

Her Billionaire 661

Chapter

661 An Update

"I don't want Grandma to know about Matt's current condition. I'm worried that it might aggravate her condition as well, so please help me keep it a secret."

Elizabeth's Alzheimer's was getting worse, and if she found out that Matt was heavily injured, it might be too overwhelming for her. "Don't worry. We understand." "We won't tell Old Mrs. Kings about it."

"I was planning on keeping it from her too." The three men readily agreed. They were all grownups now. It was time they learned to be more discerning when it came to sharing bad news.

"Thank you. All of you have been working so hard to try and find Matt throughout the past few months. I really... can't thank you guys enough."

A word of thanks felt meager in comparison to all that they had done, but considering the wealth and status that each of them had, there was nothing Veronica could give that would count as adequate compensation either.

In any case, it was crude to bring up money in these sorts of scenarios, and also uncalled for considering the relationship they had with Matt. Regardless, she would never forget what they had done for her and Matt.

"I've been friends with Matt for a long time now, and even though we're not related, I think of him as my brother, so you don't need to feel indebted to us." Miguel glanced at the x-ray room and said kindly, "If you run into any trouble, remember to let us know."

like you can't ask us for help," children's godfathers too, so we're one big family. You don't for Veronica right now and had deep sympathy for Matthew's predicament. Now that various checkups and it was time to go through all in the hospital

were grim as they watched the pile of started explaining the situation. "His memory loss is caused by a blood clot formed after his head injury. He will regain his memory once the blood clot dissolves. As for the loss of speech, it's due to the blunt force trauma that damaged the cortical language areas of his cerebral cortex. As the report in great detail having braced herself beforehand, the doctor's words still hit her like at Matthew and slowly crouched down beside him to ask, "Did you hear what the blankly for

Meanwhile, at Castron.

was hard at work in his study when he didn't die.