

Healing Heart

85

blank

she stayed silent for sometime before she started to speak " it happened four years ago I was working in a bakery shop that night I was asked to close the shop after I finish cleaning everything was peaceful and quiet until I heard the door of the shop opened I was about to tell the customer that we are closed for today then... " she stopped speaking trying to control her emotions so she dont cry she felt the lord hand on her back rubbing it soothingly " it's okay " the Lord whispered to her gently, kissing the top of her head

" Suddenly I felt someone covering my mouth and holding me tight when I heard his voice I knew that this time I have nowhere to escape he dragged me towards the kitchen he tied my hands behind my back and covered my mouth I was helpless I couldn't scream or move I could only cry to him I was a prey that he must hunt by his manly desires " Althea stopped to wipe her tears the lord heart ached to see her like this he wanted to find that man right and rip his heart out for what he did, the lord didn't let his emotions control him right now Althea needed him and that was more important

" he wasn't satisfied by just raping me " she continued her voice getting weaker " he poured a hot bowl of water on me the pain was unbearable I tried to stay awake but due to the intense pain I lost my consciousness, that what caused these scars " as soon as she finished speaking Althea was pulled forcefully in to a warm embrace at first, she was shocked by his reaction he hugged her very tightly to him as if he was expressing his emotions through his warm embrace, feeling many kinds of emotions she hid her face in his chest trying to stop the tears that were threatening to escape from her eyes

" it's alright I'm here for you Althea it's okay to cry " the lord whispered in her ear and with his words Althea broke down sobbing loudly letting everything out.