

Her Billionaire 663

Chapter 663 Going Into Labor

“Hahaha... Fine. I’ll make some time for a trip to Bloomstead in a few days. Wait for me.”

Zac threw his head back with a chuckle and ended the call.

After putting the phone away, Conrad stared out the window with a dark gaze.

Zac was the kind that was easily blinded by lust. Everything could be settled in bed.

Conrad was green with envy over the 45 billion that Zac got from the Spencers.

Once he pocketed the whole sum, Zac would be of no use to him anymore!

Matthew was hospitalized for treatment, and Veronica spent all her waking hours at the hospital with him, with work being the only exception.

The plastic surgeon arrived in Bloomstead very quickly, and after coming up with a plan for the procedure, he began the first surgery.

It was a success, and over the following months, Matthew underwent several more facial reconstruction surgeries.

Time flew by, and in the blink of an eye, it was the third of May.

Veronica, who carried on working as her belly continued to protrude further and further, suddenly felt a sharp pain in her lower abdomen.

thighs, so she quickly said was supposed to be the eighteenth of May and she didn’t think that the babies would arrive two weeks in the meeting

they started checking in on her. “Are

my. You’re going to work you are. You’re even

Take her to the hospital right of Veronica, and their concern for

to the driver’s seat while Yvette stayed car sped straight to the Private Hospital, Veronica

and Shirley all rushed over as soon as they got the delivery room and sit in his wheelchair and

He glanced at Thomas and asked sternly, "Veronica's

did you let her continue has been lying in wait all along. Recently, he she has been working overtime every day without letting us know about it. How was I supposed and added just as helplessly, "Miss Murphy has been working herself

when she gets her six

but she has her ways of finding out what's going on with