

Chapter 89 Fiance

“Hey, why do you get nosebleeds this easily? Don’t tell me that you’re even more of a little virgin boy what I thought you were?”

I turned my face away to the side, ignoring her, and then she walked around to my side, popping back into my sight. I turned my face to the other side, and again, she circled around and popped back into my sight again.

“You, are, such, a, cute, little, boy! Let me tell you, cute little virgin boys are stuff of legends...!”

I’m sorry. I was wrong. I was so wrong. Why did I ever agree to bring her with me? I must be wrong in the head. Like, really, really wrong in the head.

Then all of a sudden, a faint bell chime caught my attention, and at once I was thrust into full alertness.

I held onto the hands that Chu Xiaoxiao reached out to pinch my face, and told her in a serious tone to keep her voice down.

“You just want to change the subject. Why didn’t I hear anything...?” Chu Xiaoxiao said.

I covered her mouth with my hand, “Shush, let’s go.”

Seeing that I didn’t look like I was joking, Chu Xiaoxiao stopped fooling around with me and nodded quietly.

I put my baseball cap back on, and Chu Xiaoxiao once again got herself fully dressed and capped, and followed behind me as we quietly sneaked out of Lu Tong’s office into the dark.

“Help!”

Coming out of the office, immediately we heard a loud cry for help. Chu Xiaoxiao was startled at first, but she quickly regained composure and followed behind me with quick steps. Having one of the stilettos on her heels broken didn’t seem to affect her walking speed at all.

“Is that Chen Yuzhou!?” Chu Xiaoxiao let out a stifled gasp, and pointed her finger at a figure hanging upside down from the ceiling by a rope.

By now, Chen Yuzhou had seen us as well. Hanging upside down from the ceiling, with all his blood rushing to his head, his eyes reddened like an angry beast.

“So it’s you, Zhang Chao! It’s you!”

Chu Xiaoxiao asked, “What’s going on, why is he hanging upside down from the ceiling?”

I dragged two chairs from a nearby lounge, and set it and sat down on one of them squarely before him. Looking at the upside down Chen Yuzhou, I replied playfully, “Because he deserves it.”

“You did this! You set a trap and did this to me!”

“And you wouldn’t have fallen for it if you didn’t deserve it. Why are you here at our company so late at night? Our visiting hours are long since over. Oh, and what’s with all those petrol and that lighter over there? Thinking of having a bonfire party tonight?”

When Chu Xiaoxiao heard what I said, she ran and flicked on the light switch, and finally saw all the bottles of petrol and lighter scattered on the floor below him. She yelled angrily at him, “Chen Yuzhou, are you even human still? Or have you sold your soul to the devil already? Your little immature trash stunt was disgusting enough as it is, and now you even want to burn our company down to the ground!? If Zhang Chao hadn’t anticipated it and made everyone go home early, are you just going to burn all of them down along with the building too!?”

I said, “I hadn’t anticipated what he would do exactly, but I knew that killing isn’t beyond him. He killed a pregnant woman and her child while she is giving birth to the child, what else wouldn’t he do?”

“Don’t even try to pin that on me. That filthy whore’s death had nothing to do with me!”

I said, “You, your father, same difference. Just because you didn’t dirty your hand with her blood physically in person doesn’t mean that you didn’t kill her. You’re just as guilty of it as your father is.”

Chen Yuzhou wriggled and struggled like a strung up fish, trying to break free of his restraints, but years of alcohol and wanton lust had already taken everything out of his body, and it was frankly quite impossible for him to reach the knot tied around his ankles, being strung up and hung upside down as he is.

After trying for a few times, and failing each time, Chen Yuzhou finally lost it. He yelled at my face in anger, “Do you think you’re that much better than me!? You’re just as dirty! Lin Fang was my woman, and you just came and took her away from me. And now, you even set traps like this to ensnare me, and you did it all on purpose! Just you wait, after I get down, I’ll kill you even if it kills me!”

Chu Xiaoxiao said, “Chen Yuzhou, get your facts straight, Fangfang left you because you’re simply too much of a womanizer. How do you even consider yourself worthy of her? We even saw your fiance today, and I must say, she certainly is a... heavyweight contender for your future wife-to-be. The volume and girth of her... character!”

I expected that Chen Yuzhou would deny it heatedly, but though he opened his mouth, he said nothing as his face became redder and redder, but never once did he deny that claim and said that she wasn’t his fiance.

Knowing Chen Yuzhou like I do, if everything really had been Su Xiaoqiang’s own delusions, Chen Yuzhou would be mad enough to jump up and down and even try to bite me by now, instead of keeping silence like he did now.

And Chu Xiaoxiao knew him better than I do. She asked, in honest surprise, “So, you and that plump little girl, really was engaged? Oh, my, God! Chen Yuzhou, did all your family businesses went bankrupt at the same time and your father pawned you off to her as gigolo!?”

I knew that it was a grim situation, but after words left Chu Xiaoxiao’s mouth, my lips lost guard and a laugh escaped my mouth.

Chu Xiaoxiao’s words did a lot more to him than simple whips and slaps. He looked at me so hard that his eyes were almost dripping blood, as he gritted his teeth tight.

I commented, “Well, though she was a little plump... but hey, who am I to judge?”

“Zhang Chao, after I come down...” He was so mad that his entire body trembled.

Chu Xiaoxiao had the laugh of her lifetime, she was laughing so hard that she couldn’t stand up straight anymore, but when she saw Chen Yuzhou glaring at her as if he was about to rip her apart, even she couldn’t help but shiver a little in fear.

She whispered beside my ear, “Let’s just stop at teaching him a lesson. Hit him around a few time and record it down and blackmail him should do. If we really corner him, he just might get desperate enough to act in complete disregard of consequences. I know that you aren’t afraid of him personally, but Fangfang...”

“Zhang Chao, unless you kill me today, or I’ll definitely come after you after this. You’ll never hear the end of this! This will never be over, until one of us is dead!”

Chu Xiaoxiao frowned and tugged my sleeve lightly, and said with a hint of nervous fear, “Did we maybe go too far?”