Chapter 777 Expose

"The bodyguard Crayson assigned to you is quite skilled. The people around you are all talented and powerful," Xavier said with a sigh. Initially, he was unaware of Veronica's identity, but he was not surprised at all after learning about it because her temperament and aura had always been so distinctive. That was what caught his eye in the first place.

"It's not like I asked for it." Veronica withdrew her gaze and sighed faintly. She wanted an ordinary and simple life, but it seemed that fate had other plans.

She looked up at the sky and gazed at the shining stars. The frogs were croaking gently as though they were singing under the moonlight. For a moment, it seemed as if she had gone back to the summer of her childhood, where she would rest her head on Daniella's knees, and Daniella would fan her with a bushel fan. Back then, she would lie on her back as she looked up at the sky and count the stars.

"I can help you if you want to leave," Xavier inched closer to her, lowered his voice, and whispered.

He was a man of his word, and she never doubted him. The problem was that the nicer he was to her, the more regretful she felt.

It was especially so when Matthew was still alive and standing not far away from them. What would happen if Xavier knew the truth? She couldn't even imagine how furious he would be.

woman. Don't break her heart." Veronica changed the subject and turned around. "Let's go. We've left for too long, and it was dark, she could sense his intense glare, making seats. The crowd drank and chatted about everything, but no one mentioned anything about the succession of the atmosphere remained cordial and harmonious. It also helped that everyone gradually relaxed the a glass of wine, and waved his hand at Matthew, signaling get out of the looked at Matthew. "Uh… Can you move aside she met his cold and profound eyes. Still, he frowned slightly as he rose to his feet reluctantly, comfortable in Matthew's original seat.

the compliment, Prince Liam, but you've