

Her Billionaire 745

Chapter 745 Deception

Veronica thought it was just a coincidence, but now she knew it wasn't. That was nothing but a scheme.

Hendrey pursed his lips and clenched his fists. Instead of answering the question, he changed the subject. "The leader has something to say."

"You're Tiffany's ally. Why did you want to see me?" "I am no ally of hers. We just have a common goal." "You're honest. Do you want a compliment?" Veronica shook her head in resignation.

"We'll talk about our business later. You have something else on your plate now." He turned to Tanya. "Tell her what's on your mind. Liam and I will translate."

appeared in her eyes. A moment of silence later, she said, "I'm not one for pleasantries. To be honest, I translated it a mother, I think Hayley's a selfish soul. Your family's in that city, and yet she brings you all the way here. She wishes that you would stay. My sources tell me that she's going to bring your foster parents and their

"I'm listening."

a smart woman. She made it sound like a regular conversation, but every word she said was everything Veronica cared about. The woman was a master manipulator. She was pitting Veronica against Hayley, but she underestimated her chin on the back of her hand. She tilted her head to the side and stared at Tanya moment as surprise flashed in her eyes. That's not what I expected. Most people would be mad. They'd curse Hayley for about the clan, so I wish to help," she

Even more genuine and believable than Hayley, in fact.