

HBH Chapter 770

Chapter 770 Meeting Them Again

Back at the hidden clan, Liam arrived at the foot of the mountain and called Veronica, which successfully woke her up from her slumber in Matthew's embrace.

She picked up her phone and looked at the flashing chain of numbers and recognized it as Liam's phone number. They had just switched to a new phone yesterday, so besides him, no one else knew her contact number.

After answering the call, she glanced at Matthew and put it on speaker. "Hello?"

"Miss Murphy, where are you?" he asked.

Veronica observed her surroundings and still had no idea where she was, so she answered, "Something urgent came up, so I left home. Just send me the location of the place, and I'll head over to find you."

Having come all the way here to pick her up but missed her, Liam was displeased, but he did not show it and merely smiled. "Sure. I'll send you the location."

"Great. It's settled then."

her arms around his waist, squinting her eyes. "They've all arrived. Is there going to be situation. There's nothing

Veronica still felt

up their appearance before starting arrived at their destination, it was already half an hour after Liam's call. It was lawn outside the hidden clan palace. There was a mountain and creek on the north side of the lawn, which created a beautiful scene. As it was the palace and were place, she saw Liam coming over to welcome her. "Hahaha. Miss Murphy, you finally made it." While greeting her, he glanced at the rustically clothed bodyguard behind her and could not help but apologies. Something came up, so I'm a little late," Veronica politely

Come on, let's head

the spot beside the campfire and announced, "Everyone, come and the campfire gazed over. When they saw her, they each had different