

Her Billionaire 726

Chapter 726 I'm Coming Over Now

That afternoon, Shirley busied herself in her office for a while before calling Garrick. Beep. Beep. Beep. After three rings, he finally picked up the phone. "Miss Wilson?"

"Haha. Yes, it's me, President Brennan."

She laughed sheepishly as she greeted him and went straight to the point. "I called to see when you'd be available so I could bring you to our office to look around."

They were in the middle of planning when Garrick talked about touring the company, but they did not expect Skyler to suddenly appear and disrupt the discussion. "How about ten days later?"

After saying that, Garrick explained, "There's a lot going on with the company lately, so I can only do ten days later." "Sure. I'll arrange everything according to your time."

"Good. It's settled, then." "Alright. Please continue on with your work, President Brennan," Shirley said humbly before hanging up. Standing in her office, she clutched her phone in her hand and started pacing around the office while thinking of a plan.

Although Garrick had agreed to come over for a visit, it did not mean their partnership was confirmed in any way. So, she still had to contact Talila Gibson from Horizon Group just in case.

After giving it some thought, she picked up her phone and called Wade. However, before she could make the call, she received one from Skyler.
