watch out, Matthew, because if you bully her, I'll definitely give you a spanking regardless of my old age."

Veronica could not contain her laughter as Matthew hurriedly shook his head and held her hand tightly before shaking his head again. "Oh, I promise you that won't ever happen."

"My wish is fulfilled now that the two of you are married. From now on, I wish for a life of happiness for you two. I hope everything will go well..." Elizabeth's breath hitched as she spoke.

Perhaps it was because Matthew, whom she had raised since young, had now formed a family on his own. This was one of her wishes fulfilled, so she was now at ease.

Veronica instantly hurried over as soon as she noticed Elizabeth's tears and hugged her. "It's alright, Grandma. It's our big day today. Why are you crying?"

Elizabeth embraced her. Veronica smiled. "Grandma,
