

Her Billionaire 704

Chapter 704 Thankful for Him

After another round of intense, intimate sessions, Veronica lay beside Matthew and panted softly like a lazy little kitten. Just then, he stuffed something into her ear like a magic trick.

“What did you put inside?” She felt something extra in her ear, so she asked. “Tiny earphones that translate automatically.”

He pinched her cheek and explained earnestly, “I know you don’t understand the language of the hidden clan. So, I ordered someone to custom-make this thing long ago. It’s tested and proven to work efficiently. I thought you might need it.”

Matthew’s attentive manner in which he took care of her and his adoration for her shone through in his actions. Veronica was so moved by the gesture that she was at a loss for words.

“Matt, you treat me so well, but I-I... don’t know how to repay you.”

His excessive love for her invisibly placed a tremendous psychological burden on her.

All this while, he had been sacrificing for her, while she received it with endless greed. It made her wonder if she was useless. Why did she need him to do everything for her?

are you talking about? You’re my wife. What do I need in life. Roni, keep in mind that I am a very domineering person. When I pamper you, I can give you the entire world, but the only happen?” Veronica

into her ear, whispering, “I will imprison you by my side Facing his serious attitude, she grinned. “That it would never. Veronica was aware that she was someone who would repay others’ kindness to her arms around his waist, restlessly stroking his skin, thought, she suddenly asked again, “If I miss you one day, how can I contact you? After all, we’ll not be able to leave the hidden clan for at least the next could easily affect the whole body. It was easy for them to come here, but leaving would be so she had to come. The long as you say you miss me, I’ll appear in front of think you can fly or the contempt in her words,