

Chapter 371: Limitless Future

Su Huixian said, "Forget it. It's not a big deal. They can stay if they want. It won't affect us."

"What are you talking about?" Du Luo walked in elegantly.

Su Huixian smiled gently and said, "They're saying that Su Bei has signed a contract with a new company and they're having dinner in the hall next door."

Du Luo did not ask any more questions. This was indeed in line with Su Bei's personality. She would not just settle in one place for a long time, and she would not allow herself to be wronged.

Looking at the way things were right now, it was uncertain how long Su Bei and Sheng Tang had been in contact.

Su Huixian knew what Du Luo was thinking, so she smiled and said, "Let's go and welcome the guests. Su Bei won't affect our event anyway."

"Okay."

The guests had already arrived.

There were people from Qian Yu Entertainment Company, business partners of the Du family, and many reporters.

As soon as they entered, they smiled and praised her. "Mr. Luo has invested in Qian Yu Entertainment Company, and he's a perfect match for Miss Su. They're a perfect couple. I'm so envious of them."

"Congratulations."

"If the two of you work together, your future will be limitless."

"Mr. Luo really dotes on Miss Su. The tulips outside are so fragrant. They're rare and refreshing."

Du Luo thought that his assistant was really reliable. This arrangement was very impressive.

He smiled and said, "If you like them, I can ask someone to wrap some up for you. It's rare that these flowers were shipped here still with their roots."

"Yes, that sounds great. Thank you, Mr. Luo." Director Li immediately thanked him.

Several other guests also expressed their fondness for these rare flowers. Du Luo said, "After the banquet, I'll ask my assistant to add these tulips to the gift packages."

When the guests found out, everyone was happy. Those who loved flowers were very pleased, and those who did not still found it impressive.

Joy was written all over Du Luo and Su Huixian's faces. The slight displeasure they felt because of Su Bei's presence had disappeared.

There were more guests than expected. They were all here for Qian Yu Entertainment Company's grand occasion.

The entire Hall 6 was so full that it was almost impossible to squeeze in. There were even tables placed on the stage.

Su Huixian did not expect so many people to come and support her. This made her feel even more honored.

Du Luo immediately asked the manager if he could take an extra table from the next hall.

The lobby manager asked the general manager for instructions.

The general manager refused on the spot.

The lobby manager was a little embarrassed. "But they can't seat any more people there. It's too far away from Hall 4 as well, so it's not convenient to bring the tables from there."

The general manager thought that the hotel tonight had been reserved for Su Bei by a big shot. Actually, even Du Luo and Su Huixian were not accepted at first, but the big shot deliberately said that he did not care if Du Luo and the others were here.

When the general manager thought about it this way, this big shot must also be friends with Du Luo and Su Huixian. Or at least, they did not hate them.

Thinking of this, the general manager went to Su Bei and whispered in her ear, "Miss Su, there are too many guests in Hall 5 next door. They don't have enough tables. Can temporarily borrow a few tables from Hall 5?"

Su Bei looked at the general manager and said, "Of course."

The hotel did not belong to her, and neither could she afford to book the whole place.

However, it was strange. Why did he have to ask her? Had Du Luo not booked the whole venue?

Seeing that Su Bei was polite and kind, the general manager was very happy. "Thank you, Miss Su. I'll make the arrangements now."

Soon, several more tables were brought over to Hall 6 for Du Luo's guests.

Chapter 372: No Regrets In Life

As a result, the screen between the two halls was removed and there was no longer a direct barrier between Hall 5 and Hall 6.

On Du Luo's side, everyone was enthusiastic and fervent. It was a luxurious scene indeed.

Su Bei, Tang Xinru, and the others sat in the corner. The atmosphere here was a little cold.

After a while, a group of staff walked out and began to make arrangements.

Soon, a piano, cellos, and violins were brought up to the center stage of Hall 5.

Everyone looked toward the stage.

The guests in Hall 6 felt a little regretful that they could not enjoy the music at a closer distance.

However, it did not matter. Music did not necessarily have to be appreciated from a close distance.

Su Huixian glanced at Du Luo. He really knew how to organize events. This must be an orchestra group, right? It was so elegant that it matched the setting and the good food perfectly.

Du Luo, on the other hand, was very satisfied with his assistant's arrangement. Although he had spent a lot of money, it was a good job.

He and Su Huixian stood up and raised their glasses to toast the crowd.

Everyone responded politely.

The bitterness Su Huixian felt because of Su Bei's contract with Sheng Tang disappeared.

Even Qiu Minxuan was no longer as embarrassed as before. Su Bei was nothing. What could Tang Xinru give her? In terms of fame, who could compare to Su Huixian tonight?

While she was thinking about this, a group of foreigners in black suits walked in.

They were in high spirits and exuded a strong aura of being involved in fine arts. They slowly and respectfully walked to the music equipment on the stage before bowing to the audience.

Someone in the crowd screamed, "It's the Spanish Royal Orchestra! The Spanish Royal Orchestra!"

Someone immediately shushed him and asked him to keep his voice down. Obviously, some others had also recognized those people, so they turned respectful and did not laugh at that man's antics.

"It's really the Spanish Royal Orchestra. It's one of the most outstanding orchestras among the top universities in Europe. It has always played in places like the Golden Music Hall in Vienna. They've even played for the British royal family, and the Spanish royal family. They've never performed any commercial performances. They're known as the treasure of European orchestras, the pinnacle of European orchestras in recent years."

"Leading them is conductor, Shaque! Mom, I no longer have any regrets in this life!"

"I can't believe that Mr. Luo is able to invite the Spanish Royal Orchestra."

"I heard that even if the royal family of the United Kingdom wants to make an appointment with them, but it'll take at least half a year."

"It's really a once-in-a-lifetime event. I'm so satisfied. I'm so glad that I came to this banquet."

"Do you know that I have all the videos of the Spanish Royal Orchestra's performances? But I never dreamed that I would be able to see the performance in person in my lifetime!"

Su Huixian was also shocked. She knew that the Du family was rich and Du Luo had a lot of connections in Europe. However, she never knew that he was so capable.

She was really impressed.

She held a glass of wine and toasted Du Luo.

Du Luo was also surprised. He knew that his budget might not even be enough for the music equipment of the Spanish Royal Orchestra. How did his assistant do it?

Chapter 373: Perfect Glory

However, his assistant was busy greeting the guests, so it was not convenient for Du Luo to talk to him now.

Actually, he did not need to ask much. He just needed to appreciate this.

Today, the entire hotel had been booked. Who else would this orchestra be performing for other than them?

It must be that Hall 6 were unable to arrange for the orchestra to perform for them. The hotel decided to have the orchestra perform for the guests in Hall 5 where the atmosphere was more vibrant.

Standing behind Su Huixian, Zhu Fenfen said in a low voice, "Su Bei and the rest of them are really lucky. They get to enjoy themselves for free."

Su Huixian glanced at Zhu Fenfen, who quickly shut up.

Actually, Su Huixian did not know much about orchestras. However, when she heard the guests talk about how famous this orchestra was and saw how even some senior guests standing up to show the orchestra their respect, her vanity was greatly satisfied.

Su Huixian was glad that she had not chased Su Bei away just now. Without Su Bei around, she would not feel as glorious at this moment.

Only in front of Su Bei could she have this perfect glory. Perhaps Tang Xinru was also regretting that she was staying with Su Bei instead of coming to her banquet.

At this moment, Tang Xinru was chatting with Su Bei, "I didn't expect that someone would be able to invite the Spanish Royal Orchestra."

"I'm also a little surprised. I thought I wouldn't get the chance to see them in S Country."

"Su Bei, look. The instruments they brought here are actually from abroad, not from a local venue." Tang Xinru could see the custom logo on the dust covers of the instruments.

Undoubtedly, with their own instruments, the orchestra could perform perfectly just like all the times they had rehearsed. It also made the audience enjoy their performance more.

While everyone was talking, the orchestra had already started their performance.

The majestic atmosphere was even more awe-inspiring in such an enclosed venue.

The music was simply beautiful, and their performance attracted everyone's attention.

Even the people who did not know much about music were shocked speechless for a long time.

The conductor waved his baton in a practiced manner.

Everyone was immersed in the music, and their hearts danced to the tune. It felt as though their heartbeats were climbing high mountains and diving into the deep sea.

After the performance was over, everyone was silent for a long time before thunderous applause broke out.

The reporters were all recording everything with their cameras over their shoulders. When the music stopped, they could not bear to put down their cameras. Instead, they took a few steps forward, hoping to get an opportunity to interview the members of the orchestra, especially the conductor.

The other guests were also eager to get closer to the top orchestra in the world.

Some of the guests were fans of the music, and they got ready to ask for autographs. If they could get the autograph of the conductor, Shaque, they would have no regrets in life.

Everyone looked at Su Huixian enviously. Su Huixian was probably the only woman who could talk and get close to Shaque tonight.

She was lucky to have Du Luo by her side.

While everyone was thinking about it, the door of the hall suddenly opened from the outside.

Another group of people strode in.

Those who recognized the people immediately stood up and said, "It's the Dublin Philharmonic and their conductor, Gringlass! It's them!"

Chapter 374: Today's Hostess

"I know that this orchestra is even more amazing than the Spanish Royal Orchestra. Although not all of their members are from the same academy, they all have their own strengths. Although they haven't been certified by the professional academies, they're still number one in the hearts of many professional musicians. It's because they have freedom when it comes to creativity and are more talented."

"The Dublin Philharmonic seldom performs in public. They only perform as a hobby. Although they don't appear much in the field, their names are always talked about."

"Gringlass is even Shaque's senior! They both learned from the great musician, composer, and conductor, Mr. Martin, who has passed away."

Shaque had just finished conduction when he saw his senior, Gringlass. He was both surprised and shocked, so he hurriedly went over to greet him.

The two of them shook hands and talked to each other in their mother tongue.

Obviously, although the two of them had different styles of playing, they both had the same passion for music. Their temperament was extraordinary.

Now, not only were Su Huixian, Du Luo, and the guests extremely excited, but even the people in the hotel rejoiced at the arrangements made by this big shot.

Such an arrangement would probably make the hotel very busy for the next ten years. Although the hotel itself was already very famous, it was still far from being one of the top hotels in the world. The boss had tried hard to come up with a plan but it never worked. After this banquet, however, the hotel would become so famous that other top hotels in the world would envy them.

After exchanging a few words with Shaque, it was now Dublin Philharmonic's turn to take the stage.

Dublin Philharmonic deserved to be known as the world's top orchestra, and they were now performing on stage while being led by the conductor, Gringlass. The man had not appeared in public for 13 years.

The loud music started, and everyone was immersed in the music.

Many people raised their phones to take photos. However, as they took photos, they would all eventually put down their phones as they could not focus on listening to the music that made them feel sentimental and nostalgic.

As for the elders, their eyes gradually teared up.

Music could directly touch a person's heart. One could feel the meaning of music. It would evoke emotions like joy, fear, or courage in the depths of their hearts.

It was exhilarating. They were either shuddering, feeling sentimental, or injected with courage.

Many people were in tears, and many of them had faint smiles on their faces.

Their souls were moved by the music.

It took them a while to realize that the music had stopped.

Even so, those feelings still lingered in their hearts.

This was what it meant to have music linger in one's heart for days.

Gringlass bowed and thanked everyone.

Zhu Fenfen reacted quickly and said to Su Huixian, "Huixian, you're the hostess today. You should go and talk to the two conductors, right? That way, the reporters can also take photos of you for publicity purposes."

"That's right. Huixian, you should go ahead. I've already thought of the headline, 'Top Conductors Perform Exclusively For Su Huixian.'" Qiu Minxuan felt that Zhu Fenfen's proposal this time was very apt.

Su Huixian was also tempted. The temptation was too great and she could not refuse.. Besides, it was her special honor tonight.

Chapter 375: Dedicated To Miss Su

In particular, Su Bei's table was closer to the orchestra than Su Huixian's. If the reporters took photos of her and Su Bei was also seen listening to the music, it would not be good. It would be worse if Sheng Tang used her name to write articles on the matter.

She and Du Luo had worked so hard. She could not let others benefit from their hard work.

Su Huixian walked toward Du Luo and said, "Let's go and thank the two masters."

Du Luo agreed and walked over together.

Before she could get close, Gringlass said, "Congratulations, Miss Su. The performance just now was dedicated to you."

She did not expect that Gringlass, an Austrian, would be fluent in S Country's national language.

Everyone was shocked again. As expected of a master. He always strived for perfection.

Su Huixian's face seemed to be glowing. "Thank you, Mr. Gringlass!"

Shaue also smiled and said, "My music was dedicated to you, Miss Su. Thank you for listening."

"Thank you, Mr. Shaue!" Su Huixian was so happy that she almost fainted.

She had noticed many people recording the orchestras' performances earlier. She also heard that because these two orchestras seldom performed, their fans were keen to know their whereabouts and when they would perform next.

If the videos recorded today were published online and she was seen conversing with the two masters, she would be known to the world.

From now on, who would dare to say that she had a bad reputation? Who would dare to say that she was not worthy of standing at the top of the world?

Even the top supermodels in Europe and the United States would have to submit to her.

Her taste and style would be infinitely improved. She would definitely receive a lot of endorsements from luxury brands.

Everyone understood this, and they looked at Su Huixian enviously. Even Tang Xinru could not help but shake her head secretly. Su Huixian was really lucky this time. She was blessed by these two masters.

It could be said that there was no artist this lucky in the entertainment industry. Su Huixian would become a top supermodel after this.

The guests had involuntarily walked into Hall 5 to enjoy the music, and now, they were also admiring Su Huixian.

The two masters looked at Su Huixian at the same time and said, "You're welcome, Miss Su Bei. We came here especially for you tonight."

1

What?

As soon as the two masters spoke, everyone was shocked.

Miss Su Bei?

Su Huixian's expression also changed slightly. Thinking that they had misspoken, she corrected them. "Sirs, my name is Su Huixian."

The expressions of the two masters also changed slightly. They were not good at recognizing oriental faces. They had only seen a photo and after seeing Su Huixian coming forward to thank them, they thought that she was Su Bei.

Now, they realized that they had misidentified the person.

"Miss Su Bei?" he repeated.

When Su Bei heard him calling her name, she stood up and walked toward them. She said respectfully, "Mr. Gringlass, your performance was really good. I enjoyed myself very much. Are you looking for me?"

"Miss Su Bei, I'm honored that you liked my performance."

When he saw Su Bei in person, he knew that he would never mistake her for another person again. She was so beautiful, elegant, and beautiful. She left a deep impression on him.

The photo they had seen did not capture even one percent of her beauty. Otherwise, they would not have recognized the wrong person.

After apologizing to Su Huixian solemnly, the two masters began to talk to Su Bei in a low voice.

Chapter 376: Most Afraid Of Silence

Su Huixian was completely ignored.

Standing in the middle of the stage, she looked so lonely and awkward.

She was most afraid of silence, yet at this moment, silence enveloped Su Huixian.

It was not until a long time later that the crowd burst into an uproar. Things were beyond everyone's expectations. After all, everyone thought that the two masters had been invited by Du Luo for Su Huixian.

Du Luo was also shocked by the sudden turn of events. What was going on? Where was his assistant?

The shocked reporters came back to their senses. They knew that they had come across a piece of shocking news tonight, so they immediately started to take pictures.

They had successfully gotten tomorrow's headline!

It was the kind of headline that could cause a ruckus!

The guests started to discuss among themselves. "Why did Mr. Luo invite these two masters to celebrate Su Bei? Shouldn't they be here for Su Huixian?"

“You’re wrong... Don’t you see? These two orchestras aren’t people Mr. Luo can invite.”

“I think I saw that Tang Xinru from Sheng Tang with Su Bei. Did Sheng Tang sign on Su Bei?”

“They’re not here for tonight’s banquet. They came separately. The two orchestras also went directly to Hall 5. Mr. Luo only booked Hall 6. But because there were too many guests in Hall 6, they moved some of the guests to Hall 6. The orchestras had always been for Su Bei.” Someone who had some inside information on the hotel revealed the inside story to everyone.

Everyone finally understood that this was a welcome party held by Sheng Tang for Su Bei. It had nothing to do with Su Huixian.

“Su Huixian really thinks too highly of herself. Doesn’t she know the extent of her capabilities?”

“This Mr. Luo is really something. They’re such a huge company, but how can their welcoming party lose to Su Bei’s?”

“She has Sheng Tang’s support, after all. How are they even comparable?”

When Su Huixian heard the discussion, she turned around angrily and returned to her seat. Her face was livid.

She bit her lip so hard that it was bleeding.

When Du Luo returned to her side, he was in a terrible mood as well.

The banquet they had carefully planned was ruined by Su Bei.

They did not feel good about it at all.

He clenched his fists tightly and put them at the sides of his trousers to stop his body from trembling.

Gringlass smiled and said, “I’d like to invite Su Bei to join me in a piano four-hands performance. Miss Su, please accept my invitation.”

Su Bei readily agreed.

Su Huixian snorted. Su Bei did not know how to play the piano at all. What could she do up on the stage?

Su Bei sat down and played the piano with Gringlass. Although it was their first time playing together, they performed well because one was a master and the other was talented.

When did Su Bei learn this? Su Huixian’s lips were about to burst from all the biting.

She had not seen Su Bei for five years. Of course, she did not know what Su Bei had learned and who she knew.

Everyone applauded. No wonder Gringlass chose to perform with Su Bei. She was really good.

After patiently interacting with some loyal fans for a while, the orchestras left.

Even so, everyone was still immersed in their emotions from just now.

The way they looked at Su Bei and Su Huixian was completely reversed now.

Su Huixian suddenly remembered that she still had another trick up her sleeve that could perhaps turn the situation around tonight.

Zhu Fenfen had said that the top chef in the kitchen would prepare the cheek meat of top-quality deep-sea bluefin tuna for them.

The novel will be published today with 50,000 characters written. Su Bei, Lu Heting, Da Bao, Gun Gun, and Su Su (why are all these characters suddenly appearing) would like to thank all the lovely little brothers and sisters for your support.. I wish everyone a happy Mid-Autumn Festival and a happy weekend. In the future, you must also support this lovely family!

Chapter 377: Only The Chef Knows

The orchestras had already left the stage, but everyone was still immersed in the perfect performances from earlier.

Su Bei returned to her seat while everyone looked at her.

Someone approached Su Bei and whispered to her. At this moment, it was an honor to be able to talk to her.

Surprised by the situation tonight, Tang Xinru looked at Su Bei but did not dare to ask her anything.

She also knew in her heart that there were many companies that wanted to poach Su Bei. Lu Weijian had personally tried to poach Su Bei before. If she had signed on to Lu Group, then it would explain how these two famous orchestras were invited to tonight's event.

Tang Xinru nodded. It seemed that Su Bei was more valuable than she had imagined.

Su Huixian said to Qiu Minxuan, "Go and ask when that world-class dish will be served."

"Okay," Qiu Minxuan said quickly. She knew that if they wanted to save Su Huixian's dignity, they had to rely on this dish.

1

Besides, such top-quality dishes would definitely be served to the guests by the top chef himself.

Although top-quality food would not be able to defeat the top-notch music earlier, it could slightly offset the embarrassment.

Qiu Minxuan rushed to the kitchen at the back. However, the kitchen did not let her in. Zhu Fenfen had only heard the menu earlier by accident.

Now that the kitchen was preparing the dishes, no outsider was allowed to enter.

"May I ask if the bluefin tuna is ready? When will it be served? Who ordered it?"

"Our chef has just taken the fish out. As for who ordered this dish, I'm sorry but we don't know."

Qiu Minxuan asked, "Then who are you preparing it for?"

“Only the chef knows that.”

Hearing this, Qiu Minxuan immediately called Su Huixian to tell her that she should not make another mistake.

However, Su Huixian did not answer the call.

At this moment, the top chef had already walked into Hall 5 using a special passage with the dish in his hand.

Su Huixian stood up. This time, she had learned her lesson. She did not go forward to receive the dish. Instead, she observed the chef’s actions.

The head chef was dressed in clean attire and his hair was neatly combed. He looked gentle and refined, looking more like a professor instead of a chef.

He was walking behind a number of his assistants. Like him, they all walked in an orderly manner while carrying silver plates.

As per the traditions of S Country, the most exquisite things were always saved for the last. Since the head chef was at the back, the food on his plate was definitely the best.

“This is...” Su Huixian said cautiously.

One of the head chef’s assistants stepped forward and said with a smile, “This is the premium deep-sea bluefin tuna. Mr. Luo made reservations for this. Now, I would like to present it to you.”

Hearing the words ‘Mr. Luo’, Su Huixian finally heaved a sigh of relief.

Some people in the crowd were already whispering to each other. “Wow, it’s premium deep-sea bluefin tuna. I had the honor of eating it in Europe once. It costs almost 700 to 800 euros for a small piece. But there’s a reason why it’s expensive. When I ate it, I felt so happy that I couldn’t forget it for days.”

“Is it really that amazing?”

“Of course! Unfortunately, the fish isn’t easily obtained. Usually, it’s only available to the world’s richest people. Even if I had the money, it’d be difficult for me to buy it. I’ll be having a good meal tonight. Mr.. Luo is too generous.”

Chapter 378: Thank You All

“It’s really good. I heard that the meat in the cheeks of this fish is the most delicious. It’s the best among the best. But it’s said that the meat in the cheeks of this fish is not for sale. The Queen of England had eaten it once and she couldn’t forget about the taste after that. But when she asked again, she couldn’t buy it anymore.”

“That’s true. Only a little bit of meat can be taken from the cheeks of a fish. How many fish would you need to make a dish from it? What’s more, it’s an expensive fish.”

Although many of the guests at the venue had good enough taste that they could appreciate the orchestras' performances earlier, many of them were just ordinary people. They would forget about the music as soon as they turned their heads and saw good food.

At the thought of such delicious food, they forgot about everything that happened just a moment ago. They eagerly waited for the delicious food.

A smile reappeared on Su Huixian's face, and she said, "Everyone, it's because I'd like to thank all of you here for your blessings that I ordered this rare tuna today. I hope you'll enjoy the food today."

1

Du Luo's expression also returned to normal. He stood with Su Huixian and greeted everyone.

The chef's assistants then served the tuna dishes to each of the tables and removed the cover.

The delicate plates of delicious fish appeared in front of everyone. The fish that was cooked using the traditional methods of S Country was a great visual treat. All of a sudden, the delicious aroma filled the entire banquet hall. A faint but particularly appetizing smell filled the air.

Everyone present had eaten countless delicacies, so they were not interested in ordinary food. At this moment, the fragrance of the fish made them salivate. Even the people who hated fish the most could not help wanting to have a taste of it as soon as possible.

The reporters, who had not eaten much, felt even more uncomfortable. Why were they so hungry all of a sudden?

The sound of gulping sounded from all directions.

Su Huixian pursed her lips and smiled. "Everyone, please eat."

Some began to move their chopsticks while others sighed with satisfaction. The meat that was worth thousands of yuan was really delicious.

With each bite of fish, they could imagine money getting swallowed down into their stomachs—and a lot of money too.

The guests were very satisfied with their food, and they felt differently about Du Luo and Su Huixian now. They were willing to spend so much time and effort just to entertain their guests. This not only showed their dedication but also how much they valued their guests.

Not only were the guests' appetites satisfied but also their hearts.

Actually, there was not a lot of fish on each plate. Hence, the guests could only enjoy a small piece each and ended up finishing the food quickly.

It was not until they finished eating when they realized the head chef was still behind all his assistants.

All of a sudden, everyone remembered that the head chef was holding the best dish tonight. It should be the most tender, fragrant, and softest meat taken from the fish's cheeks. It was also the most expensive and most difficult to get. In the whole world, it was something that could not be bought with money.

Looking at the plate held by the head chef, it was obvious that the portion was small. They wondered which table he would serve it to.

Everyone turned to look at the main table. Du Luo, Su Huixian, and several CEOs who were the most important partners of Qian Yu Entertainment Company were seated there.. It was the most prestigious table.

Chapter 379: Specially Made For Miss Su Bei

The special dish would probably be sent to that table.

No one had any extravagant hopes of eating the expensive delicacy. However, it was deserving of the status of those people at the main table to enjoy such a dish.

The guests' focus had entirely shifted from the orchestras to the delicious food. It was as if Su Huixian had successfully carried out a reversal.

Perfect!

Su Huixian smiled and said, "Chef, please present this dish to the main table."

The guests at the main table had already tasted the fish that was served just now. It was delicious, and the taste left on the tip of their tongues made them reluctant to eat anything else. They did not want to drink water either, afraid that the delicious taste would dissipate.

They had eaten all kinds of delicious food from around the world. However, the food today was really a cut above the rest.

The only regret was that there was too little fish meat just now. Everyone only tasted a small piece.

Now that they heard that the dish in the chef's hand was the best part of the fish, they could not help but look forward to it. They even took a sip of water to cleanse their palate as they waited to enjoy this delicacy which would be better than the previous one.

The guests at the other tables knew that their status and ranks would not get them such delicious food. Hence, the guests could only secretly envy the guests at the main table.

After all, they did not have strong or special identities.

The chef was about to serve the dish in Hall 5 when he heard Su Huixian's words. He froze for a moment and said, "Miss Su, I'm sorry. Mr. Luo didn't order this dish."

"But the dishes served by your assistant just now were all ordered by us. Is the dish in your hand not ours?" Su Huixian was confused.

She was so happy that she did not notice that the chef was no longer walking toward her and her guests.

Obviously, she had not learned her lesson yet.

"Miss Su, Mr. Luo indeed ordered premium deep-sea bluefin tuna from us. Those dishes were all prepared by my assistants."

Hearing the chef's words, everyone looked forward to the delicious food in his hands even more.

It turned out that the top-notch food they had just now was cooked by his assistants.

Would the food made by the head chef not be more delicious?

The chef continued, "But the dish in my hand was specially ordered by a customer for Miss Su Bei. That's why I'm here today."

Su Huixian felt like she had been slapped in the face.

Caught off guard, she started seeing stars and trembled all over again.

If it were not for Du Luo holding her, she would have really fallen to the floor on the spot. However, she had to keep a professional smile on her face. She barely kept up her appearance in front of the guests.

With that, the chef walked toward Su Bei's table with the food in his hands.

Su Bei hurriedly stood up and expressed her gratitude and respect to the chef.

The chef put down the dish on the table and said, "Miss Su, the ingredients were all specially flown in from Europe today. They were delivered in the afternoon and were still alive, so you can trust that the food is fresh. This dish is for you and your friends."

"Thank you so much for your hard work," Su Bei replied politely.

"You're welcome. Miss Su, I hope you and your friends like it. Please try it and see if it suits your taste..."

Although Tang Xinru was the vice president of Sheng Tang, it was obviously her first time seeing such food. After taking a bite, she felt as though her body and mind had been greatly nourished.

Chapter 380: Choose The Most Expensive Ingredients

Lv Shan, Tang Xinru's assistant, and Yue Ze did not expect to be able to eat such luxurious food because of Su Bei.

After tasting the food, everyone expressed their sincerest gratitude and praise to the chef.

The chef also had a good impression of the polite guests at their table, so he chatted with them.

The other guests could not help but say enviously, "It turns out that someone ordered the best ingredients for Su Bei."

The guests at the main table in Hall 6 looked a little uncomfortable. They were so disappointed that they did not feel good at all. Their mood tonight was greatly affected.

Although they could afford to eat this kind of food, the meaning was completely different.

"I didn't expect that the best dish tonight was specially made for Su Bei. I'm really impressed."

"Oh, I really want to try it. Just the smell of it makes me drool. Looking at other food makes me lose my appetite."

"Just how badly does Sheng Tang want to make Su Bei famous? Why are they making such a big deal of things for her?"

“I think it’s most likely because they want to make money from her. They’ve made her look so good. She can easily take on endorsements worth tens of millions of dollars. What kind of food can’t they buy for her?”

“By the way, they used the best cut of meat for the dish served to Su Bei’s table, right? Once they took out the meat from the fish’s cheeks, what did they do to the rest of the fish? Did the chef use the same batch of fish for our dishes? Did we eat the leftover meat from the dish served to Su Bei’s table?”

Even if they were unwilling, they had to admit that this was most likely the truth.

A big shot had ordered all the best dishes for Su Bei. The hotel must have felt that it was a pity to not use the rest of the fish. Besides, all the ingredients used were of premium quality. They were considered the best ingredients in the whole hotel. Hence, they kept the remaining ingredients for their customers or employees.

Of course, the big shot did not care about these trivial things. After all, they did not want the ingredients, so the staff could deal with them however they wanted.

It just so happened that Du Luo’s assistant was the one who ordered the dishes. He had asked them for the most expensive menu and use only good ingredients that could impress others.

The hotel introduced Du Luo’s assistant to a lot of ingredients, but the assistant was not satisfied. In other words, he felt that the hotel did not have anything good.

In the end, the hotel had no choice but to tell him about this batch of tuna. The assistant immediately asked Du Luo for his opinion and he decided to make the reservation.

That was why the current situation was like this.

It was not the assistant’s fault. Du Luo and Su Huixian were too demanding.

Of course, the hotel also did not expect Su Huixian to humiliate herself in front of the head chef. The head chef had appeared last to serve Su Bei the dish. Firstly, it was indeed because he was carrying the best dish of the night. Secondly, the hotel wanted to preserve some of Su Huixian’s dignity and avoid embarrassing her.

In the end, Su Huixian still sought her own doom by approaching the chef first.

Hearing the discussion among the guests, Su Huixian also realized that the tuna she had eaten just now was indeed the leftover ingredients from the dish served to Su Bei’s table.

Her face turned deathly pale. “Du Luo, our arrangements today—”

Du Luo also braced himself. When he heard Su Huixian’s question, he could not hide the embarrassment in his voice. “Continue to entertain the guests. You have to finish what you started
