

Her Billionaire 675

Chapter 675 It's All Part of the Plan

Because Thomas was leaning over to support Veronica by her arm, she got up and whispered in Thomas' ear, "Someone is monitoring us. Go check the morgue's surveillance and see if anyone has touched the body. You should know what to do."

Hearing that, he frowned as he knew what she meant. "Understood," he replied without turning his head, for fear that he would be exposed if he did.

Hence, Thomas had no choice but to continue acting with Veronica. "We have to respect the dead. Let's hurry back to the country. They are all waiting for Young Master Matthew back home."

After they went to the morgue, Veronica burst into tears while holding the corpse.

Her grief-stricken act was a perfect enactment of how a heartbroken person would be.

While Thomas stood aside to comfort her, he took out his phone and sent a message to someone, asking him to check the surveillance.

Thomas got a reply half an hour later. "Someone has definitely touched Young Master Matthew's corpse."

to let her seeing her sad, he chose to stand outside the morgue while took something out of her pocket and passed it the plane and set off few more hours later, Zac got the DNA test report sent to him by his subordinates. "We compared the thing sent by Mr. Conrad with Matthew Kings' hair. It standing in front of the French windows smoking a cigarette when he listened to his subordinate's report. With a frown, he reached sounds about right to me. He is useless, anyway. He can't escape even if he wanted to. Isn't he just a fish on a cutting board that life is in eyebrows slightly. "That makes sense. Tiffany Larson sure helped us get unscathed. It will be difficult to explain to Flake Denson and for you to completely clear yourself from

Heavens must be watching over around and walked to the couch to sit down before he picked up subordinates leave as he gave Conrad a call. "He is dead. The corpse will arrive in Bloomstead in a few hours. You will definitely be