

Her Billionaire 755

Chapter 755 It's All a Trick

While standing outside the office, Jayden and Shawn were frustrated and angry, but they could only force themselves to endure the feeling because of Skyler and Shirley's relationship.

Shawn raised his fist, wanting to knock on the door, but he was stopped by Jayden. "Let's not bother her anymore. What if we make her mad? She might get President Robins to acquire our company. We won't have anything left by then."

"Fine. We'll go with your idea." Shawn's face was as dark as storm clouds. However, he could not voice his anger, so he left with Jayden.

The next morning, Shirley dialed Garrick's number at 9.30AM sharp. Tut— Tut— Tut—

After a few rings, he answered the call. "President Brennan, good morning." "Morning," he calmly responded to her greeting. "Did I bother you by calling so early in the morning?"

Back when she invited Garrick to have a tour of the company, both of them agreed that the date would be today, which was why Shirley had prepared to call him at 9.30AM.

"I finished all my work."

"Really? That's great."

She continued, "Do you have any spare time to visit be able to make it today." Garrick's tone for standing her up. As much as she felt resigned, she had already mentally prepared with my car, so it's been sent in for repair, and a moment, she finally regained her composure. "How about I drive over to pick you up? I just happen to be free since there isn't much to be off deliberately. Turns out he can't come over because he doesn't

"Would it be inappropriate?"

at the company, right? I'll head over now to get you." Once Shirley was done informing Garrick, she hung

Holdings and saw Garrick walking out of the company from a President Brennan." She

I'm sorry for pocket rang. He fished out his phone and excused himself. "Excuse me while I take this call." Then, he

Dad. I'll head