

Her Billionaire 650

Chapter 650 Mysterious Intruder

Antheena and Sebastian's wedding was a grand spectacle. As she was on her way to see Sean, Veronica noticed that the street's billboards were filled with their wedding photos.

Flake held a ten-day feast and treated all the poor people there to free meals. His actions garnered more blessings for his daughter's wedding.

Veronica's phone rang, and she looked at it. Xavier? She hesitated for a moment before taking the call. "Congratulations on your wedding." She wished him well.

A long silence ensued, but she could vaguely hear a resigned sigh on the other end. Her brows furrowed, and she looked at her phone again. He's still on the line. She asked, "Why'd you call me?"

"I know you're in Castron. Why you aren't coming to my wedding?"

that he knew she was in Castron. She pursed her lips. "Sorry, but I have tighter, and the light in her eyes dimmed, but she hid her sadness away. "Antheena really likes you. I wish you all the could finish. She felt herself suffocating a little from how Ruka came back drunk and in tears. She hugged Veronica the moment she saw her. "We broke up, Veronica..." She cried like a child who is totally not a breakup. You're just telling everyone a There're other men out there waiting for you.

I only want Hendrey—" She felt her stomach churn, and bile was a trash can and watched as her friend threw up in the poor container, all the while mumbling a certain

She no longer squirmed around, and Veronica could return to her room with no worries. However, she kept tossing and turning