

Her Billionaire 766

Chapter 766 Mateo's Failed Plan

Matthew did not readily agree, but instead, he wore a 'troubled' expression while saying, "I'll give it a try." "It's settled, then. Iron, I'll head back to my room and wait for your good news."

Seeing that the matter was settled, Mateo was in such a good mood that there was an unconcealable smile on his face. Subsequently, he got up and left, closing the door behind him.

The calmness on Matthew's face instantly disappeared as a gloomy aura slowly emerged around him. While glancing at the twenty thousand in his hand, he smiled and shook his head resignedly.

At 3.00PM, Mateo came out of his bedroom, wearing a suit and looking all dressed up. Immediately, he saw Crayson coming toward him and thought his grandpa was looking for him, so he smiled and explained, "Grandpa, Iron told me he has something to do this afternoon, so I'll be accompanying Roni to the gathering."

"He told me about it earlier, but the little brat followed him out, saying that it wouldn't affect attending the gathering if they went to deal with his matters first. You should obediently stay at home." Crayson's words were undoubtedly a blow to Mateo, which caused him to freeze in his spot while his clean and fair face fell.

Iron Pillar just go back thousand hidden clan credits to bribe him. I do you mean he went back on his word? He said he had something to do, but the little brat said she was bored and followed him out,"

While glaring at Mateo, he questioned, "You crying but could not shed any tears, so he quickly waved his hand while explaining, "No, no, no. There's no such thing. Iron told me he had something to bitter face, he quickly turned back into his room, looking worse than he would be if he

of the mountain, Matthew drove a Land Rover toward the outskirts of the city and stopped in a secluded scenic area with woman in the passenger seat while using his fingers to play with a

of enjoying