

Her Billionaire 651

Chapter 651 Nemesis

"It's me," Xavier answered. He was happy that Veronica was on high alert, but he also felt sad for her. What kind of horrors did she experience to sharpen her senses so much?

Xavier? Veronica tucked the dagger away. "I thought it was your wedding night. Why are you here?"

"Just here to see what you're doing. You did say you were too busy to attend the wedding." He stood before her, staring down at her.

The room was still dark, and the only source of light came from outside. They could vaguely see each other, but the looks on their faces were hidden.

She had no answer to his question, so she just plopped down on the couch and said, "You should leave. Antheena's gonna be worried if she finds you missing."

"She was in a great mood the whole day and had knocked herself out."

doesn't matter. You're her husband, so you should stay

"Are you lecturing me?"

reminder." She turned her attention to the dark skyline took out a bottle of red wine and two glasses from the wine

the glass on the table. With ease, he Matthew's disappearance, her days were filled with here anyway?" She leaned against the couch and rested her head on her hand, room being dark, the two of them did not go to turn on the lamps as if they had fact that we used to be comrades is true. Do you really have to go so far to reject me?" He raised his glass and took alone in a room together won't bode

you worried about