

Her Billionaire 723

Chapter 723 You Like Older Men

Veronica was not wrong about Shirley. She admired Shirley's working capabilities and it was evident that she was a hard-worker. After she finished her explanation and analysis, Garrick saw her in a different light.

"It does sound promising. If you have some time to spare, please bring me on a tour of the company," he suggested.

Shirley immediately understood that he wanted to head over to the company for a survey. Hearing that, she was so excited that her eyes lit up with anticipation.

"Sure. I'm available anytime when you're free." She nodded heavily while feeling ecstatic. Initially, she thought it would be difficult to convince CyberTen Holdings to cooperate with her, but it seemed like she was getting closer to victory.

As she was happily staring at Garrick, she saw two people appear from the elevator entrance out of the corner of her eye.

Frowning, Shirley found herself pausing in her motions as her hand holding the fork stopped in the air while a wave of unnoticeable anger flashed across her eyes. Why is Skyler here?

She came here today to talk with Garrick about their partnership, so in order to not let Skyler ruin the atmosphere she and Garrick had, she turned around and looked outside the window to avoid being seen.

If he angered Garrick, her chances for cooperation would be slim to the table, she covered half of her face to avoid being seen by Skyler. However, she did not know that he had you hear

his hair combed up, which added a trace of arrogance straight toward them, he stopped beside Shirley, looked at the man opposite unfortunately, Miss Wilson and I have just finished lunch. Would the table, Skyler had not expect Skyler to come here for her. No matter how hard she she looked at him with unamused eyes. "Sorry.

and was afraid that Skyler would make a big fuss, so she immediately flattered him with a smile.

"President Brennan, please excuse me for a bit while I tend need to use the nod, Garrick got up and walked around figure. She was extremely nervous because she was afraid that Skyler might anger him and ruin their partnership. Yet, this was all observed by Skyler as he interpreted it as her utmost admiration for Garrick, so much so to the point where she seemed taste