

Her Billionaire 712

Chapter 712 He's Sofia's Brother

It had been some time since they last met, so Skyler was surprised to meet Shirley on this day, and little did he think that she was so down and out she was now an attendant at Philwind, much less that she was trying to hook up with Garrick!

Is she still the Shirley Wilson I know?! Gianna, on the other hand, looked grim from being inexplicably yelled at, and she sat next to Skyler after taking a gander at Shirley, saying nothing more.

Meanwhile, Shirley caught the other women's disdainful look at her, and she left the private room, ultimately unable to take it anymore.

That said, she didn't leave for good, just standing at the entrance, waiting for the people in Rose Lounge to leave.

At last, the people inside finally came out after two hours, and Shirley, who had been standing by Garrick's car, immediately came forward when she saw him approaching her direction.

"You have alcohol in your system, President Brennan. Would you like me to be your chauffeur?" She mustered up her courage and volunteered as she looked at a drunk Garrick. "I'm a pretty decent driver if I do say so myself."

She noticed from their game of poker that while the other men were fondling the women in their arms, Garrick was the only man who had never touched a woman the entire time.

he was moved away from the blondie who was keeping him steady. "You go back ahead. She'll drive me." At that,

the vehicle, got into the driver's seat, and drove away,

Court," Garrick muttered before drive, keeping her eyes focused

Court, a lavish mansion, and as Shirley pulled over, the

the back door that she realized Garrick was asleep, and she dared thanked Shirley courteously while closing the back door, then asked her to leave. "It's really late now. You should go lips and said, "Oh, alright.

entered the driver's seat and drove the car into other hand, turned around, and her heart sank while looking at the darkness up ahead. How am I supposed to go home when it's already so late, and there isn't a his eyes after the car stopped.

the butler

that, Garrick rubbed his temples, exited the car, and removed his suit jacket while heading into the living room, where Sofia happened