

Chapter 103 Betrayal

To Lin Fang's offer, Chu Xiaoxiao snorted, "No need. Even if I had to beg on the streets, I'll never sell out my dignity. Besides, those weren't your money, those were Chen Yuzhou's money. I don't need the money you got from selling your own soul, and I won't use a single bit of it even if you shoved them in my face.

Berated so utterly, Lin Fang stared wordlessly at Chu Xiaoxiao. Never before had Chu Xiaoxiao spoken so harshly to her.

Suddenly, she walked forward and slapped Chu Xiaoxiao. At this, I couldn't stand this any longer. I stepped in and cut myself in between the two of them, and pushed her away from Chu Xiaoxiao, "What do you think you're doing!?"

It wasn't a hard slap. It didn't even leave a mark on Chu Xiaoxiao's soft skin, but I knew it hurt her heart more than anything else in the world.

Lin Fang said, "It's... it's her! What she just said was over the line!"

"And what you did isn't? Things between us aside, Chu Xiaoxiao has always treated you like her best friend, and you also know just how much she has done and sacrificed for you. And, this is how you repay her? This is how you treat your friends!? How could I never see what a selfish person you are!?"

Lin Fang stared with her wide pretty eyes, at me, as if this was the first time she knew me.

She didn't expect that I would stand up for Chu Xiaoxiao, against her.

I really didn't want to have anything to do Lin Fang anymore. This time round, I lost. Against Chen Yuzhou, and against Lin Fang. The only thing I wanted to do was to get as far away from this place as possible. But, hearing what she said to Chu Xiaoxiao, and seeing what she did to her, I couldn't stand it anymore.

Chu Xiaoxiao always thought of what was best for Lin Fang, in everything that she did. Starting right from the beginning, even when she stopped me from approaching Lin Fang, it had been Chu Xiaoxiao looking out and thinking of what was best for her best friend. After getting to know me, after she was sure that I wasn't a good for nothing thug only ogling after her best friend's body, she supported me. She thought of everything for her, down to even the smallest things.

And yet, Lin Fang wasn't satisfied even with such a friend, but even fantasized about Chu Xiaoxiao being jealous of her.

I never thought, I never saw, that Lin Fang was such a person. The way she thinks and what she believes to be was so unfamiliar and foreign to me that I felt fearful of her, and disgusted. It was as if the entire world has wronged her, and that she was the only one that could ever be right out of the entire world.

Wanting to act like man, Chen Yuzhou stepped up to me too and shoved at me, telling me to stay away from her.

I said, "You can rest assured sitting on your disgusting butt, I'll make sure to stay well clear from this woman from now on."

Chu Xiaoxiao said, "Let's go, I don't want to waste any more time on them anymore."

But Chen Yuzhou's face darkened, "Who said you can leave?"

With that, he clapped his hands, and very soon, coming from the direction of the hallway was a series of loud noises and curses. Then, the door burst open, and in came Jin, with one of his arms hanging loosely in a stirrup hanging from his shoulder, holding a baseball bat in the other. After him, more people swarmed inside. Altogether, they had about 30 people with them.

The people at the Spring Garden never expected something like this would happen. One of the waitresses even screamed when one of Jin's brutes shoved her aside as she was in the middle of serving food to a table.

Taking point, Jin took hold of a table and flipped it right over. Everything on it fell and spilled, and all who sat on that table fled to the side of the room, as far away from them as possible.

Seeing me again, Jin's eyes almost spewed fire. Him and I, we go way back. In fact, I was the one who gave him that gift that was his broken arm.

And as for Huang Hua, one moment he was still cowering in fear towards me, the moment he saw Chen Yuzhou's people came in, he was gloating lively again, taking glee in my predicament.

I stepped forward and shielded Chu Xiaoxiao from their sight, but instead of staying put, Chu Xiaoxiao swiped a metal stool by one of its legs in her hand, and pointed the other end at Chen Yuzhou, "You set this ambush on us?"

Chen Yuzhou shrugged, "There must be some misunderstandings here. My brother Jin here simply have some personal score to settle with Zhang Chao, and it has nothing to do with me. Don't go blaming your own troubles on me now."

On Jin's face was a pure look of seething anger. Now that I looked at it a little closer, that arm of his still looked as though it was sticking out strangely at.

I smiled at him, "So, still wasn't able to find a good doctor in Tong City even now, our dear brother Jin?"

He probably never expected that I would bring this up myself, and even forgot to do his introduction that he does every time. He pointed his baseball bat at me, its tip trembling in rage, and after a while of awkward silence, all he managed was a loud, "Get him!"

With that, those men he brought with him all came with me at once, like ferocious tigers, just like in cheap B-rated kung-fu movies.

I planted one foot on a stool, flicked it up in the air, then kicked it at the two men that took point in the charge. It flew horizontally and hit them squarely in the nose, and immediately the two of them were reduced to rolling around on the floor yelping in pain.

Jin laughed viciously, "Pretty tough aren't you? Then let's see if you can outlast all of us. Little ones, all in! There is only one of him!"

Chu Xiaoxiao said to me, "This is bad, they were prepared."

Of course I knew that they've set up this gig. Obviously, the Black Dragons were already lying in wait for me outside the Spring Garden, even before we came. On one hand he could put Chen Yuzhou in his debt by doing this as a favor to him, and on the other he could settle his personal score with me. Really, after this, I really should get a feng-shui specialist to come and check this place out. For some reason, all the thugs and mobs seemed to really like my Spring Garden. If they do this every time they come, I'm going to have a hard time balancing the profits with the repair expenses and increased insurance premiums.

Smiling, Chen Yuzhou took a step back and sat back down, with a small plate of nuts. Looking at us, he took a piece and threw it into his mouth.

Seeing so many terrifying people, and even more of them flooding in through all the exits, Lin Fang was finally frightened, truly frightened, as she pleaded with Chen Yuzhou to let us go.

"No matter what's said and done, Zhang Chao was still one of our classmates. Please, just call this off and let him go this one time?"