Chapter 754 Bluffing

It would have been fine if Matthew did not enunciate that, but when he did, Veronica was so scared out of her skin that she reflexively observed their surroundings. She released a sigh of relief after seeing that no one was around them.

“Be careful of eavesdropping,” she reminded. “I know.” While tilting his head to look at her, he raised an eyebrow and smiled. “If it wasn’t because our situation disallows it, do you think I’d keep such a huge distance from you?”

Veronica did not notice it earlier and only just discovered that. Ever since they descended the mountain, Matthew had been keeping a constant distance of twenty inches from her so that no one would suspect anything.

Back in Bloomstead, Shirley accompanied Skyler for lunch, which lessened his anger a little. Subsequently, she shared a coffee break with him before he was finally satisfied.

As for the matter of ‘acquiring’ Vincere Games, he told her that he would head back and think about it.
