

The Heir's Revenge

Chapter 6

The Beginning Of A Revenge

Dennis took a firm step forward to approach Raymond and Jesselyn. "Wow, what a surprise to meet you at this party," Dennis said sarcastically to the couple.

"What exactly are you doing here?" Raymond responded, "A driver should just wait outside!" "Driver? Oh, I guess I'll have to re-introduce myself for you two." Dennis extended his hand to Raymond. "I'm Dennis Damara, CEO of Argonius Company," Dennis said.

When Raymond and Jesselyn heard that, they both looked at each other and laughed at the same time. "Haha, looks like this guy has gone insane since you dumped him, honey. So he pretended to be the CEO of the Argonius Corporation. I really don't want to," Raymond stated.

"Perhaps he's drunk or just crazy," Jesselyn responded. Jesselyn turned to face Lewis, who stood behind Dennis, "Hi, Father-in-law! Oops! I meant ex-father-in-law! What brought your crazy son here? You should have taken him to a mental institution instead of this party."

"Mrs. Jesselyn, please speak to Mr. Dennis politely," Lewis said. "What? Mr. Dennis? Is it possible that I misheard? Do you called your own son as Mr. Dennis? Oh, it doesn't appear that your son is the only one who has gone insane, but you two are truly insane," Jesselyn said.

"Mrs. Jesselyn! Please respect Mr. Dennis, who is now the CEO of Argonius Company!" Jesselyn was yelled at by Lewis. Dennis put his hand up to restrain Lewis. "Come on, Lewis, we don't need to explain who we are to them," Dennis said.

"Lewis? Have you also changed your surname from Lukman to Lewis? What a strange father and son!" Jesselyn remarked.

A beautiful woman appeared to approach Dennis. "Hello, are you the new CEO of Argonius Company?" she inquired.

"That's right. My name is Dennis Damara."

"Everyone here, including myself, knows your name, Mr. Dennis. Oh, my name is Bella Cathlin, and I'm the CEO of Kaneesa Beauty, a cosmetics company."

“Oh, Kaneesa Beauty? I’ve heard a lot about your company’s products. Miss Bella, it’s a pleasure to meet you.” “I’m even more honored to know you, Mr. Dennis Damara,” Bella said with a small smile.

Meanwhile, Raymond and Jesselyn exchanged another glance. What does it all mean? Is Dennis Damara really the CEO of Argonius Company? But how is that possible?

“Of course, Miss Bella. I don’t have a party partner tonight, will you be my partner and enjoy this party together?” Dennis asked Bella, winking. Bella’s cheeks flushed even more because she had been teased by the CEO of the famous company. “Oh, I’m flattered,” Bella exclaimed. Dennis extended his hand in a dignified manner, which Bella Cathlin immediately greeted. They walked away, leaving Raymond and Jesselyn to enjoy a feast in another corner.

Meanwhile, Lewis appeared to smile cynically at Jesselyn. “From now on, never look down on Mr. Dennis. Because the entire world worships him, if you despise him, the entire world will blaspheme you! I’m so glad that you’re leave him! Congrats on your new partner, I hope you more happier with him,” Lewis sneered before he joining Dennis. Jesselyn’s jaw tightened as he heard Lewis’ words, and his hands clenched into fists. “Damn it! How dare he speak to me in that manner? Is he unaware that I am Mr. Raymond’s future wife? ” Jesselyn growled, her eyes already red with rage. “Why are you so quiet, honey? Why don’t you smack that crazy old man across the face?” Jesselyn went on to Raymond.

While Raymond’s gaze remained fixed on Dennis and Bella, “I’m still perplexed by everything. How could that dreadful driver ever become CEO?” Raymond muttered something. 1

“He’s got to be lying, honey! He must be bragging just to appear to have won in front of us! Let’s find out the truth and then expose the lie here. Let him be ashamed of himself!” Jesselyn complained to Raymond. “Yeah, Jesselyn, I was thinking the same thing. I know what to do better. Don’t act like you set me up in that manner!” Raymond said something that left Jesselyn became speechless. Raymond faced James, his personal aide. “Learn everything you can about that man!” Raymond’s instructions “Yes, sir.” James quickly retrieved his tablet. When he typed Dennis Damara’s name into G* e, dozens of articles about the new CEO of the Argonius Company appeared, which surprised James. “Sir... that’s true, he is the new CEO of the Argonius Company, and he is Mrs. Berlin’s only grandson, who went missing decades ago. He is also the sole heir to Mrs. Berlin’s entire estate,” James explained to Raymond. Raymond immediately paled upon hearing that. He couldn’t believe it, but all of the articles on the internet explained Dennis Damara’s identity in such detail that Raymond couldn’t deny it. “Dear? Who exactly is Mrs. Berlin?” Jesselyn, still perplexed, continued to question Raymond. “Mrs. Berlin is the owner of the Argonius Company, and she is also an investor in many large corporations around the world,” Raymond explained. “But she’s not that much wealthier than you, is she?”

“Oh my goodness, Jesselyn! Please don’t ask stupid questions! Mrs. Berlin’s class is already world-class, whereas my knowledge is still limited to this country. Please don’t compare me with her!” Raymond said. Jesselyn fixed her gaze. “Does that mean that the poor driver is now much richer than you?” “Please don’t say anything else. That is starting to irritate me. This is an affront to me. How is it possible that my ex-driver is now wealthier than I am?”

“It’s not just for you, honey. However, it is also for me,” Jesselyn responded.

That night’s party felt awful for Jesselyn and Raymond. They were both burned while everyone else was having a good time at the party. Jesselyn couldn’t take her gaze away from Dennis and Bella, who were standing a few meters away. Jesselyn’s heart swelled when she saw Dennis affectionately embrace the beautiful girl. ‘Oh, you’ve got the heart to hurt me.’ We haven’t even divorced yet, but you’re already with another woman. You pretend to be a poor man as long as you are my husband. You immediately demonstrated your superpowers after being separated from me. ‘What does it all mean, Dennis?’ Jesselyn’s heart continued to race as she suspected her ex-husband had duped her. Jesselyn also saw Dennis bid farewell to Bella in the lobby before leaving the party. “Good night, Ms. Bella. See you next time,” Dennis said. “I’m going to miss you after this,” he added quietly in Bella’s ear. Bella gave a shy smile. “I think I missed you more, Mr. Dennis,” Bella said quietly in Dennis’ ear. After a gentle touch on Dennis’ chest, Bella entered the car that had been prepared by the driver and his aide. Dennis waved his hand away from the lovely and intelligent young lady.

Dennis turned around to see Jesselyn and Raymond, who were also on their way home. “Do you want to go home, Mr. Raymond and Mrs. Jesselyn? Then be cautious on the road. Good night and rest well.” Dennis made a sarcastic remark.

Raymond moved forward a few steps to block his former driver. The two men locked their gazes on each other. “You might feel triumphant tonight, poor driver! But the next day, I’ll make certain you get your lose, “Raymond raged.” Dennis actually smiled cynically in response. It doesn’t appear that will happen. In reality, the opposite will occur. Prepare for an even more humiliating defeat after this, Mr. Raymond.” This is only the beginning of my vengeance against you two,” Dennis replied.

Raymond’s fists clenched. He was about to punch Dennis in the face, but Dennis had already entered his luxury car. Raymond could only hit a pole in the lobby in the end. He snorted, “Shit!”