

Her Billionaire 750

Chapter 750 The Clan's Past

She went to the bathroom and straightened herself up before coming back down. The first thing she heard was Crayson chiding, "Look at you. How many times have I told you to hold back? Why wouldn't you listen to me? You can't even beat Liam! This is a disgrace."

She reached the first floor and looked at them. Mateo's face was bruised, and blood trickled down the corner of his lips. His right eye was also bruised. She sympathized with him, but she also found it funny.

Veronica let out a laugh. "A-Are you fine?" I thought he could handle it. He looked so confident. Guess that's not the case.

"I'm fine, don't worry. Liam got it worse than I did. Both of his eyes are bruised," he said proudly.

and yet you challenged him? This is a sensitive period. You because this is a special period that they won't do anything to us. They want to get reelected, after all."

Mateo snorted. "The first thing Tanya did after she usurped the throne was to grant us mercy and united one, and they thought only the Elrods should be the leaders. That was why Tanya spared them after Elrod royalty after she took the throne. She knew she again. The civil war cost her her youngest son and a sizable portion of her army. The defeated the throne, and she hadn't established her authority just yet. She also had enemies within the fold just trying to take her out.

never existed before. It was early last year when she made her reappearance. By then, the Elrod remnants