

HBH Chapter 788

Chapter 788 The Ledgers' Conspiracy

Today's events would have become even more complicated if Veronica hadn't been fine.

Meanwhile, Veronica and Matthew sat in the car and drove down the mountain. She handed a wet handkerchief to him and said, "Matt, find a way to do a drug test on this."

"What's wrong?" Matthew's expression turned cold, as if he realized something but still needed further clarification.

She slumped against the passenger seat and closed her eyes to rest, but she could feel her heart in her throat as she recalled the incident earlier. "Someone tried to make a move on Liam and me. There's something wrong with the wine."

Screech!

Just as she finished speaking, he harshly stepped on the brake and stopped the car abruptly.

drugged?!" He scowled in displeasure felt very uncomfortable when I was in the room assigned to me in the palace. I was hot and parched. Then, a servant brought over a cup of tea. I was so thirsty that had conspired in the palace. He quickly understood her underlying message. He pondered for a moment before asking, "Are you suspecting that there is an antidote in that cup of near the royal palace. Therefore, the royal family would have to take full responsibility if anything happened. So, Liam is certainly innocent,

"Tiffany?"

"Yes."

be even weirder if it was Tiffany." Matthew squeezed Veronica's hand gently as he stroked the back of her hand with his thumb and focused his eyes on the road. "Everyone was locked in their respective rooms after being brought into the palace. Tiffany didn't have time or a chance to give you the antidote, which meant that the only people who gave you the antidote were the Ledger siblings. Excluding the sick Liam, only Dominik was with him, she had the phone with her during that period. Hence, she could send a message to someone outside the room and me the antidote, it would mean that they

Matthew blurted, which just so happened to be what