

Her Billionaire 619

Chapter 619 Keeping Veronica Safe

There was another uncle of Matthew's on Conrad's table, who toasted with the couple and landed his gaze onto Conrad.

While the couple was holding the glasses in their hands, Matthew piped up, "Uncle Conrad, thanks for carving the time to attend our wedding."

In spite of the undercurrent between them, they appeared serene on the outside. Conrad rose to his feet to clink his wine glass with theirs and a forceful smile appeared on his handsome face.

"Congratulations. Wishing you a long and happy marriage."

"Thank you, Uncle Conrad," responded Veronica as the dark glint in his eyes went unnoticed. How could his light smile remain when his gaze turned sinister? They spoke of totally different emotions and no one could see through him.

After he downed his drink, he patted Matthew's shoulder. "Once the guests leave, the both of you gotta clean up the 'mess'."

The so-called mess was a warning to Matthew. It was as if Conrad was trying to say, "If the two of you try to leave right now, it'll be a war."

nonchalantly. "That is for sure. It's our wedding. It's natural for us to replied Conrad before he seated swept across Veronica and she happened to notice his expression. Still, she merely smiled at him full of Matthew's friends. Aside from his

...

drive Elizabeth home, but she kept holding Veronica's hand tightly was not satisfied with it. However, she let it go when she thought of since I've seen you this happy." Veronica gave her a hug. "Mrs. Coleman will take The grinning old woman nodded vigorously before leaving watch Elizabeth enter the car and leave.

ever-breezy man was wearing a solemn face.