

Her Billionaire 728

Chapter 728 Is That Him?

The problem Veronica was most worried about was this. Destiny, who sat on the left side of Veronica, laughed and explained, "He's a friend of one of my subordinates. He can understand the hidden clan's dialect and has been living here for a long time. Otherwise, why would I let him cook for you?"

"That's right. If he couldn't understand our dialect, then it'd be troublesome for him to buy groceries daily."

Smiling, Mateo explained, "I accompanied him down the mountain to get groceries today, so don't worry. He's a hundred percent safe," he assured with confidence.

Propping her hands on the table, Veronica cupped her chin and stared at the simple yet honest man while tilting her head. "What's your name?"

"My name is Iron Pillar." The man looked at Veronica sideways while speaking in a Bloomstead dialect.

Pfft! Hearing that name, she could not help but laugh.

Then, she covered her lips with her hand, shook her head, and immediately composed herself to pretend to be calm. "My apologies. I just think your name is quite special."
