

Her Billionaire 620

Chapter 620 It's High Time

The man caressed her hair when he said 'good girl', which melted Veronica's heart with his loving affections. "Hmm, okay." She did not insist on staying this time for the sake of her babies in her belly. Even if it was for her children, she had to make sure that she was safe herself.

"Master Crayson, Destiny, I'll be leaving Roni to you." Matthew looked at them. "Thank you for the hard work for the past few days. Take a good rest."

It was all words of courtesy as he did not mention anything about the 'danger'. "Okay. I'll bring this brat back." Crayson nodded seriously and pulled Veronica's hand before heading to the back exit.

"To the rooftop," reminded Matthew when he saw them attempting to leave through the back exit. They stopped midway and turned to look at him, then they took the elevator to the rooftop. As for the imminent incident, everyone did not bring it up mutually.

Although Veronica was very worried about Matthew, she did not tell him to stay safe, which could easily stir up one's emotion. It was because she knew that he would resolve it.

be heard from the rooftop of Atlantis Hotel. The helicopter's wings were so noisy and it was the very with gunfire and screams, as well as the clanking of the falling furniture. The parlor was stirred in

Instead of attending Matthew's wedding

when he and Matthew wall at the same time. He teased, "Why?

bullet bypassing him before blasting a few shots continued, "I just think that she's kinda cute and that's it. She helped and jumped forward to take cover behind a table. Raising his hands in the corridor upstairs, he shot from the railing and landed onto a table on the